PRESIDENT REQUESTED TO SEVER MEXICAN RELATIONS.

EWIS IS IN CONTEMPT.

Union Mine Leader in Court Grip.

Criminal Citations Placed Against Eighty-four Coal Strike Agitators.

Conspiring to Keep Walkout in Force is Government Basis of Action.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—The United States government today invoked the powers of the Federal courts in an effort to end the strike of 400,000 bituminous coal miners of the country.

An information charging criminal contempt of court was filed in the United States District Court against two-score international and district officers of the United Mine Workers, named in the court injunction issued immediately after the strike was called, and requiring their appearance to answer the charges, were issued late today. It is alleged that all of the officers named conspired to keep the strike in force, and thus have violated the terms of the injunction.

Among those cited are President J. L. Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer William Green, Vice President Tellow, statistician, and Ellis Searles, editor of the Mine Workers' Journal, the only officials of the organization in Indianapolis, were ordered of the action and agreed to appear in court tomorrow to furnish bonds fixed at $10,000 by Federal Judge Anderson. Other officials in the jurisdiction of the Federal court here, who include Edward Perry and William Mitch of Illinois, officials of District No. 12, the mine workers, will be cited as soon as possible, and required to appear at 10 o'clock next Monday morning for hearing. Thomas W. Simms, former U. S. District Attorney in charge of enforcement of the injunction, stated today that the proceedings against miners representatives will be pushed and that removal proceedings against the appearance in court of officers who rashly quit their positions will be instituted at once.

JUDGE'S TRICK REVEALED.

Simms announced that proceedings against officers of two locals in Terre Haute, Ind., also would be instituted very soon, charging them directly with violations of the injunction by giving of strike benefits to members. Officials of local No. 1, which is declared, had paid benefits to men, attempting to "camouflage the real nature of the action by stating that they were for overdue dues."

Judge Anderson, he said, drew one check for $1000 and distributed currency among its members. The injunction with the issuance of which benefits Mr Simms again declared, the injunction extends to every man, whether or not a miner, who in any way encouraged the strike and said that banks which honored checks drawn against the benefit fund were liable to contempt.

Mr. Simms said the citations against the men named today were the first in prosecutions against violators of the injunction, and the action might be extended to many more.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT MAKES MEN'S SUITS.

FIRST NATIONAL GARMENTS SEEN ON BOULEVARDS COST ELEVEN DOLLARS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The "national costume," for men, manufactured by the government to combat the increasing price of clothing, made its appearance on the Paris boulevards, December 1, as promised by the authorities.

The suit is not such as to draw the attention of promenaders either by its elegance or its shabbiness, and but for a little strip of linen inside the coat marked "national garment," one would never know that the suit had anything different from others daily turned out of the fashionable tailors' houses.

Wearers of the suits, however, seemed proud to exhibit the suit and inside of the coat to friends and strangers in the cafes and theater lobbies. There is one thing alone in which the national garment differs from others and that is the price, as the suit sells for 110 francs or $11 American money.

"GHOST" IN CHIMNEY PROVES TO BE ALIVE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Occupants of a Ridge street tenement-house were almost correct today when they reported to the police that the groans of a "ghost" had been annoying them for two days.

Detectives, aided by firemen, dug a hole in a chimney on the house and extracted David Cohen, a push-cart peddler, who informed them that business being bad, he had decided to end his life by jumping down the five-story chimney Monday morning. He was taken to a hospital suffering chiefly from hunger and exhaustion.

WHISKY SWINDLE GETS MARYSVILLE BARKEEPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 3.—Three former saloon proprietors of Marysville paid $500 for three barrels, supposed to contain whisky, but holding pure water, Sheriff Charles J. McCoy said today.

The sale was made yesterday by three strangers, who arrived in an automobile and departed the same way, McCoy said, and added that the victims did not intend to prosecute.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Evidently unable to obtain one by any other means a homeless individual today, through a "want ad" in a daily paper, offered a "reward" of $15 for the "discovery" of an unfurnished five or six-room flat with rent under $70, wherein he could domicile himself before the first of the year.

Smilingly Gives an Eye to Make Merry England Dry.

William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson,

American prohibition worker and organizer for the Anti-Saloon League, snapped in a London hospital after removal of an optic hopelessly injured in "rough-housing" to which he was subjected by a British mob bent on preserving its booze, November 18, when he was dragged through the streets of the world's largest city after being pulled from the platform from which he was advocating a dry world.

WILL RAISE FUND FOR "PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON.

RECENT ENEMY OF DRY LEADER IN ENGLAND STARTS IT "AS TESTIMONIAL."

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 3.—William E. Johnson, the now famous "Pussyfoot," has lost an eye, but gained a sympathetic public. The American prohibitionist, it is safe to say, has today a firm place in the affections of the British people, in strong contrast with the almost universal antipathy his name inspired less than two short weeks ago.

This sudden reversal in fame is due to two things—first, the loss of one of his eyes in a rough and tumble scrap with a crowd of students who tried to mob him Thanksgiving Day, and second, the good old-fashioned fight he put up with these obstreperous students. There was injury to more than one eye as a consequence, although Johnson's was the one to suffer the most.

"Pussyfoot" has also gained thousands of friends where before he had as many enemies by his good-natured and phlegmatic manner in regarding his injury. He is a philosopher and can smile yet, as a photograph taken of him after his injury, indicates. As an intimation that his fight is still to go on, he says he thinks he is probably as good a man with one eye as two.

The Evening News, which opposed prohibition and tried to make a laughing stock of Johnson, has opened a testimonial fund for him, heading the list with £100. In its announcement it says that money cannot replace a lost eye, but it can help show admiration for "a white man."

MISSOURI TO SEIZE MINES.

Governor Orders Troops to Barton Field and will Begin Production.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) Dec. 3.—The State of Missouri will take over and operate the strip coal mines of Barton county, Gov. F. D. Gardner announced tonight. The announcement followed an all-day conference in the Governor's office in regard to the fuel situation in Missouri.

In his statement, Gov. Gardner said:

"The State of Missouri will take over the coal fields of Barton county. The Adjutant-General has been directed to proceed to Barton county, assume command of the troops on the ground, take charge of the coal fields and represent the State in the operation of the mines.

"An opportunity will be given the miners in the Barton-county field to return to their work at the union scale they were receiving prior to the strike, plus the 14 per cent. authorized by the Federal government.

"The humane and patriotic action of the miners at Trenton, Mo., who returned to work yesterday because, regardless of the merits of the controversy, they did not propose to see their fellow-citizens freeze and starve, is called to the attention of the miners in this State.

"In the event the miners decline to resume work, the State Labor Commissioners will be ordered to secure the labor necessary to man the mines.

"The people of Missouri are confronting a situation fraught with possibilities, the gravity of which cannot be too strongly stated. The inmates of our hospitals, State sanatoriums and penal institutions cannot be held to starve and freeze like rats in a cage and the doors of these institutions cannot be opened and the helpless insane and the criminal charges of the State turned loose upon the public. Our courts, State, municipal and county departments cannot be closed and the business of the people of the State brought to a standstill. To close down the municipal light, water and heating plants would mean a condition of anarchy in this State."

SEND TROOPS TO OKLAHOMA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3.—Two companies of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, negroes, at Columbus, N. M., and a squadron of the Thirteenth Cavalry, at Fort Clark, Del Rio, Tex., were ordered by Maj.-Gen. Joseph Dickman tonight to proceed to Oklahoma for duty in guarding volunteer coal miners. The troops are expected to entrain Thursday.

CHEYENNE, Nov. 3.—Wyoming today faced the possibility of volunteer mining of coal under troops' protection. Calls were issued for ex-service men to mobilize at Fort D. A. Russell, near here, for this purpose, and at the same time additional troops were sent from here to protect miners who wish to work.

A detachment of Federal troops was sent to Hanna, where miners are idle.

Further decreases in the number of men working in the Rock Springs district also developed today. In the Hudson district 50 per cent. of the miners returned to work today and one-fourth of the mines are operating.

Gov. Carey left today for Denver to confer with Governors McKelvie of Nebraska and Shoup of Colorado regarding rationing of coal.

INDIANA MINE BLAST KILLS SIX

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLINTON (Ind.) Dec. 3. — Six men were killed and three seriously injured in an explosion at Bogle coal mine No. 3 at Jacksonville, late today. All were either mine officials or office employees, who, in attempting to get out sufficient coal for the boilers, set off a badly-prepared blast. The mine has been closed by the strike.

The mine was not badly damaged by the explosion, and little difficulty was encountered in removing the injured and the bodies of those killed.

OPERATORS AGREE ON WAGE SCALE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representatives of the nation's larger coal mining corporations today reached an agreement upon a new wage scale for mine workers, after an all-day session here. It will be submitted to the Fuel Administration for ratification tomorrow. It embodies, it was said, a little more than the 14 per cent. increase suggested by Fuel Administrator Garfield as the government proposal for dealing with the strike, which the miners rejected.

Meanwhile, the operators were watching developments at Indianapolis, where the Federal court cited eighty-four general and district officials of the United Mine Workers for contempt of Federal Judge Anderson's order calling off the strike.

Continued optimism in official circles was marked, although production figures showed no increase.

Nation is Virtually Minus Head.

Lansing is Sole Arbiter of Intricate European State Affairs.

Stricken President is not Consulted on Mexico or Coal Strike.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The government of the United States today, due to President Wilson's prolonged and serious illness, is being directed by the members of the Cabinet, and two auxiliary officials created by war-time legislation.

Although the President has been consulted by the Cabinet once or twice since his collapse late in September, it is a fact that he has seen but one member of his Cabinet in all that time, and he was not consulted regarding determination of the policy in the coal strike, nor with respect to the present critical negotiations with Mexico.

It may be stated authoritatively that the conduct of negotiations with the Carranza government over the abduction and subsequent imprisonment of Consular Agent Jenkins was framed by Mr. Lansing, Secretary of State, without any consultation with the President, and that it was approved by Mr. Lansing's Cabinet colleagues without having been submitted to the Chief Executive.

COAL CRISIS BY CABINET.

In the matter of formulating a final policy for dealing with the coal strike, after operators and miners had been unable to reach an agreement, the Cabinet acted without consultation or advice from the Executive. During the time that this important subject was before the Cabinet, Walker D. Hines, Director-General of Railroads, and Dr. Harry A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, participated in the conferences in an advisory capacity. Mr. Garfield, however, acted in much more than an advisory capacity really, because it was his decision that the miners should be offered no more than a 14 per cent. increase in wages, and in pressing this decision upon the Cabinet he succeeded in overturning a recommendation for a 31 per cent. increase made by Secretary of Labor Wilson, a regular member of the body which is now running the government.

Of course, Dr. Garfield and Director-General Hines had no vote in the executive proceedings of the Cabinet, but their influence in favor of the 14 per cent. wage increase had great weight with the President's advisers who, after many hours of deliberation rejected the suggestions of the President's own Secretary of Labor.

These two illustrations, the case of the coal strike and the present Mexican diplomatic disturbance, furnish the most striking instances of Cabinet government of the United States since the President became incapacitated for transacting the duties of his office.

So far as routine matters of government are concerned the head of each executive department takes care of himself, just as he ordinarily would even with the President in good health and with his hand on the government throttle. In some cases where a matter of general government policy has been involved, department heads have asked for advice from their Cabinet colleagues, but these instances have been few.

LANSING AT HELM.

The nation's involved foreign relations are being handled exclusively by Secretary Lansing and the State Department staff. So far as can be learned none of the negotiations with the American peace commissioners at Paris has been called to the President's attention since he was stricken. Secretary Lansing recently admitted that, so far as the government's foreign relations were concerned, he was acting virtually as the President of the United States.

As to the coal strike and the enforcement of the policy determined upon last week, its direction is in the hands of a trimuvirate, Atty.-Gen. Palmer is charged with enforcement of the law and whatever action may be taken to prosecute offenders against the Federal injunction. Distribution of coal in accordance with regulations emanating from the Fuel Administrator is directed by Mr. Hines of the Railroad Administration, but all orders for restriction of coal consumption or steps which might be taken regarding enforced operation of the mines by the government must

THE LATEST FROM MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Dec. 2.—Shipments of modern rifles and of machine guns are reaching the rebel forces in Mexico, according to reports that reached the border today. After a band of insurgents had been routed near Tochimilco, Puebla, recently, the rebels left behind a small cannon and two machine guns, all three of modern type.

MEXICO CITY, Tuesday, Dec. 2.—The solution of difficulties arising out of international affairs with the United States were instrusted to President Carranza without legislative intrusion by the Senate at a secret session here today. Relations with the United States were declared during the session as being "very delicate."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The American note to Mexico renewing the request that William O. Jenkins, American Consular officer at Puebla, be released, was delivered to the Mexican Foreign Office, December 1, the State Department was advised today by the American Embassy at Mexico City. The Mexican Foreign Office announced late Monday night that it had not received the note.

ELEVEN CENTS A DAY FOR FOOD, SAYS WILEY.

CORNMEAD MUSH AND MILK SUSTAIN LIFE AND ARE HEALTHY, EXPERT CLAIMS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Cost of food need not add to the terrors of the high cost of living. Every man can live well on 11 cents a day.

This was the assertion of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief chemist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at a banquet given by the City Business Club in the Hotel Adelphia.

Cornmeal mush and plenty of it is the solution to the high cost of eating problem, according to him. Skill applied to the "industry of eating" will bring down its costs, he declares.

"Eating is an industry in which there are fewer skilled laborers than in any other," he told the guests after all had shown considerable skill at eating a sumptuous menu."

"If we were really skilled in eating we could lengthen our lives by many years by the proper selection of our food. We could add fifteen years to a child's life if it were properly fed during its childhood."

Referring to a statement he made some time ago that a person could live well on 15 cents a day he said he had made a mistake. "Any man can live well on 11 cents a day," he said. "A pound of cornmeal a day, at the rate of $150 a bushel would amount to 3 cents, and added to this 8 cents worth of milk to give sufficient nourishment."

OIL PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SHREVEPORT (La.) Dec. 3.—The Standard Oil Company today posted an increase of 25 cents per barrel on all grades of Louisiana oil, making the prices in the various fields as follows: Caddo, light, $2.50; Caddo, heavy fuel, $1; Homer, $2.50; De Soto, $2.40, and Red River, $2.

CARRANZA IS REDS' AIDE.

Incites Anarchy in United States.

Grave Charges Made by Fall Against Southern Rules in Senate.

Resolution is Introduced Demanding Withdrawal of Recognition.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Wilson was requested, in a resolution introduced today in the Senate, to sever diplomatic relations with Mexico.

The resolution was offered by Senator Fall of New Mexico, who, as chairman of a subcommittee investigating the Mexican situation, declared evidence had been found which "would astound the world." It also asked that the President would withdraw recognition of the Carranza government.

Senator Fall boldly charged that the Mexican Embassy, the consulates-general in New York and San Francisco, and the consulates along the border, with the knowledge and consent of President Carranza, had been actively engaged in the spreading of Bolshevist propaganda in the United States. Evidence, it was said, would be forthcoming to bear out the charge.

By this resolution, which was sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for consideration tomorrow, the whole Mexican problem, admittedly grave in view of the refusal of the Carranza government to release Consular Agent Jenkins from the penitentiary at Puebla, will be put before Congress.

Senator Fall's resolution follows:

THE RESOLUTION.

"Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that the action taken by the Department of State in reference to the pending controversy between this government and the government of Mexico should be approved; and further that the President of the United States be and he is hereby requested to withdraw from Venustiano Carranza the recognition heretofore

VILLA REPORTED CAPTIVE.

Famous Mexican Rebel Said to Have Been Betrayed by His Own Men.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) Dec. 3.—Francisco Villa has been captured by a force of his own men and is being held for a reward from the Mexican government, according to advices received here late today by Supt. Caballero of the Chihuahua division of the National Railways of Mexico.

Two Villa rebels are reported to have presented themselves at the Federal headquarters at Parral and notified the commander there that Villa had been captured, and was being held for surrender to the Carranza forces. The State of Chihuahua has already offered 50,000 pesos as a reward.

Details of the bandits' demands have not been learned here as yet, but it is known that a detachment of Federal forces has been sent from Parral to the spot indicated by the two deserting Villa rebels.

Caballero, who received the news, is in Juarez on an inspection tour, accompanying Col. Paulino Fontes, Director-General of the National Railways of Mexico.

EL PASO, Dec. 3.—Reports of the capture of Francisco Villa, Mexican rebel leader, near Parral, were received in certain quarters here with some degree of doubt.

It was pointed out that the insurgent chieftain is too wily and has his men under too great control to permit any of them to desert under the circumstances given in the earlier reports. It was not believed that the "Attila of the North" would allow himself to be trapped in so simple a way.

Carranza officials on both sides of the river, however, took a more hopeful view. They asserted, for one thing, that the recent elimination of Gen. Felipe Angeles, Villa's right-hand man, would be likely to convince Villa's followers of the utter hopelessness of their cause. Great stress was laid in these circles on what was termed the energetic campaign against Villa that has been waged against the insurgent in the north by Gen. Manuel M. Dieguez, Federal commander of military operations in the north.

It also was argued that the reward of 50,000 pesos, recently offered by the State of Chihuahua, would be likely to act as an incentive to some of his followers to surrender their chief.

Mexicans on the border expressed strong belief tonight that the capture of Villa, if confirmed, will do much toward relieving the situation that exists between the American and Mexican governments.

GALVESTON (Tex.) Dec. 3.—Five thousand picked Mexican cavalrymen, in five divisions, are in hot pursuit of Villa, according to a statement by Mexican Consul Pierro, who said he received this information today.

The men are under command of Gen. Dieguez, and have orders to apprehend him, dead or alive.

The massacre of a regiment of Federal troops by Villistas, recently reported from El Paso, is declared false by the Consul.

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 3.—Orders have been issued by Villa for the execution of all Carranza officers and men that are captured by his forces, according to advices received here today. This action has been taken as a reprisal for the recent execution of Villa's chief ally, Gen. Felipe Angeles, it is said.

The first important Federal officer to suffer this fate was Maj. Leon Castro, who was operating in the State of Durango, under orders of Gen. Gabriel Gavira, formerly commander at Juarez. The Villa officer immediately responsible for the execution of Castro was Salvador Quevedo.

Villa is planning a new campaign in Chihuahua and Durango shortly, and accordingly the Federal garrisons in these two States have been reinforced, according to reports here.

accorded by the United States as President of the Republic of Mexico and to sever all diplomatic relations now existing between this government and the pretended government of Carranza."

The latest note from the State Department calling for immediate release of Jenkins was laid before the Mexican government Monday. Word to this effect reached the department today but there was no intimation as to when an answer might be expected.

An early report on the Fall resolution is expected and this will put the question squarely before the Senate, aroused to a high pitch by recent murders of Americans in Mexico and treatment of the American consular agent.

While Senator Fall did not indicate the exact nature of his evidence it was said he had obtained photographic copies of correspondence which would show clearly secret operations of the Mexican President and his representatives in this country.

There also was introduced in the Senate a resolution by Senator Ashurst, Arizona, authorizing the Secretary of War to use the nation's forces for protecting its people on their own side of the border. For eight years, Senator Ashurst said, he had been waiting for the army to protect American rights along the border and he felt the time had come for action.

MEXICAN FLARE-UP.

In the House there was a flare-up of the Mexican situation, Representative Caldwell, New York, declaring it was so bad that before many days the country might be at war. Since opening of the session there had been indications that Congress would take the Mexican bit in its teeth, demand the release of Jenkins and protection of lives of Americans in that country, but the resolution requesting the President to break off relations, the next thing to an actual declaration of war, showed action would not be long delayed.

Everywhere the impression prevailed that Senator Fall's committee and officials of the State Department were in close and thorough accord. Before the resolution was introduced, Senator Fall conferred with Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador, who for some months has been handling Mexican affairs at the State Department. The department archives have been opened to the Foreign Relations Committee without reservation, and members of the committee said there existed a complete understanding with the department.

How the Senate might act on the proposal for an open break with Mexico was not altogether clear tonight, but it was said that Republicans would vote almost solidly for it, and that they would have some Democrats as supporters.

Senator Shields, Tennessee, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, speaking from the floor when the resolution was offered, declared "the United States had had occasion to declare war against Mexico for the last five years."

When word reached the House that there might soon be an open rupture with Mexico, members said it had long been expected, and there were reports that Republicans in the House would vote for the resolution when it goes there for action.

Chairman Lodge of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee late today called a special committee meeting for tomorrow to take action on the Fall resolution and any other question arising from the Mexican situation.

DEMOCRATS HOLD OFF.

After a conference late today with Secretary Lansing, Senator Hitchcock, acting Democratic leader, said he did not know what the attitude of the Democrats would be, although he indicated the resolution in its present form might be opposed because there appeared to be no precedent for withdrawing recognition under similar circumstances.

All "the information the government has on Mexico will be at the disposal of the Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow, it was said.

About the time dispatches from the border were received here with reports that Villa had been captured, the Mexican Embassy sent word that it was giving out a statement and there was a rush to get it. The statement contained a dispatch from Hilario Medina, Sub-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, saying that Jenkins was not immune from arrest because of his official connection with his government.

The Embassy had nothing to say about the proposal to ask the President to hand Ambassador Bonilas his passports.

The new development, coming after a week of impatient waiting by the State Department, temporarily relegated the Jenkins case to a place of minor importance, but it was his arrest that mainly brought about the latest upturn.

Reports yesterday from Mexico City that a British subject seized by bandits had been released quickly on demand of the British authorities did not serve to soften the feeling in official circles, especially as everybody recalled that Great Britain never had recognized the Carranza government.

There were other reports that Carranza had assumed a defiant attitude and was not disposed to accede to the American request for immediate liberation of Jenkins. The personal part Carranza is alleged to have taken in dissemination of Bolshevist propaganda and the active part radicalism had had in his own government are viewed with grave concern and back of all is the great mass of information concerning the murder of scores of Americans and other outrages in recent years.

There was much discussion among Senators and Representatives as to what would happen in event the Fall resolution was passed and ignored by the President. While declining to express their views on the subject, some members intimated it might force even more severe steps by Congress.

RED BOOK IN EVIDENCE.

A part of the evidence to which Senator Fall referred in his charge was the distribution of a book by Arthur Thomson, an Australian, entitled "The Conspiracy Against Mexico." Information that has reached the Senate subcommittee is regarded as proof that the booklet, which is a defense of the soviet form of government, was distributed by the diplomatic and consular officers of Mexico, and at the direction of the Mexican President.

Thomson's book declares that there is a conspiracy to bring about armed intervention in Mexico, is "plainly evident to all who even in a very superficial manner have studied the facts."

Although other governments come in for condemnation as party to the plot to seize Mexico, the weight of the attack is placed on the United States. It is charged that ever since Porfirio Diaz was driven out of power "the United States government has threatened intervention."

Criticism of President Wilson is freely made.

"One of the schemes of the interventionists," the book says, "is to try to make people believe the present constitution of Mexico, known as the constitution of 1917, is in no way related to the constitution of 1857, but is a new one, framed mainly with the purpose of confiscating all property supposedly belonging to foreigners, Americans in particular. The constitution of 1917 . . . was written with the blood and tears of the oppressed and exploited peons of Mexico, and it is without doubt the most democratic and humanitarian document in the Western Hemisphere; in fact, outside of soviet Russia, no country in the world has taken such a step toward real liberty."

Argument is offered to support the position that Mexico has every right to declare all property of a public nature, "land, mills, mines, oil and other mineral deposits," subject to "nationalization" or "socialization."

The right of foreigners owning property to protest is ridiculed.

WOULD USE MILITARY ON MEXICAN BORDER.

SENATOR ASHURST OF ARIZONA MAKES ONE MORE ATTEMPT FOR PROTECTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The Secretary of War would be authorized, under a resolution introduced today by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, to use the nation's military forces to protect Americans on the American side of the border who are threatened by the activities of Mexican outlaws or other belligerent factions in the southern republic.

Senator Ashurst said he doubted whether Congress would adopt his resolution, which was referred to the Military Committee, but he added that all he hoped to do was to have "the Senate and House tell the War Department, at least to protect the citizens of the United States that are in the United States. If this is done," he said, "I will have at least punctured the lethargy of the War Department."

The truth about Mexico can no longer be concealed, said Senator Ashurst, adding that he would no longer countenance the government's Mexican policy.

Senator Shields, Democrat, Tennessee, declared the facts were even stronger than stated by the Arizona Senator. This country's relations with Mexico, he said, "constitute the most humiliating chapter of our history."

"There should be some action," he said, adding that the United States had had "occasion to declare war against Mexico for the last five years."

Senator Ashurst declared that for eight and a half years he had sought in vain for action by the War Department to protect the lives of those along the frontier. He accused the government of adopting a supine attitude which had encouraged the Mexicans to believe they could strike with impunity.

Declaring that Mexicans now were gathering on the frontier in such numbers as to appear menacing, the Senator appealed for an adequate mobilization of American forces.

"Let us protect the lives of American citizens within the United States, anyway," he added.

The State Department also was advised today that the Mexican government had ordered an investigation of the killing of James Wallace, an American oil man, near Tampico.

JENKINS NOT EXEMPT, AGAIN ARGUES MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The Mexican Embassy made public tonight a dispatch from Hilario Medina, Subsecretary of Foreign Affairs, reiterating that American Consular Agent Jenkins, under arrest at Puebla, was not exempt from jurisdiction of Mexican courts because of his official position.

WOULD CONTINUE WAR LAW FOR EXPLOSIVES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Extension until June 30 of the war-time law regulating manufacture and sale of explosives was recommended to the Senate today by President Wilson who transmitted a letter from Secretary Lane saying he thought this advisable because of the "present conditions of economic unrest."

FRENCH INTERESTED IN MEXICAN CRISIS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 3.—French newspapers are paying some attention to the Mexican situation, printing the most important of the dispatches dealing with the possibility of military action by the United States. They point out that French investors have about $400,000,000 in Mexican enterprises which are not paying dividends.

TO SHUT OFF COAL TO FOREIGN SHIPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. —Vessels flying foreign flags cannot fill their bunkers with coal in California ports after Friday, the district coal committee of the United States Railroad Administration and Albert Schwabacker, Federal Fuel Administrator, announced today. The step was to be taken, they stated, to conserve the fuel supply for local industries and for American coastwise vessels, but was merely a precautionary measure, there being no immediate danger of a coal shortage in the State.

SENATE VOTES TRADE COMMISSION INQUIRY.

INVESTIGATION WILL COVER ALLEGED RADICALISM AND GENERAL ACTIVITIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Full investigation of the Federal Trade Commission was ordered today by the Senate, without a dissenting vote, on a resolution directing a general inquiry by the Interstate Commerce Committee into the commission's activities and also into charges by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, that some of its employees have been engaged in radical propaganda. Hearings probably will not begin until January, as both Senate and committee are busy with railroad legislation. A subcommittee headed by Senator Watson will be appointed next week, however, to conduct the investigation.

TO QUESTION ITS VALUE.

The resolution provides for an inquiry of wide scope. As originally proposed by Senator Watson, it covered only alleged radical activities of commission employees. As amended by the Senate, however, it authorizes inquiry into as report as to its value as a Federal agency. Chairman Cummins of the Interstate Commerce Committee proposed this amplification of the committee's powers. Protracted hearings are expected to deal in detail with criticism and defense of the commission and its activities, especially in reference to the commission's investigation of the meat packers.

Adoption of the resolution was marked by brief but general criticism of radicalism and propaganda. Senator Watson reiterated his charges that commission employees are active in radical Socialistic efforts.

INQUIRY NOT POLITICAL.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, declared that the political views of Federal employees should not be called into question if the employee properly performed his official duties.

Senators Myers of Montana and King of Utah, both Democrats, asserted that the Socialist group in the United States, known as the "left wing of the Socialist party," was directly connected with the communist movement in Russia and was fostering Bolshevism in this country.

Deportation as a means of disposing of radicals was attacked by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who said it was the duty of the nation, once it had admitted an alien, to deal with him itself. Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, made a plea against too great repression of radical propaganda, declaring repressive methods fostered revolution.

BOLO PASHA'S SECOND MARRIAGE HELD VOID.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Bolo Pasha, although executed nearly two years ago as a traitor, took up the whole day's proceedings in a French court yesterday, when his marriages were discussed.

Although married to Mme. Soumaille, Bolo contracted marriage with Mme. Mueller, a widow with a fortune of several million francs. Mme. Saumaille sued for divorce while Bolo was in La Sante prison, but Bolo countering with a request for annulment, Mme. Saumaille withdrew her divorce suit and the court decided that the marriage, which was contracted in South America, was valid and legal.

The Court of Appeals upheld the judgment of the lower court yesterday, pronouncing the second marriage void.

MILLIONAIRE FATALLY BURNED IN EXPLOSION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—William D. Van Vleck, a wealthy bachelor who lived on Van Vleck street, Montclair, N. J., died at his home late yesterday from shock following burns suffered Thanksgiving Day. While soldering a leak in a can of alcohol the alcohol exploded in his face.

Mr. Van Vleck was born in Brooklyn fifty-four years ago and was the son of Joseph Van Vleck. He had resided in Montclair practically all his life.

He is survived by two brothers, also reputed to be millionaires—Joseph Van Vleck, Jr., a New York architect, and Charles E. Van Vleck. The funeral will be held from Mr. Van Vleck's home tomorrow.

LEGION TO CONFER ON ITS MILITARY POLICY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A special committee of the American Legion will confer in Washington this month with the military and naval committees of the Senate and House of Representatives regarding the Legion's military policy, outlined at the recent national convention, it was announced tonight.

The chief features favored by the Legion include universal military training; a relatively small regular army and navy, and no compulsory military service in time of peace.

come from Dr. Garfield, who is using the Department of Justice and the Railroad Administrative agents, there being no operative machinery left to the Fuel Administration.

Dr. Garfield, in deciding to suggest reduction in consumption of coal, directed the Railroad Administrator to deliver coal to the first five groups of consumers of the government's priority list. Ordinarily the President of the United States would have been consulted in the promulgation of such a statement. In this instance he was not. The law creating the Fuel Administration gave the power to the President of the United States, who appointed Dr. Garfield as his administrative agent for the purpose of carrying out the act.

CONJECTURES RIFE.

Should the peace treaty be ratified or even in the event that Congress should adopt the Lodge peace resolution and the President sign it, Dr. Garfield as Fuel Administrator would be out of a job, and the government's end of the coal crisis would be without a general director. The whole matter would then have to be taken over by the Cabinet, until the President should rally sufficiently to seize the situation himself.

There have been many inquiries from interested persons in all parts of the country as to just how the government is being run and it is in answer to them that the above facts have been assembled here. To sum it all up President Wilson's condition has prompted the members of his Cabinet to disturb him as little as possible. He may be consulted if the emergency requires it, but in recent crucial situations the members of the Cabinet have agreed that it was unnecessary to disturb him, and so far as can be learned the President has been satisfied and given silent approval to the course they have taken.

DEMOCRATS ARE WORRIED.

The President's health is again causing considerable worry among Democratic leaders in Congress. Reports have been in circulation during the last few days that he has had a relapse, but this has been denied at the White House.

It is probable that the origin of the rumors is to be found in the failure of Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, spokesman of the administration in the treaty fight, to see the President when he called at the White House last Saturday to discuss the outlook for the League of Nations covenant in the new Congress.

When mention of these reports was made to White House officials, they called attention to the fact that the President yesterday afternoon, completed the writing of his message to Congress. This, it was asserted, was an indication that the President's mind is clear, and that he is slowly recovering.

Dr. Grayson, the President's physician, advised that he only do as much work on his message as seemed absolutely necessary. The President is understood to have himself made notes in shorthand while reports from the members of the Cabinet, and then to have dictated the text of the message from the notes to Mr. Swem, his personal stenographer.

CAN'T GET HIS ADVICE.

The President's condition, however, is such as to make it inadvisable, in the opinion of his medical attendants, for him to confer with the Democratic leaders in Congress or the members of his Cabinet at this time.

Neither Dr. Grayson nor any of the President's political advisers can give any intimation as to how soon the President will have recovered sufficiently to resume his full activities and appear again in public.

OSBORNE HOPES FOR TREATY AGREEMENT.

CONGRESSMAN BELIEVES THAT CHANGE IN RESERVATIONS MAY BE ACCEPTED.

Speaking at the luncheon of the City Club yesterday, Congressman Osborne reviewed the Senate's consideration of the peace treaty and the League of Nations and expressed the hope that an agreement would be reached by the administration leaders and the covenant's opponents that would bring about adoption of the treaty at an early date.

Mr. Osborne said that, while he favored the League of Nations, he also thought the reservations debated in the Senate should be adopted. As a result of the Senate vote, the treaty is no longer before that body, he said, but it can be resubmitted at any time by the President.

He stated that there was no doubt an agreement could be reached on all the reservations except No. 1, the preamble, and No. 5, which practically negatives Article X, guaranteeing the territorial integrity of all the members of the league. He thought, however, that even this difficulty could be overcome by conferences, and that modification of language in the reservations would make them acceptable to the President.

This was the statement of City Health Officer Parrish to the City Council today.

UNION LEADERS IN COURT GRI

Mr. Simms said, "to continue prosecutions as fast as evidence can be prepared and filed with the men are conspiring by concerted effort keep the strike in force. Refusal return to work, if a miner has of the injunction and the subsequent order of the union officials regarding the strike order, constitutes violation of the injunction, and the government will proceed on this theory regardless of whether officers are guilty of some specific act of encouragement of the strike.

"The government waited patiently while the conference was going on in Washington, hoping some basis for averting the impending disaster consequent on the shortage of coal would be evolved. After the conference, the government directed the operators to reopen their mines and advance wages 14 per cent. The government again waited patiently for some action on the part of the miners looking toward resumption of work. The officials not only failed to make any efforts to bring about an end to the strike, but in numerous statements to the American Press and newspapers, expressed its continuance. During every moment of this period of wanton lawlessness officers of the union have violated the injunction and the government has exhausted its patience."

Today's action will be followed immediately by similar actions against the officers of local unions at Clinton, Ind., who are charged specifically with violation of the injunction by distribution of the strike benefits.

LEWIS HEADS LIST.

Defendants in Indiana, for whom Acting President John L. Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer William Green, both of whom are in Indianapolis, and Edward Stewart and William Mitch of Terre Haute, president and secretary, respectively, of district 11 of the United Mine Workers, proceedings are against all of the miners' officials named in the original injunction proceedings.

Judge Anderson fixed the bond in each case at $10,000. Defendants living outside this Federal district will be served as soon as possible, according to Daniel W. Moran, special U. S. district attorney, in the charge of enforcement of the injunction, and removal proceedings will be instituted at once for their return to Indianapolis on the contempt citations.

NEW OMSK CABINET TO JOIN FACTIONS.

HOPES TO RECONCILE ZEMSTVOS, CZECHS, COSSACKS AND REVOLUTIONISTS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

IRKUTSK, Sunday, Nov. 30.—(Delayed.) The new Cabinet on which the Omsk government bases hopes for a reconciliation with social revolutionsists, the Zemstovs, Czechs and Cossacks, was announced today. Victor Popliaeff will be Premier and also retain the Ministry of the Interior. Serge Tretiakoff is vice-president of the council and also acting Foreign Minister, while P. A. Bourishkine will take the finance portfolio.

The Ministry of War will be filled temporarily by Gen. Khangine, former commander of the Western Army. The Minister of Justice has not been named. The other ministers are the same as in the old Cabinet.

M. Tretiakoff, who is a prominent Moscow industrial, was a member of the Korfsky Cabinet and was imprisoned for several months with the other Korfsky ministers. He escaped and went to Paris, but returned to Russia three months ago as a trade commissioner.

M. Bourishkine was vice-mayor of Moscow and vice-president of all Russian union towns. He arrived from Gen. Denikine's army six months ago and occupied the post of supply commissioner.

M. Tcherven-Vodali, president of the economic council, also ranks as a member of the Cabinet. M. Soukine, former Foreign Minister, will return to Paris.

The breach between Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian government, and the Czechs, growing out of the recent declaration by Dr. Valda Girsa of the Czecho-Slovak national council, to the Allies, declaring that the Czecho-Slovak army would not meddle in Russian politics, promises to be healed, thanks to mediation by members of the Allied diplomatic corps. Girsa, in his statement, asserted the Czechs could no longer maintain the appearance of supporting a regime with which they were not in the slightest sympathy and made allegations of savagery on the part of the Kolchak regime against the people. Kolchak is reported to have contemplated an action which would have rendered the situation untenable.

PORTLAND YARD ISSUES OPEN-SHOP ULTIMATUM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 3.—The Northwest Steel Company will launch the last hull remaining under present contracts next Friday, according to a statement today by Joseph R. Bowles, president.

"If we can get a sane situation in Portland such as existed prior to America's entry into the war, getting open-shop conditions and dealing collectively with our own men through shop committees not influenced by the labor unions, doubtless the steel yards of this city will resume work again, for there is plenty of business available," said Bowles. "But so far as this yard is concerned, unless this can be done, we will complete our government programme and close down."

LAW DEMANDED AGAINST JAPS.

Farmers Ask Governor to Call Special Session.

Would Bar Aliens from Owning California Land.

Oregonians Recommend Legislation of Same Kind.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKDALE, Dec. 3.—A resolution calling upon Gov. Stephens to summon a special session of the Legislature immediately to consider legislation concerning the Japanese in California and to enact laws barring them from owning land in the State, was adopted today by the California Farmers' Co-operative and Educational Union. The action followed a speech by State Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento urging that entry of Japanese into California be forbidden.

The afternoon session of the convention was devoted to consideration of relations of farmers with labor. Thomas Griffin of Modesto, former Assemblyman, urged affiliation between the two classes.

Labor has given up the old idea that higher wages and shorter hours solved their problems, said Daniel J. Murphy, president of the State Federation of Labor, because the cost of living always kept "about five jumps ahead." Nowadays, said Murphy, labor wanted the greatest benefit for all classes.

G. H. Hecke, head of the State Agricultural Commission, spoke on the benefit of co-operation. The Plumb plan for operation of the railroads was presented by Robert Findley.

OREGON WANTS LAWS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

THE DALLES (Or.) Dec. 3.—Speeches urging strong laws against Asiatic immigration featured the sessions here today of the Oregon and Southern Idaho section of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America. Resolutions were introduced and referred to the Resolutions Committee recommending legislation to prevent the acquiring of land by Japanese immigrants in Pacific Coast States.

The Resolutions Committee later will return its recommendations for action by the union. The resolution is expected to urge that appropriate laws, "the more drastic the better," be passed by the Legislature or put on the State ballot limiting absolutely the holdings of Mongolians in Oregon.

Two hundred plates were laid at the annual union banquet tonight at the Hotel Dalles. Five-minute talks by visiting delegates were featured.

John Steven McGroarty, author of Mission Play, says:

"Yes, tell 'em you sold me this dream place of mine and that they will not find your offer too good to be true, but happily surprising."

Harry Carr, formerly editor Times Sunday Magazine, says:

FORMER GERMAN SHIPS MAY COME TO PACIFIC.

SHIPPING BOARD TELLS CALIFORNIA MEN OF DELAY IN REFITTING LINERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Because of the shortage of passenger vessels, and the fact that the refitting of the former German liners will require three months, it will be some time before any new passenger lines can be established between the Pacific Coast and the Orient, Chairman Payne of the Shipping Board told a delegation of Pacific Coast shipping and business men today. He said, however, the board would bend every effort to relieve the situation as quickly as possible.

ORIENT TRADE TRIPLED.

Charles C. Moore of San Francisco, chairman of the delegation, told Mr. Payne that American trade with the Orient was three times as great as that with South America, and that American business was greatly handicapped by the lack of passenger facilities. Practically all of the passenger traffic to the Orient is handled by foreign shipping companies, he said.

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, former American Minister to China and chief spokesman for the delegation, outlined in detail the opportunities in the Orient for American business interests. He said "a two weeks' service should be established as soon as possible."

CHINA TO CO-OPERATE.

There should be a three-route service, he said, which would reach Vladivostok, Kobe, Japan and Manila. Two vessels on each route would be necessary, he said to maintain the sailing schedule, which ordinarily go to foreign bottoms.

It was America's opportunity, he declared, for building up a colossal trade in oriental countries. China, he added, was ready to work closely with the United States in shipping affairs.

Besides the Pacific Coast delegation, business men from Hawaii and the Philippines and government officials in charge of insular affairs were present at the conference.

FOR HEAVIER TAXES ON NORMAL INCOMES.

GLASS SAYS INCREASING SURTAX WOULD ONLY INDUCE EVASION BY BOND-BUYING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Revision of the revenue laws to place a heavier burden of tax on the normal income was urged by Secretary Glass in his annual report today to Congress.

Mr. Glass declared the excess-profit tax provisions of the present law should be eliminated and the revenue thus sacrificed be made up from an increase in the tax on the average income.

Revenue derived from the lower amounts assessed under surtax provisions of the law may well be increased, said Mr. Glass, who added that the topmost amounts listed under these provisions already had passed their usefulness. The only consequence of increasing the tax on the larger sums under the surtax law, he said, would be to drive "possessors of great incomes to invest their wealth in billions of State and municipal securities," which are tax exempt.

The Treasury plan seeks to raise more revenue from incomes above $4000, without attempting to disturb incomes of persons whose salaries barely meet living costs, as any change in that tax would only add a burden on a class unable to bear it.

CONFERENCE FIRST CONSIDERS UNREST.

INDUSTRIAL MEETING TO TRY TO FORMULATE PLAN TO ADJUST DISPUTES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—"Adjustment and arbitration" will be the first subject considered by the second industrial conference. After exhaustive discussion today of the recommendations made yesterday by President Wilson in his message to Congress and of a tentative programme prepared by Herbert Hoover, vice-chairman, assisted by other delegates, the conference decided means for a peaceable settlement of industrial disputes should head the list of work to be done.

The subject will have numerous divisions, including establishment of a permanent tribunal to maintain industrial peace, all of which will be studied from every angle before the final report is ready.

It became evident when the work started today that the conference will require several weeks, at least, to complete the enormous task mapped out. The strenuous pace set in the three first days will be continued up to Saturday night, and next week's programme will depend on how fast the data requested from various government departments can be prepared for the delegates.

The part of the programme already adopted was said to contain the most pressing subjects of the present situation, including collective bargaining, hours of labor and wages.

President Wilson's message to Congress was analyzed by the delegates for subjects to be discussed, and each was given a place, with the subjects proposed by Mr. Hoover. The delegates then debated how far they should go in studying each subject, and selected those on which expert advice or written data were desired.

The Sign of a good Tailor

It's a long jump from London to Los Angeles—

but here we are at last—the tailoring styles of Bond Street and Picadilly have been brought to Broadway—New York's favored styles and clothing craftsmanship will be reproduced for the men of Los Angeles.

But even New York has seldom seen a finer collection of woolens than that which we have ready for you. We scoured the country for the best materials to be had—many patterns were imported—every piece of cloth in our store is of unusual excellence—comparable only to pre-war fabrics. When we tell you that our latest purchase was a $75,000 lot it will give you an idea of the range of colors, designs and weaves awaiting you here.

These materials tailored to your measure with the skill, the care, the artistry, embraced in the famous Everett Standard of custom tailoring, develop qualities of style, fit, distinction, that discriminating men demand in clothes.

Just as Everett materials, Everett Styles, Everett workmanship, command admiration, so the Everett policy of a just price wins approval.

SUITS—OVERCOATS

In these hectic times it is hard to believe that $55 will buy true Quality in custom tailoring. We do not believe in comparative prices but we suggest that you visit some of the better class tailoring shops, see the materials, the workmanship, they offer for $75, $100, $125. Then come to the House of Everett and see what we offer. Make the comparison yourself. You will realize then what $55 will buy in custom tailoring. The House of Everett will eventually be YOUR tailor.

TO DECLARE END OF WAR PERIOD.

Senate Republicans to Push Peace Resolution.

Assert Both Houses will Pass Lodge Measure.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Preparations for speedy action on the Lodge resolution declaring the war formally ended have been made at a conference of Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committe. The resolution will be taken up at a meeting of the entire membership of the Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow. Efforts will be made to report it favorably at once and to push it to a vote.

Senate Republican leaders have been in conference with House Republicans and have been assured that efforts will be made to facilitate its passage there before the Christmas holidays.

Prospects for adoption of the resolution by both Houses are declared tonight.

The measure is to be amended so that it will be a "joint" instead of a "concurrent" resolution, and it will, therefore, be subject to the President's veto. Supporters of the resolution declare the time has come for the President to assume the responsibility for keeping the country in a technical state of war if he chooses to veto the peace resolution.

Senator Hitchcock, the administration leader, declares the Democrats will fight the peace resolution to the last ditch. He predicts it will be a long time before it gets through both houses.

There has been no word from the White House to indicate what course the President will take with regard to the treaty. He has not asked the Senate for permission to withdraw the document, but his spokesmen are confident such a move will be made within the next few days.

The President has held no conferences with Democratic leaders to advise them as to compromises.

GERMANY HEDGING.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 3. — Germany is willing to sign the protocol putting the peace treaty into effect, the moment certain clauses objectionable to her in the protocol are eliminated, Baron Kurt von Lersner, head of the German delegation here, told the Associated Press this afternoon.

When the German plenipotentiary was shown the statement given out this morning that on Monday he had informed Paul Dutasta, secretary of the Peace Conference, that Germany had decided not to sign the protocol, Baron von Lersner said:

"I have full powers to sign the protocol and am ready to sign it at any moment when the question of Scapa Flow is eliminated and referred to The Hague and when there are also eliminated the paragraph relating to the evacuation of Lithuania, which we consider already settled and final; and the paragraph which would permit the invasion of our country by armed forces in times of peace on any trivial pretext."

"We have represented to the Supreme Council," he continued, "what we consider ample proofs that the German government is not responsible for the sinking of the ships at Scapa Flow and yet in order not to delay the final conclusion of peace, we will submit the matter to The Hague tribunal."

The German plenipotentiary pointed out the paragraphs of the protocol to which his government objects were additions to the protocol as provided for in the peace treaty.

This attitude is taken as confirming reports of a sharp reaction in Germany within the last fortnight. Observers of German developments have expressed the view that there has been a complete transformation of the situation in Germany, due to the failure of the United States Senate to ratify the peace treaty.

GERMAN PEOPLE RESIST.

These observers declare that, while the vast majority of Germans, before the Senate's adjournment, desired the peace treaty ratified as soon as possible, they are now supporting the government's attitude in resisting the demands of the Allies for indemnity for the sinking of the German fleet at Scapa Flow, recompense for which was provided in the protocol.

The question upon which the German representatives here, however, appear most sensitive, is the insistence upon the trial of German officers accused of the commission of crimes in France and Belgium.

Thus far, it is stated, no indications have reached Paris of any disposition on the part of the Germans to modify their attitude.

The Supreme Council, it was announced today, addressed a note to Germany, protesting against the increase of Germany's armament, contrary to the provisions of the peace treaty.

The American delegation to the Peace Conference, with most of its personnel, will sail for the United States from Brest next week. The day has not been fixed. The question whether one delegate shall remain to continue participation in the work of the Supreme Council rests, it was said, entirely with the State Department at Washington.

CONSOLIDATE MILLER INHERITANCE SUITS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Consolidation of three cases involving the same issues were ordered today by Superior Judge F. H. Dunne, when the action of the State inheritance tax department to collect the tax of approximately $1,800,000 on the estate of the late Henry Miller came up for hearing. After some testimony had been taken the case was put over for two weeks to permit some slight corrections to be made in briefs.

The case of Nicoll against the State, an action to quiet title, the case brought by the State controller to collect the tax on a deed of trust, and the inheritance tax department's action were the three cases ordered combined. One hearing will suffice to handle all the cases was contended by Hartley F. Peart, attorney for the tax department.

JAPAN ALARMED BY BOLSHEVIKI.

Worried Over Defeats of Kolchak in Siberia.

Would Send Reinforcements to All-Russian Army.

Is Sounding Out United States Regarding Move.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Bolshevik successes against Admiral Kolchak's Siberian forces have alarmed Japan, according to advices received here, and a popular movement to strengthen the Japanese forces in Siberia is taking shape.

The Tokio government is reported moving cautiously, however, and contemplates no change in policy relative to Siberia that is not the outcome of frank consultation with the Entente governments and especially the United States.

Japanese Foreign Office officials have talked with American Ambassador Morris, who only recently returned to Tokio from a tour to Siberia. There have been no formal exchanges between the two governments, however.

The Japanese view is said to be that the situation in Siberia demands readjustment of the relations of the Entente powers which participated in the original military movement into that country. The purposes of that movement were to aid the Czecho-Slovak forces against the pursuing Bolshevist army. Practically that has been accomplished, many thousands of the Czecho-Slovak troops have been repatriated via the United States or the Red Sea. The remainder is awaiting transportation.

PROTECTION OF STORES.

Protection of vast military stores at Vladivostok was another purpose of the Siberian expedition. Most of these stores now have been distributed among Kolchak's forces. A third purpose was the protection of the Siberian railroad, useful only as a link of communication between European Russia and Vladivostok.

Now that it has been cut by the Bolsheviki west of Omsk, some Japanese strategists see no further necessity for guarding what is left.

These purposes were set out in a recent note by Acting Secretary Phillips of the State Department to a member of Congress. As all conditions apparently now have been met, certain elements in Japan are warning their government that complete American withdrawal from Siberia is to be expected, making necessary an early decision by the Japanese government as to the course it will pursue.

AT JAPAN'S DOORS.

Japanese newspapers have declared that the Bolshevik menace is at Japan's very doors in the northern part of Saghalien, in Korea, and that the germs of the disease are in China. An agitation has set in to meet it by increasing the Japanese army of 30,000 in Siberia, but it is declared in well-informed circles that as the expense of such an undertaking, which at best could only insure the safety of that part of Siberia lying eastward of Lake Baikal, would be enormous, Japan would need cooperation by the Entente Powers and especially from the United States if such a policy were adopted.

ESTHONIA-LITHUANIA PACT BELIEVED NEAR.

CONFERENCE AT DORPAT WITH BOLSHEVIKI REGARDED AS STEP TOWARD TRUCE.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DORPAT, Dec. 1 (via Copenhagen, Dec. 2.)—With the delegates arriving for the conference Thursday with the Bolsheviki, it is very likely there will be a truce between Esthonia and Lithuania and the Reds. Both states are mortally tired of the long struggle and want a cessation of hostilities while Lenine comes to some agreement with the world.

The Finnish and Lettish delegates here are not instructed to act, and these states certainly will have no part in the truce. Both are awaiting word from the Allies before reaching a settlement.

DROP PORT QUESTION.

The demands of the Bolsheviki for trade freedom through Esthonian and Letvian ports, which split the recent conference, are not likely to be renewed. It is thought a settlement will be made on some other basis.

Erkki Rejoin, the Finnish delegate in Esthonia, who is here for the university jubilee, probably will remain throughout the conference. He told me today his unofficial opinion was that Finland favors peace with the Bolsheviki, but only when the Allies act.

"It appears now that the best solution of the Russian problem will be to remove the military persuasion and let the people of Russia vote out Bolshevism," the Finn said.

FOR STRONG ALLIANCE.

"A peace pact between the Allies, the Baltic provinces and the Bolsheviki which includes a provision for general elections properly supervised, in the near future, may have better results than conflict. Such a peace should include a strong alliance between the Finns, Esthonians, Letts, Poles and Ukrainians, under which they would be independent of Russia. These countries, if working under such an arrangement, independent of either Germany or Russia, would form a strong buffer between the two nations."

The general opinion here is that the truce between the Reds and Esthonia will be the first step toward the adoption of a peaceful overthrow of the Lenine forces.

NATIONAL COMPTROLLER IN POLITICAL POCKET.

THERE ARE REASONS WHY BOTH PARTIES ARE ANXIOUS TO RETAIN HIM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Bankers of the country who have been wondering whether the transfer of Carter Glass from the post of Secretary of the Treasury to the Senate might change the status of John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, can now be answered.

The legal advisers of the head of the treasury hold that, so long as the Senate does not actually reject the nomination of Mr. Williams as comptroller, he can retain his place as at present under appointment of the Secretary of the Treasury. This he will probably do until the end of the present administration, March 4, 1921. Thereby hangs a tale.

The Comptroller of the Currency, who has full supervision over all national banks, is appointed for a fixed term of five years. He can only be removed through impeachment proceedings. Had Mr. Williams been confirmed, or if, by any chance, he should not be confirmed, his term would last through the next administration which, Republicans feel certain, will be under a Presidential choice of their party.

If the Senate now actually votes to reject the nomination of Mr. Williams, another Democrat would be nominated, and in the nature of things his nomination would have to be confirmed, and he would serve for five years, or through the next administration.

RED CROSS PLAN FOR CRIPPLED CIVILIANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Plans for rehabilitation of civilian cripples were announced today by the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men of New York City, which has trained many disabled service men to become skilled workers and found employment for more than one thousand.

It will continue its activities on a peace-time basis under the name of the Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men. In severing its connection with the institute, which it founded as a war emergency, the American Red Cross has given it $50,000.

The institute founded the first special vocational school for cripples in this country, trained maimed soldiers, sailors and marines to be printers, draughtsmen, jewelers, manufacturers of artificial limbs, typewriter repair men and motion-picture operators.

Trust Me! Try Dodson's Liver Tone! Calomel Harms Liver and Bowels

Read my guarantee! Liven your liver and bowels and get straightened up without taking sickening calomel. Don't lose a day's work!

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—[Advertisement.

Methodist Membership on Decline.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—The Methodist Episcopal church in the United States lost 60,000 members last year, Rev. Edgar Blake, executive secretary of the centenary programme, announced today at the annual convention of the board of home missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

He said the condition was an alarming fact faced by all Protestant bodies, and that other denominations sought to find excuses for it.

NEED AMERICA TO SAVE PACT.

Allies Tremble Lest United States Hold Back.

Germanic Alliance is Likely to be Revivified.

Commission's Stay in Paris Called Significant.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Continued residence at the capital of the peace commission makes plain the reason for the Allies' solicitude that we confirm the peace treaty without amendment and without reservation. The facts follow:

With the assistance of our army and navy the economic pressure of the Entente has obtained a decisive victory over the quadruple alliance. With our assistance the peace table has put over terms of a victory which the vanquished never would have accepted but for pressure by the Americans. Now they find themselves with a peace they cannot preserve without the full force of the American nation.

The present treaty is certain to bear forth; future wars unless the victors can muster sufficient strength to maintain by bayonet a power so strong the chagrined vanquished dare not rise. This power does not exist in Europe, and America must supply it.

EUROPE IN FERMENT.

A glance at Europe shows Germany, though weakened, is sullen and revengeful; Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Hungary are embittered and torn by discord threatening to ferment for many years, with explosive possibilities every month.

Russia is the same imponderable monster as always, and the menace of Bolshevism today may, through a military revolution tomorrow, be the menace of another Tamerlane or Attila.

In Southern Europe, Italy has adopted the daring role formerly held by Austria and denies the southern Slavs access to the Mediterranean. Only the pressure of the Allied governments, including the United States, now holds Serbia and her dependencies from the throat of D'Annunzio.

Europe also is attempting to dismember Turkey in an effort which international diplomats admit is quite beyond their powers.

In the original secret treaty Russia was awarded Constantinople and the shores of the Black Sea; France was given Syria; England, Alexandretta, Palestine and Egype. This arrangement was modified to supply an incentive to enlist the Italians in the war, and a slice was awarded to Italy in the neighborhood of Adana. Greece joined the Allies and has invaded Turkey for many miles.

TURKEY MAY REVOLT.

Turkey threatens to revolt. The motive back of the plan to have the United States adopt a mandate over Armenia and Constantinople is to furnish an American army to help hold down the Turk and secure the European countries in their conquests.

The treaty explained by its proponents in the United States is not a treaty proclaimed on an impressionable public by the European politicians. They expect us to maintain by force the boundaries they put over the peace on.

The American commission has postponed its departure until early next week, in view of the menacing German attitude. Following insistent demands upon Mr. Polk by Premier Clemenceau, supported by the Italians and the British, he has canceled the arrangements by which he would have left Paris Friday with the entire American commission.

The steamship Amerika will be held at Brest until next week, and, if the situation then is such that the American commission cannot leave, the Amerika will proceed, taking home the soldiers on board.

ARMISTICE STATUS.

It is possible Henry White or Gen. Bliss may be left at Paris, as the Germans refuse to sign the protocol. Mr. Polk will surely return to Washington, as he is badly needed at the State Department.

Clemenceau pointed out that if the Germans refuse to sign the protocol, then ratifications of the peace treaty cannot be exchanged and, instead of having a state of peace, there still will be an armistice. The United States is a party to the armistice, despite the fact the Senate did not pass the treaty; therefore, the United States must be represented in the Paris conference while the armistice lasts. Otherwise, if the Germans sign the protocol and treaty ratifications are exchanged the original plan will be adhered to, letting Ambassador Wallace represent the United States on the Supreme Council.

Confirming an earlier dispatch it is learned Clemenceau addressed the White House and Mr. Lansing, urging them not to withdraw the American commission at this time, with the Germans acting ugly.

AMERICANS STAND BY.

The American commission believes the crisis will be reached before Monday next, when Germany will either accept or refuse to sign the protocol finally. It is felt that when the Germans realize the Americans are not deserting the Allies, but will stick with them, if peace is not reached and the armistice continues, they will back down and sign.

News of the delay in the departure was like a bombshell in Hotel De Crillon, where everyone was packing for the departure. The change in plans is laid to sudden realization on the part of the Americans of the extreme seriousness of the situation, especially following Marshal Foch's report that Germany has 500,000 troops under arms and can rapidly put 1,200,000 troops into the field.

Mr. Polk's statement before the Supreme Council yesterday afternoon that he was delaying his departure was received warmly by his colleagues, as even the British, who have been trying to wind up the conference since September, believe now is a bad time to break up, when the Germans are defying the Allies.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, Dec. 2.—Mrs. Mildred Stevens McDermott of Long Beach, want ad bride of David McDermott, wealthy Anita, Iowa, farmer, who twelve hours after the marriage ceremony brought suit for divorce and $15,000 alimony, in a District Court here, sent her prospective husband the picture of a young woman who intended leaving for China as a missionary. Investigation of the case at Long Beach has brought this fact to light, according to attorneys for the husband. The picture which the young woman sent to Mr. McDermott during the course of a two months' courtship by mail has been sent back to Long Beach, where investigators found it to be the likeness of Miss Helen Riffle, of Turlock, Cal.

It was taken, it is said, for use on a passport from the United States to China where the young woman intended being a missionary. There is some resemblance between the pictures of the want ad bride and the young woman missionary.

An amended petition to an annulment proceeding, which was instituted by the husband, was filed today for Mr. McDermott, alleging that at the time the want ad bride was married to the Anita farmer she already was the wife of another man. The amended petition says that two months prior to October 23, when McDermott and the woman who claimed to be Miss Mildred Stevens were married in Des Moines, she was living at 617 Pine avenue, Long Beach, Cal., under the name of Mrs. Mary Stewart, wife of a man named Ray H. Stewart. McDermott now charges that his want ad bride misrepresented her true status and asks for an annulment of the ceremony.

The Anita farmer after coming to Des Moines claims to have spent in excess of $500 on his wife. A fur coat, diamond ring and other valuables were among the purchases he said. The next morning while at the breakfast table, he claims she left him and endeavored to run away. The wife is reported to be living in Chicago.

Mr. O'Dell, a former State Treasurer, requested an early trial and issued a statement denying charges he had anything to do with the Newberry campaign.

CHICAGO RED SUSPECT WANTED IN NEW YORK.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—[Advertisement.

How You Can Have "Naturally Curly" Hair

If you will forswear the curling iron and follow the simple plan here suggested, you will be surprised beyond words to see not only the beautiful curl, but the soft fluffiness and lively luster your hair will acquire. The plan—to apply to the hair before retiring a little pure silmerine (in liquid form,) using a clean tooth brush for the purpose. The most effective way is to divide the hair into strands, moistening each of them separately from root to tip.

The delightful wavy effect in evidence in the morning will suggest to any stranger that your hair is "naturally curly." The effect will last a considerable time, and if you'll get a few ounces of liquid silmerine from your druggist you will have a supply leave no sticky or greasy trace and for months. This, by the way, will cannot harm hair or scalp in any way. The hair will be quite manageable at all times, no matter how you do it up. —[Advertisement.

A Simple Way to Reduce Wrinkles

Remember that wrinkles and bagginess of cheek or chin are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength and shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags.

To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick acting, as a simple wash lotion easily made at home. Just get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from your druggist and a half pint of witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissue—which, of course, smooths out the lines and draws in the sagging skin. It also stimulates capillary circulation, bringing natural color to faded cheeks.—[Advertisement.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Iowa, who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp; is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."—[Advertisement.

Dizziness Causes Fall —Head Injured

"A year ago my stomach bloated so badly with gas that I fell unconscious and cut my head badly on corner of door. I had suffered from stomach trouble for several years and no medicine helped me to speak of. A druggist patched up my head and advised me to use Mayr's Wonderful Remedy for my stomach trouble. The results have been really wonderful. I have never had any sign of my former symptoms since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. —[Advertisement.

CONGRESS VIEWS OF MESSAGE.

Some Senators Assert President Never Wrote Document Bearing His Name, While Others Praise It as Timely and Essentially "Wilsonian."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Congressional interest in the contents of the President's message was entirely subordinated to speculation among Senators and Representatives as to the author of the document. Opinion was considerably divided. Some thought that the composition and style clearly showed that the President was the principle, if not the exclusive author of the message. Others insisted there was nothing Wilsonian about the message and felt sure it was the product of the departmental heads, perhaps with the President's approval.

Considerable surprise was manifested in some quarters at the absence of any mention of the peace treaty, but Senator Hitchcock, Democratic leader, said the treaty was reserved for discussion in a separate message to the Senate.

There was much disapproval on both sides of the President's offering Part XI as a panacea for the labor unrest.

Much interest was shown in the President's tariff recommendations, although most Senators were not clear as to whether the President meant to advocate free trade.

Here are some Senate views on the message:

Senator Hitchcock: Few messages have touched upon more advanced questions or pointed the way to more enlightened remedies for existing evils. On the whole, the message is hopeful, and recalls to Congress many matters of importance it has neglected.

Senator Watson, Indiana, Republican: I do not believe the President ever wrote the message. Certainly there is nothing Wilsonian about it. It does not mean anything to me. I cannot see the object of sending it in here.

Senator Thomas, Colorado, Democrat: A pretty good message for a sick man. But I emphatically disagree with the President that Part XI of the peace treaty is the panacea for the labor problem.

Senator King, Utah, Democrat: All will agree with the President that the interests of labor should receive the most friendly and sympathetic consideration, but in my opinion the American people are not willing that an international organization shall have authority to control or in any manner interfere with our internal and domestic affairs.

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, Republican: A very poor piece of literary mechanics, considering its putative authorship. The free trade plank is highly unpopular in the industrial sections of New England.

Senator Smoot, Utah, Republican: I want to know who wrote the message before I discuss the free trade issue.

Senator Johnson, California, Republican: It is a compilation of reports from the various executive departments, rounded off with some well-balanced phrases. It is amazing that no reference was made to the peace treaty.

Comments by House members follow:

Representative Good, Iowa, Republican: Monday, the Secretary of the Treasury transmitted to Congress the book of estimates, asking $4,368,410,021 for the executive departments for the next fiscal year. By oversight, or for some cause, more than $100,000,000 of indefinite continuing appropriations were omitted from this total.

We must have extraordinary good times to produce anything like this revenue to meet this estimate of expenditures. Today the President in his message suggests the possibility of a reduction in taxes. A reduction in taxes, however much desired, is impossible as long as departments continue to make extraordinary estimates for expenditures. It would seem that there is no coordination between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury.

Representative Doremus, Michigan, Democrat: It was an excellent and timely message. Especially commendable are the President's recommendations as to the necessity for the setting up of some kind of arbitration machinery for the adjustment of differences between capital and labor, and the bringing about of a better understanding between them.

Representative Mondell, Wyoming, House Republican leader: Notwithstanding the rude shock which the war gave to the President's pre-war semi-free trade views relative to tariff legislation, the reference to that subject in his message curiously illustrates the tenacity with which he adheres to the fallacy that in framing tariff legislation we must be sure to give the foreigners abundant access to our markets.

AGED REALTY DEALER HURT BY AUTOMOBILE.

FRACTURE OF SKULL LIKELY TO PROVE FATAL FOR WICKS; DRIVER IS RELEASED.

Striking his head on a steel street-car rail as he fell after being struck by an automobile driven by Louis C. Hill, 2144 Canyon drive, at Vine street and Hollywood boulevard last night, Moses L. Wicks, 75 years old, a real estate dealer, 1918 Miramar avenue, sustained a fracture of the skull that probably will prove fatal.

According to Detectives Burgess and Gamash, Mr. Wicks stepped off the curb in front of the automobile. Mr. Hill swerved sharply to the left to avoid the accident, but the front wheel of his car hit Mr. Wicks.

After questioning Mr. Hill, who is a construction engineer, with offices in the Hollingsworth Building, the detectives released him. They said they were satisfied that the accident was not his fault.

Mr. Wicks, well known in this city during the past forty years, is a widower. He has one son, Maj. Percy Wicks, who served overseas and is now living in Moorpark, near Ventura.

PEACE WAITED FOR DELEGATES TO EAT.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Delayed.) Why the peace with Germany was signed at Versailles at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was explained by Sir George Riddell, at a recent luncheon to French journalists here.

Sir George said that when arrangements were being made for the signing he suggested to Premier Clemenceau that it should be 11 a.m. for the benefit of the press.

M. Clemenceau replied: "No. It is impossible. What about luncheon?"

Sir George insisted: "What about the press?"

M. Clemenceau replied: "What is the press to 400 suffering stomachs? It will be 3 o'clock on Saturday after noon. I hope the question will not be raised again."

"UP ROAD AND ALONG A FENCE," MOTHER SAYS; "CLEAR AS MUD" REPLY.

Ernest W. Hawkey, in Judge Crail's court yesterday said he was willing to support his boy, but that his ex-wife, Cora L. Ireland, "will never tell me where he is."

"That's not true," denied Mrs. Ireland. "I've told him the boy is in the mountains."

"What mountains?" asked the judge.

"In this county," was the reply. "I don't know their name, but you take the road, I don't know its name, and go six miles outside of a town—I can't remember the name of the town, and you pass a fence, turn to the left, pass a pile of stones and then go up a hill."

"Clear as mud," remarked the judge. He dismissed the case for lack of jurisdiction and told Mrs. Ireland if she wanted the child supported, she would have to bring him where the father, could find him.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-datest:

The dress of warm material, to wear with the fur coatee for the street. Browns in deep, golden tones are much liked with mink, or with kolinsky, dyed brown, although contrasting colors are permitted.

Metallic millinery is still in the height of the mode, the touch of glimmering gold, silver or copper, lending life to the somber, wintry costume.

The presentation of personal accessories of dress for the Christmas gift has been emphasized by the luxuriousness of these articles. Even shoes and by all means shoe buckles, have been raised to the giftrealm by their beauty and real worth.

Now is the Time to Buy:

The one more dress, in that sale at the store which we have named Little Sister, because it cannot claim to dominate quite as its above-stairs relative dominates the block or family in which it lives; but which is, nevertheless, of prime importance. That sale—you witnessed its initiation on Tuesday—is receiving reinforcements and will continue throughout the week. Did you get your dress? If not, there is opportunity to remedy the oversight.

The table damask to replace that which has worn or torn during the war-time high-cost time. There are several sales offerings this week, which are also savings opportunities.

Again We Center.

Clare has just returned from New York, where she was feted and interviewed and made so much of, that I feared her head might be turned; but no! That lovely little head is too well stocked with good sense for anything like that! You see, Clare is a real genius, who designs those wonderful costumes for the leading film stars. Such creations! She seems positively inspired when she beholds a lovely fabric and a lovely woman for whom to fabricate. It was her work which called forth the many interesting interviews from leading papers and magazines in New York; but it was and is her personality which makes the interviews so absorbing, and her intelligence makes them most enlightening. Now, the first question asked, in every interview, she declares, was: "How about Los Angeles becoming the fashion center of America?" Because of the wonderful originations for film favorites, it is beginning to be understood that our city is in fact the home par excellence, of Madame la Mode! Do you not think that we deserve such recognition? I do. A bas, San Francisco!

Where Harmony Dwells.

A phono-auditory is the nearest I can come to giving a truly representative name to that new dwelling place of phonographs. They have turned the big auditorium of that big store into an audience room for music, and the fact that the huge pipe organ has been allowed to remain and to add its quota to the harmonies set afloat in that restful place, adds just one more note of charm. There one may listen, not only to the music of a thousand records—played separately, of course!—but one may also be regaled with other music, from the auditorium stage as well. Lounging in a comfortable chair or upon a soft, paddy davenport, one may listen to the record which one would purchase, or to a concert from the stage, or upon the pipe organ, or, if one prefer, one may isolate oneself within the sound-proof walls of a small music room and serve oneself to record music—cafeteria-wise! A very interesting and a most harmonious place, is that new phono-auditory.

In the Toy-Joyery.

A visit to the toy floor in that handsome store out Seventh street, is not only interesting, but enlightening; for the man at the helm understands buying toys and moreover he understands the philosophy of playthings. I suppose one should say the "psychology;" but somehow I'm tired of that overworked word. Anyhow, the man called attention to the educational value of all the toys for boys. There were not only our old friend Meccano, and all his relatives, but there were boxes filled with "the makings" of airplanes, of automobiles, of electric light plants, of—well everything mechanical and modern. And these were not mere look-so affairs, but when completed they will work just as naturally and as well as do the life-size machines and machine makers. There are small dynamos, which when put together will propel cars, and run electric plants and will, in their miniature way, do all that their big mechanical brothers do. It seems that the small boy of now, will not accept anything which has not a semblance of reality and from which he may learn real things. "Have the playthings for small girls gone through any change?" I asked. "No," said the man, "we sell more dolls than ever before it seems to me. And all the paraphernalia of doll housekeeping and doll attire—little girls are as happy as ever with these." "No suffragetting, at the early age, then?" I asked. "Not at all. And, after all, are not the doll and her paraphernalia as educational to girls as are the mechanical toys, to boys?" "Perhaps," I replied, and went away with a more firmly fixed idea that the more women enter business, the more they love their homes and care for the womanly pursuits and that they transmit the home-loving instinct to their daughters.

All for Each.

In that big jewelry store, they have taken the pains to make gift selection less difficult, by arranging certain cases with gifts for women and others with gifts for men. And, once you glimpse these cases, you will be surprised at the number and the gift-worthiness of these varying articles. One case contains gold bags for Her—such a variety, and such beautiful creations! Another is replete with articles of gold for the use of men. You would not imagine, until you conned these over, how many possibilities lie in gift articles of precious metal for His Christmas gift. It is so, counter after counter, case after case. Convenient, is this arrangement, since you can see at a glance, the sort of articles from which to select, and thus preclude much aimless looking.

His Word from Europe.

Just returned from a tour of Europe, the buyer for that big store on lower Broadway, says that the continent is wholly changed, since the war. "The transformation of the inhabitants," he says, "is subtle, yet unmistakable. The war uprooted them from their life-long—yes, generation after generation work, and they cannot settle down to it again. For that reason, it is almost impossible to obtain merchandise upon the old basis and in some lines, upon any basis. The people over there, like our own so-called lower classes, have more money than they ever had before, and they are enjoying it. They are spending money freely and are absorbing their own products, leaving little for the outside world." The merchandise secured by this buyer, will seem the more precious, because of the difficulties in obtaining it. Some has already arrived, and other shipments are en route.

At Fashion's Finger Tips.

Hosiery is very elaborate.
Footwear is simple in line.
Simplicity leads in autumn frocks.
The knitted wool costume is seen.
Long draped veils are the latest.
Costly furs trim many chic models.
The "miser bag" is always in fashion.
Some of the new velvet skirts are in plaids.
Jersey is a favored material for girls' dresses.
Directoire stocks are worn on tailored dresses.
The frameless cuff-shaped hat is a great favorite.
Wide and straight at the back are the new coats.
A smart model is the long top-coat minus a belt.

ONE PAPER FOR PARIS.

Unique Enterprise of Fifty Journals During Strike.

As a result of a sudden general strike by French printers, one of the most unique journalistic enterprises ever undertaken was instituted in Paris, Armistice Day. Nearly fifty newspapers of the city united to publish a single four page paper, among them the New York Herald, which for many years has had a Paris edition. The first copy of the composite organ, "La Presse de Paris," was received at the Times yesterday from Louis Sentous, French consul.

Such prominent journals as the Matin, Figaro, the French edition of the London Daily Mail, the Petit Parisien, the Journal des Debats and others are represented in the list of papers who are lending their aid in the publication of the single newspaper for the great French metropolis.

According to "La Presse de Paris" the printers' union went on the strike, despite their working contract running until June, 1920. "This move is even more regrettable," declares the paper, "in view of the fact that it occurs on the day set aside for the celebration of victory and on the eve of the elections.

"With singleness of sentiment, however, which Parisians can well understand, the newspapers of the capital during the shut-down of the printing establishments, have united to produce this unique journal."

The newspaper contains all the essentials in the news devoting about three pages and a half to same, while the remaining page and a half is advertising.

WILL CONTINUE EXHIBIT.

Arrangements have been made to continue the exhibition of stage models at the Cumnock School of Expression, 200 South Vermont avenue, until December 20. Students of the drama in Los Angeles have been much interested during the past week in the collection, groups from various schools and club circles having made a study of the fifteen models and 100 sketches and paintings in the exhibit. Friday afternoon Miss Willamene Wilkes, stage director of the Majestic Theater, offered a critique of the various models to a group of students and visitors, pointing out new effects achieved in settings and lighting by the use of the simplest physical properties. The Community Players of Pasadena also were guests of the school on the same afternoon.

POLICE AFTER DEPORTED RED.

Grave Charge at Sacramento Against Alien Shipped Recently to Spain.

A telegram was received at the local immigration office yesterday, from the Sheriff at Sacramento, Cal., asking that Manuel Sastre be sent there immediately, as a serious charge will be made against him. There were no details as to the nature of the complaint.

Sastre was deported to Spain several months ago by the immigration authorities, acting on the warrant of Washington authorities. He was arrested as an undesirable alien about two years ago, when he was at the head of the I.W.W. outfit making trouble in the orange and lemon district. He was at liberty on bond, awaiting the action of the Washington officials, for more than a year.

Sastre will reach Barcelona, Spain, today, safe from the California authorities.

NORTH ISLAND CASE ARGUED, SUBMITTED.

DEFENSE SAYS LAND TITLES IN BIG AREA HINGE ON GOVERNMENT CLAIM.

After a day of argument, the case of the government against the Coronado Beach Company, to condemn or obtain an easement of North Island, required for a permanent aviation camp, was submitted to U.S. District Judge Trippet yesterday. Peter F. Dunne of San Francisco argued in behalf of the company, and George J. Denis for the government.

Mr. Dunne argued that the absolute right of the Coronado Beach Company, through predecessors, to the land has been established by the Supreme Court of the United States, and there is nothing more to be determined. He also insisted that if an easement to the island is given to the government, title to tens of millions of acres in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and to 1000 miles of California coast within ten littoral leagues will be clouded.

Col. Denis in his argument paid much attention to the theory that the absolute rights to North Island have long since been adjudicated by the Supreme Court, and that no determination has been made that would dispossess the government of the right to ask an easement. He also dealt with the contention that the reservation in the law of 1824, providing that the land involved in the suit might be taken for military purposes without compensation, still applies to the successors in interest of the original grantee.

The boathouse, which will be erected on the Alvarado street side of the lake, at the end of Orange street, will cost between $25,000 and $30,000. It will be of the French style of architecture, and will be at least 100 feet wide. Among other improvements contemplated for Westlake Park is a permanent music stand in the middle of the lake.

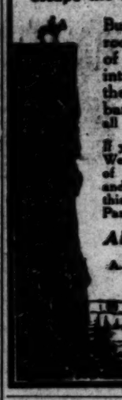
Comrades of Peril
By Randall Parrish

SHE picked him out from a dozen men lined up in the saloon—for a bridegroom. He tried to escape the honor.



But in the end he rode into the jaws of death for her, into the hands of the most ruthless band of ruffians in all that wild country.

If you love a rousing Western drama, full of mystery, romance and fast action, read this latest and best of Parrish's stories.

BANK BANDIT TAKEN; CONFESSES.

Third of Big Loot from Hellman Institution Recovered and Officers are Hot on Trail of Other Two Robbers, Desperate Brothers, Fleeing to Mexico.

The rounding up of the three men who robbed the branch of the Hellman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of $27,000 began yesterday with the arrest of Edward Hudson, 30 years old, followed by his confession and the discovery in his room of $9000 in money and Liberty Bonds, which was Hudson's share of the proceeds of the hold-up. With Hudson at the time of his arrest was a woman who gave the name of Jane Smith. She also is in custody.

Wanted as Hudson's partners in the hold-up are Art Brown, 29 years old, and his brother, Robert Floyd Brown. Both recently escaped from the Minnesota State prison and are wanted for blowing and robbing the safe of the People's Bank at Milwaukee and with having robbed another bank in Iowa, both since their escape and while on their way to California. Both are desperate men and a gun battle is certain if the officers overtake them.

The brothers, it is believed, are fleeing in separate automobiles toward the Mexican border in an effort to escape into the mountains of Lower California. Deputy sheriffs left Los Angeles last night in pursuit. Sheriff Cline had sent telegrams to officers in all parts of the Southwest yesterday giving a full description of the men wanted.

Art Brown is in a Buick touring car with special markings, and he has with him his wife and three children, the eldest a boy of 13 years. Sheriff Cline, who is personally directing the search for the bank robbers, is confident that they will be captured, though they have a twenty-four-hour start on the officers.

The man believed to be Art Brown, with his wife and three children, arrived at Riverside at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning and asked a policeman on Main street where lodging for the night could be secured. The officer told the man that all accommodations in the Riverside hotels were taken, so the man drove away, but whether he went to Redlands or turned toward the Imperial Valley by inland route is not known.

Deputy Sheriffs Bell and Couts and the two patrolmen left Los Angeles last night headed straight for the border on the receipt of definite telegraphic information concerning the whereabouts of the wanted men.

CAPTURE OF HUDSON.

The capture of Hudson took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon on South Main street, and was the result of hard work by Deputy Sheriffs Harvey Bell and Lee Couts, with the co-operation of Patrolmen A. S. Casselberry and C. H. Earnst. Deputies had been on Hudson's trail ever since the robbery and worked with the co-operation of the police, traced Hudson who was followed by the woman, known as Jane Smith, to a tatooing parlor on Main street near Third, where the woman desired to have some tatooing done on her breast.

At first Hudson denied that he had done anything wrong, but under questioning in the Sheriff's office finally confessed that he was one of the men who had robbed the bank. He said he was the one who held up the teller, Phillip Simon, and told where his room was located. Deputies went to the Beebe house on East Sixth street, and in addition to Hudson's room found his share of the bank loot. The woman is held as an important witness in the case.

Hudson told the officers that he had a wife, but in appearance he gave the impression of a clerk, rather than a bank teller. He is 30 years old, and has been cool and collected since his arrest. The Sheriff's officers believe that Hudson has a criminal record and that he and his alleged accomplices are high-class crooks.

IN THE HOTEL.

J. S. Houston, proprietor of the Hotel Rosslyn, said that on November 21, Hudson registered there, with a young attractive woman, as "Mr. McClarey and wife." The man gave no initials.

McClarey, he said, would leave the hotel early in the morning and would return in the evening, keeping the same hours as any ordinary laboring man. The woman, who, he said, was about 20 years old and well dressed, spent most of her time at the hotel. Neither of the two would converse with anyone in the hotel, keeping entirely to themselves.

McClarey had a small yellow racing car, which he and the young women often went riding in. The car was always left standing in front of the hotel through the nights. Last Sunday, Mr. Houston said, both McClarey and the woman spent most of the time repairing the car.

The woman described by the hotel proprietor is the woman known as Jane Smith. It is supposed that the Buick car with the racing body was stolen. As far as can be learned, this is not the car with which the second robber is fleeing with his wife and children, but it is believed that this car which was seen at Riverside early Tuesday morning, was rented from the Stillwell automobile livery.

WIDESPREAD SEARCH FOR VANISHED BABY.

GIRL TAKEN BY GRANDFATHER AND MOTHER; LAW'S ARM IS USED BY FATHER.

Deputy sheriffs in several southern counties, armed with the authority of a writ of habeas corpus and a body warrant, endeavored yesterday to intercept and take into custody Georganna Hope Waite, 18 months old, daughter of Murray Waite, a Los Angeles business man, and Mrs. Katherine Waite. The child, according to J. D. Taggart, attorney for Mr. Waite, was taken from Mrs. Gladys Keeling a nurse, at Manhattan Beach by the child's grandfather, George W. Mason, a wealthy mine owner of Billings, Mont., and by Mrs. Waite.

Mr. Waite says the grandfather came here unexpectedly and found Mrs. Waite at a sanatorium at South Pasadena, where, according to allegations, she has been ill and incompetent. The two, it is charged, went to Manhattan Beach, and took the child away.

Mr. Taggart obtained a writ of habeas corpus and a body warrant for the child Wednesday night from Judge Jackson. Deputy Sheriff Hotz notified San Bernardino officers to halt Mr. Mason and Mrs. Waite if they should pass through there on a Salt Lake train. A report came back that they were not on the train. Later it was learned that the grandfather and mother were in this city and a conference between Mr. Taggart and Leo Youngworth, attorney for the grandfather, was planned. Mr. Waite said he could not understand the actions ascribed to the grandfather, as he thought his own relations with Mr. Mason were friendly.

F. A. VANDERLIP HERE.

New York Banker's Visit Revives Union Oil Deal Story.

Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, arrived at the Alexandria last night on the Salt Lake from the East. Mr. Vanderlip is here on business, but declined to be interviewed.

There is a report current that negotiations are under way between the Union Oil Company and the Vanderlip interests which will result in the drilling of a number of wells by the oil company on the Palos Verde Rancho, between Redondo and San Pedro. It is said that the oil company has agreed to put a geologist on the ground in an effort to locate oil. Mr. Vanderlip would neither deny nor confirm the rumor.

DRAPED IN HAIR BEAUTY POSES.

Actor Snaps Her in Wife's Locks "Sacrificed on Bohemia's Altar."

Mrs. Sylvia Gowland, seeking a divorce in Judge Works's court, declared yesterday that she cut off her long hair because it was too heavy. Thomas Gibson Gowland, moving-picture actor, said it was an offer on the altar of Bohemia.

Then came the revelation that the severed tresses had been used to drape a moving-picture actress. When asked if he had photographed the actress in the nude, Mr. Gowland responded:

"She was draped, and my wife was present."

"Draped with what?" inquired Attorney Collings.

"With the hair that my wife cut off to appear Bohemian," replied Mr. Gowland. He is represented by Attorney John L. Fleming.

The case is expected to be finished today.

Dr. Miriam Van Waters, superintendent of Juvenile Hall, whose resignation, recently sent to the Board of Supervisors, led to rumors that sensational developments were to be expected, will withdraw the resignation. It has been known for some time that the entente cordiale between Dr. Van Waters and Mrs. Cora D. Lewis, chairman of the Probation Committee, which has charge of the management of Juvenile Hall, was strained. By adopting new rules yesterday, the Board of Supervisors bridged the chasm.

The employment of help was one cause of the trouble. Dr. Van Waters felt she was under a handicap. Now all her official acts will go before the Probation Committee for confirmation.

Chairman Dodge, who presided at the conference called by Judge Reeve yesterday, stated there was not the slightest criticism of the management of Juvenile Hall. He declared it is entirely wrong to give out any impression that there is anything radically wrong there. It is simply a matter of a little more leeway for Dr. Van Waters, whose work as superintendent has been entirely satisfactory to the Supervisors, he said, adding that Mrs. Lewis's work has been unselfish and without compensation. Now that the atmosphere has been cleared, it is the belief that things will move more smoothly at the hall.

The conference was attended by the Supervisors, Judge Reeve, Mrs. Lewis, Dr. Van Waters and Dr. Arthur Sutherland, Dan S. Hammack, Mrs. Henry Coman and Mrs. Mary Trowbridge. After the grievance had been ironed out and Dr. Van Waters had agreed to withdraw her resignation, it was decided that hereafter all matters affecting Juvenile Hall shall be handled through the superintendent, her acts to be presented to the Probation Committee for confirmation.

It was also decided to build a new school bungalow, to cost $4000, and also an addition to Juvenile Hall for the separation of delinquent from dependent children, at an estimated cost of $2500.

The conferees further decided it is necessary that a fixed time be set aside for visits of parents to children confined in Juvenile Hall.

SUGAR STATEMENT.

Government Allows Sales at Higher Price, Says Grocer.

Referring to a report published yesterday afternoon to the effect that the 'government authorities say the price for two pounds of sugar should not exceed 25 cents but that 13 cents for one pound is not unreasonable," a leading grocer said last night that nobody is selling sugar at two pounds for a quarter, as far as he knows, and further that jobbers and grocers understand that the government allows retailers to charge 13½ cents a pound. He states that last Wednesday the jobbers were notified that U. S. Atty.-Gen. Palmer had allowed them the privilege of charging 12 cents a pound to the retailers and the retailers are allowed to charge 1½ cents above that, making 13½ cents. "We have been paying the jobbers $11.95 a hundred since last Wednesday," he said, "and adding $1.50 a hundred, which we are allowed to charge, makes $13.45, or nearly 13½ cents per pound. We do not know of a single merchant selling at two pounds for 25 cents."

DOHENY IS DUE FROM THE EAST.

Oil Magnate Expected Home After Testifying in Mexican Inquiry.

Edward L. Doheny, Los Angeles oil magnate, after several months' absence in Europe and the East, is expected home today or tomorrow, according to information received here yesterday.

Mr. Doheny went to Paris at the time the Peace Conference was in session, presumably to consult with President Wilson regarding certain phases of the American oil situation in Mexico. He remained several weeks, conferring with various peace delegates. On his return to the United States he went to Washington, where he has recently testified before the Senate committee investigating the troubled Mexican situation. His testimony bore principally on affairs in the Tampico district, where American and foreign oil interests have been much disturbed by recurring bandit raids.

It is understood that Mr. Doheny will remain in Los Angeles this winter.

SCORES ATTACK ON ARCADIA SOLDIERS.

FATHER THREATENS ACTION IN FIGHT AGAINST LICENSE FOR DANCE HALL.

A statement made by M. J. McLees, owner of the premises in Fish Canyon, where a dance hall was conducted, and against which a complaint was filed with the Supervisors, resulting in the license being revoked, may result in a legal action for damages. Mr. McLees defended the dance hall before the Supervisors yesterday. Soldiers from the Arcadia Balloon School and others gave an unfavorable view of the dance hall. They said it had a tendency to lower the morals of the soldiers.

Mr. McLees called witnesses, among others Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran, who said the dance hall was properly conducted. During their visits there, they said, they saw nothing wrong. Mr. McLees stated that during the war soldiers were entertained in Fish Canyon. They came from every State, and entire companies visited there, he said. The men were given free swimming and free tickets to the dancing, he alleges. He bitterly attacked the men of the Balloon School, declaring them "a detriment to my place," and said, "We want them to stay away."

After the Supervisors agreed to consider the application for relicensing the dance hall at tomorrow's meeting, George C. Barton, whose son is a member of the Arcadia Balloon School, stated he would bring an action against Mr. McLees for his statement about the Balloon School.

BARON LONG BUYS GRANT.

Great San Diego Hotel Sold to Local Boniface.

Will Build a New Van Nuys Here on its Model.

Famous Hostelry Valued at Two and Half Million.

The purchase of the U. S. Grant Hotel in San Diego by Baron Long, owner of the Van Nuys Hotel in this city, was announced here last night, together with the statement that E. W. Cason, secretary of the Southern California Hotel Men's Association, will go to San Diego today to close up the deal and arrange for the transfer of ownership. Mr. Long stated that he will take possession on Saturday. The U. S. Grant is one of the best-known hotels in the world.

In making the deal Mr. Long said that he acquired the stock held by Barker Bros. of this city and J. H. Holmes, who has been managing director of the hotel. "The ownership of the hotel henceforth will be invested in U. S. Grant, Jr., and myself," said Mr. Long. "We will own equal interests. Mr. Grant will be president of the company."

The amount of money involved in the transaction was not made known, but Mr. Long gave the value of the property as being $2,000,000. Manager Holmes, when communicated with by long-distance telephone, said that the transfer of the property will doubtless be made today.

"The U. S. Grant Hotel," commented Mr. Long, "will be operated in connection with the Van Nuys Hotel here, and I will divide my time between the two houses. Later, we expect to erect a new Van Nuys Hotel in Los Angeles, fashioning it after the Grant. I acquired the Grant because I believe that the completion of the new railroad in San Diego and the opening of Tia Juana will cause the city to experience such a boom as it has never experienced."

Mr. Holmes, it was announced, will quit the hotel business and devote his attention to what is known as Kelly Metal, a new auto-bearing material manufactured here, which is attracting wide attention. Before going to the Hotel Grant he managed the Hotel Green in Pasadena for many years. He is one of the best-known hotel men in California.

SOUTHLAND COVERED BY LIGHT RAINFALL.

PRECIPITATION IS GENERAL, EXCEPTING SOME TOWNS ALONG THE COAST.

Rain, which had been promised by the Weather Bureau for the last three days, made its appearance last night at 10:30 o'clock. A brisk shower was followed by a steady fall which gave promise of an all-night rain. The precipitation will probably continue today, according to the Weather Bureau prediction.

The storm is quite general, extending from Santa Barbara to within a few miles of San Diego. Several towns on the coast south of Los Angeles are the exception. At San Bernardino, Riverside, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Pomona and San Fernando the rain started at about the same time as at Los Angeles and from all points it is reported that up to midnight a light fall was still in progress. At no point, however, was the fall more than a trace and no record of the exact amount of rain was available.

RUBBER TIRES HOLD JOY DEW.

Cycle Repair Man Does Big Trade Till Police Take Him as Bootlegger.

So many men seemed suddenly to own bicycles that needed repairing at the shop of C. G. Coleman, 414 West Broadway, Long Beach, that yesterday the suspicions of the police were aroused and Detective McLendon cycled up to the place on a wheel with a flat tire.

"A little puncture," he said to Coleman.

"Whata you like, wiska or branda?" was the answer, according to the detective, who says he was taken to the back of the shop where two tires dangled from a rack, one full of brandy and the other of whisky. By placing the mouth over the valve stem a most exhilarating puncture preparation could be swallowed, at 50 cents a swallow, McLendon stated. The detective sought Patrolman Dunn as a witness and seized what he says is a small still in which the intoxicants were made. He also obtained several gallons of the liquor. Coleman is in jail on a charge of bootlegging.

MAY CITE OIL COMPANIES AS PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Forced Drilling of Wells Proposed as Solution of Natural Gas Problem, as Industrial Plants Close.

Probability that at least seven big California oil companies may be classified as public utilities and dragged into the State Railroad Commission's investigation of natural gas distribution in the Southland, was the outstanding feature of yesterday's proceedings concerning four gas-distributing concerns doing business in this district.

Appearing as counsel for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, Herbert J. Goudge declared that the Standard Oil Company should be subjected to investigation for its activity in the sale of natural gas. He declared that it is a public utility to that extent, and should be subjected to regulation by the commission.

Commissioner Edgerton, who was presiding, ventured the assertion that if the Standard Oil Company was dragged into the investigation it would likewise be necessary to call in the Union, Midway, Honolulu Consolidated, Murphy-Dillon, Hancock interests and the Southern Pacific, as all of them are said to contribute to the natural gas supply of this section.

Asked for his opinion in that regard, Jared How, attorney for the Midway and Southern California gas companies, said: "I hadn't thought of that. It is very startling to me. It seems incomprehensible that the Standard or any other company could be compelled to drill more wells to supply more gas, but if this can be accomplished the Standard must be a public utility."

A paragraph was read from the Public Utilities Act of California, stating that any company supplying to another company a product which becomes a public utility is itself a public utility. Mr. Howe then stated that he was compelled to admit the strength of the argument.

MAY CUT SUPPLY.

Leroy Edwards, appearing as counsel for the Southern Counties Gas Company, stated he hoped the oil companies would not be dragged into the case, as they are fearful of being classified as public utilities and will undoubtedly cease supplying natural gas to distributors if it appears that they were to be so classed.

"The oil companies are selling the gas companies only such natural gas as they are able to spare," said Mr. Edwards. "They use vast quantities for refining and other purposes, and they do not contract to sell any certain amount. As a matter of fact, no oil company can do that, because no company knows one day how much natural gas it will have the next day.

Mr. Edwards expressed the opinion that the oil companies could probably make about as much out of their natural gas by using it for other purposes.

Asked for an opinion in the matter, Commissioner Edgerton said: "I cannot express an official opinion at present. It is, however, our intention to thoroughly investigate the legal phase of the question."

In closing yesterday's session and fixing December 15 as the date for further deliberation in the gas case Commissioner Edgerton said:

"The Standard Oil Company supplies gas indirectly for a public utility, but all it does is to sell such gas as it has to the Midway company. But it appears that if the Standard wanted to it might cut off the supply, because the supply upon leaving its hands has not been dedicated to the purposes of a public utility."

The gas investigation was instituted by the State Railroad Commission upon its own motion, and it concerns itself largely with an inquiry into visible supply and system of distribution. Officials of the various companies offered evidence yesterday to show that the recent cold wave was directly responsible for cutting off the gas supply of many industrial plants at Vernon and Torrance last week. It developed that the shipyards at the harbor have been without gas for a week and that they consume upwards of 800,000 feet a day. Company officials admitted that Southern California has outgrown the present facilities for distribution, and that a quick remedy does not seem possible.

MILLIONS WASTED.

Arthur F. Bridge, rate engineer for the Southern Counties Gas Company, testified that the company could put in a new twelve-inch pipe line from the Midway field, where millions of feet of gas are going to waste because facilities for bringing it here are not available, but he stated such an improvement would cost $2,500,000 and would provide but 20,000,000 feet of natural gas.

Leroy M. Edwards, attorney for the Southern Counties Gas Company, stated that negotiations between the Southern Counties Gas Company and Southern California Gas Company are being carried on to make immediately available for domestic and commercial service in Long Beach a supply of gas which is now being given to industries in Orange county.

The People and Their Troubles

BY DOROTHY DIX.

A bold, devil-may-care, foolhardy bachelor in a Middle West city has issued invitations to 150 widows to attend a party at which he will be the one and only man.

Talk about your deeds of derring-do, and your war-cross heroes! Here's an ace for fair. It is folly for any man to underestimate the peril he runs from even one widow, and when one thinks of a lone, lorn, motherless and fatherless bachelor exposed to the arts and wiles of 150 widows, one knows not whether to admire his nerve or pity his lack of judgment.

For he runs not one risk, but a million, for the widow is protean. She assumes a hundred types, each with its particular battery of charms.

Consider the gathering at this party. There will be, for instance, the jolly widow. Fair, fat and forty; not too fat, and not too forty, but just plump, and round, and good-natured. Dimples play hide and seek in her cheeks, and her laugh, hung on a hair trigger, is ready to go off at any old story.

Few women know how to laugh. The woman who smiles is an angel or a sardonic demon, but the woman who laughs is a lovable companion who makes a man feel that she will never have hysterics when the cook leaves or be hard on her husband when he stays out late.

Young girls never laugh. They giggle. Old maids snicker when they laugh at all. It is only the widow who is wise enough to know that a jolly laugh is a bait which few men can resist.

Then there will be the lachrymose widow. She possesses the invaluable accomplishment of weeping poetically, and when a woman can cry without getting a red nose her dangerousness is not to be estimated in mere words.

She is so helpless and dependent and forlorn in a cold and cruel world and she doesn't know anything about business and she appeals so prettily to a man for advice that he can't refuse her, and in the midst of it she is sure to break down and burst into tears on the second button of the comforter's waistcoat. And everything is all over, except the marriage license.

Drying a widow's tears is one of the most hazardous occupations ever undertaken by a man, which is doubtless the reason it is mentioned in the Bible as one of the short cuts to Heaven.

Then there will be the comfortable widow. She owns her own home and has a tiny little sum or insurance money. Besides which she understands how to give the sort of a dinner that a man likes, and where to put the drop light so that it doesn't shine in his eyes while he is smoking.

To perceive the art with which she makes one comfy makes a man feel suddenly as if he was an orphan and homeless. Here is a woman, he reflects, who would appreciate the blessings of getting a good husband and would know how to propagate one.

The man who married her wouldn't have to wrestle with wash-ladies or browbeat janitors or poison himself on restaurant cooking. It looks to the man like taking out a paid-up policy on domestic bliss to get such a wife, and therefore the comfortable widow may have any settled, middle-aged man who is fussy about his eating for the taking.

Then there will be the diplomatic widow who goes about the business of husband-hunting with true efficiency. To her, man is simply an open book, and she plays upon his weaknesses as upon a harp with a thousand strings.

With her, remarriage is merely a matter of selecting the man. He has no say about it. He has no more chance of escape than the mouse in the claws of the cat. Apparently she hangs upon his words. She applauds his sentiments. She laughs at his jokes.

She is all things to all men. If a man is domestic, when he arrives to call upon her he finds her immersed in the study of a cook-book. If he is pious, she goes in for church work. If he is sporty, she golfs. But always and at all times she keeps the incense burning before him. That kind of a woman can purr over any man until all he wants to do is to curl up like a dog on her doorstep and pray Heaven that she will step on the small of his back and never take her foot off. And she does. And doesn't.

There will also be the giddy widow. Black net. And spangles. And she will be slender, with golden hair, and have the twinkle in her eye that's the real come-hither look that no son of Adam can resist.

Her black is not mourning. It's the pirate's flag that means no quarter. Every man knows this, but there is something in her fluttering frills that's a challenge to every drop of sporting blood in him that sends him chasing after her.

Then there will be friend widow, who is the most dangerous of her brood because she looks so perfectly safe and inocuous that she disarms fear and suspicion.

These are some of the dangers that the bold bachelor man will confront at the party. To which one will he succumb? I wonder.

GASOLINE ALLEY—AFTER DINNER STUFF.

Q.: How can I remove finger prints from a piano? G. W. N.

A.: There is no better means of cleaning a polished piano, or any other highly-polished furniture, than simply to wash it with a cloth dipped in lukewarm water, drying each part perfectly by rubbing briskly as fast as it is washed. This method is as safe as it is simple. It leaves the polish absolutely uninjured.

A.: This expression was used by Commodore Perry at the battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

Q.: What is the best way to preserve butter for home storage? C. C.

A.: In making butter for storage pure cream should be used. It should be mildly ripened and churned at a low temperature. The butter should be thoroughly washed, rather highly salted, then well packed into earthenware crocks, or other suitable containers and covered with a layer of wet salt or brine. The crock should then be placed in a cold, dark place, free from contaminating odors.

Q.: What is the record of the amount of milk and of butter produced by a cow? G. E.

A.: The Department of Agriculture says that Duchess Skylark Ormsby, a Holstein-Friesian cow, made the world's record for butter, having produced in one year 27,500 pounds of milk which yielded 1506 pounds of butter, while Tidy Alcartra, also a Holstein, holds the world's record for milk, having produced 32,415 pounds of milk, which yielded 1323 pounds of butter.

Q.: Are there any remains of Noah's ark? A. K.

A.: There are no remains of the ark at the present day, although it is claimed that an outline may be traced on the summit of Mt. Ararat, where the ark is said to have landed.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Says It's Graft.

VENICE, Dec. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Can you tell me when the graft started on drinking water? Do you think it will start soon on California air?

I was in Los Angeles last Monday, to see my doctor, had an appointment for luncheon with a lady from the East at one of the big hotels. I went to the first balcony, as I felt rather faint, thinking I could get a glass of water. I asked a maid, who paid no attention. I got to a couch and fainted. How long I was unconscious I do not know. One of the men attendants at the hotel passed and I asked him for a glass of water, no attention given me. I struggled down to where two ladies were sitting, and another attendant came along. I asked him for "God's sake to give me a glass of water and I would give him a quarter." I got the glass of water and he got the quarter. The ladies will remember me as they were stopping at this hotel.

This hotel takes in money enough to have gold water tanks on every floor and cut glass from which to drink.

This hotel claims to be first of Los Angeles. I should class it third rate. "E. F."

Ratify or Stultify?

PACIFIC GROVE, Dec. [illegible]—[To the Editor of The Times:] History repeats because we let it. Sixty years ago the keenest of keen Americans summed the then situation in plain Kankee phrase, "Here's Hell broke loose, an' we lay flat.

With half the universe a singin', Till Sen'tor This an' Guv'nor That Stop squabblin' fer the gardingingin!"

Our latest hell was tenfold worse than the hell of the early sixties, and the next hell promises to multiply by ten the latest, unless the people compel the U. S. Senate to stop squabbling and ratify the League of Nations. Not a sham ratification, with reservations spitting in its face and giving it the lie, making it a stultification instead of a ratification; but an acceptance of the true place we have claimed for America as a "World Power" and "Destiny's Leader." We fought the war to end war, not to Prussianize our free country at the behest of militarists and munitionmakers.

These men, affecting fear that the treaty might compel the sending our boys to police half the world, assure us, in the same breath, that had it been known the U.S.A. would enter the late war there would have been no war. If this be true the League of Nations will be the sure safeguard of the world's peace, and insure our boys staying home, where we want them.

Another pet tongue-in-cheek plea is that, of course—Oh! Yes!—we favor a League of Nations, but NOT THIS ONE; we want one for immediate total disarmament! Articles 1 and 8 prescribe disarmament as far as possible at present.

Now is the time for America to exalt and ennoble herself in the eyes of the world, not to be self-degraded and belittled by a [illegible] ardly shrinking from her [illegible] bilities.

Brown, San Mateo, secretary-treasurer.

In addition to the election of officers committees were named by the president. These committeemen will conduct the affairs of the society until the next meeting to be held at a city to be designated by the Executive Committee, composed of C. Hirschey, Hillsboro, and August Voelmer, Berkeley.

The afternoon meeting of the convention was devoted to a lecture on the State headlight law and a discussion of the merits of the different devices and appliances to make automobile lights conform with the State laws. Many of the officers said that there should be a place in the large cities where automobile lights may be tested in case of a question as to their compliance with the law.

L. E. Voyer, Pacific Coast representative of the General Electric Company, delivered an interesting talk on headlights. He had an electrical apparatus with him which showed the difference between the several devices recommended as appliances for the automobile headlight to comply with the law. He showed how the lights on the cars should be elevated and the angle at which they should be placed to give the best service and still conform to the requirements.

EDWARD BERWICK.

Hammers the Havanas.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Harry Barker is a sad dog, in the colloquial sense only. When a man against whose vicious courses the cranks have hurled our javelins displays humor, we are all but disarmed; at least our funny bone are so titillated that our aim be comes less sure and lethal.

For all of me Harry may have his cigar a week, or day, or hour; even one a minute if he can get away with it. All I ask is that he and his very queer kind keep the smoke, stink and after-stenches of the dogs to themselves.

That, besides alcohol, is the only narcotic that has ever bothered me in my half-hundred years, and it has been a daily disgust and humiliation to me the greater part of that time, whenever I would move abroad among men. It was an affliction to me during several hours downtown today.

It is the one distinctly artificial, needless and immediately aggravating of all the vices. Others, I think, without exception, have had their beginnings usually either in some medical emergency, or, as in the case of the late more or less fermented Barleycorn, in the degradation of a natural appetite or need. The "aroma" of an evidently good brand of the stuff comes into my window at this time, from a saloon walk fifty feet away. I don't care what these fellows do to themselves; I object to having it done to me a second mouth. A. GEORGE.

WAS CHURCH WORKER

To Hold Last Rites Today for Mrs. Sarah P. Jeffries.

After an illness of several months Mrs. Sarah P. Jeffries, 77 years old, of 1116 Ingraham street, died at a local hospital Tuesday morning. She was prominent in church work, and had resided here for seventeen years.

Mrs. Jeffries leaves three sons, William P. and Richard H. Jeffries, both prominent in this city, and James H. Jeffries, who resides at Pineville, Ky.

Funeral services will be held at the chapel of Boothe & Fitch, 1016 South Hope street, at 2 p.m. today. Dr. C. C. Seleeman will conduct them. Burial will be in Inglewood Cemetery.

"WANTED IN NORTH."

George Devue, said by the police to be an ex-convict and wanted at Monroe, Wash., for violation of parole, was arrested late yesterday. Detectives Frank Williams and Ray Wood. Devue was located by the police in a downtown hotel. He is being held in the City Jail and will be sent to Washington.

COL. CEBALLOS FREED.

Extradition Refused for Ex-Carranza Officer on Money Charge.

Col. Augustine G. Ceballos, former Carranza officer, held here on a charge of embezzling 60,000 pesos, was given his liberty yesterday after a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Long. Extradition to Mexico was refused on the ground that no evidence offered to show that Col. Ceballos took the money.

It was shown at the hearing that Col. Ceballos deserted while holding a command in the State of Chihuahua after trouble with a higher officer. He was conducting a taxicab service when arrested.

QUEER CLOCK SHOWN.

Antique Timepiece Added to Art Exhibit, Open Tomorrow.

One of the attractions at the Art Center Exhibit, to be opened by H. B. Crouch tomorrow in the former Constance Crawley home at Lucas and Shatto streets, is a twelve-dial clock made in the fifteenth century. This silver timepiece is fearfully and wonderfully made. Mr. Crouch has used his knowledge as a jeweler and has persuaded the wheels to turn and yesterday the ancient timepiece kept the exact and accurate time for twelve hours, and will be running tomorrow.

The exhibit is to be known as the H. B. Crouch Art and Antique Galleries. Rare antiques of historical value are to be displayed, and the center is to be permanent. A pipe organ has been installed. Refreshments are to be served. There is to be no charge for anything connected with the opening.

ACTRESS INJURED.

Louise Glaum Sprains Ankle in Fall While Picture is Taken.

While taking the final scenes of her new picture production at the long wharf at Santa Monica yesterday Miss Louise Glaum, film actress, fell and sprained her ankle. A number of valuable trinkets that fell into the water were recovered by Japanese fishermen.

While a scene was being taken the framework of a steamship railing, one of the "props," fell on Miss Glaum and nearly knocked her through a hole in the pier. Her handbag fell into the water. When the fishermen recovered it Miss Glaum showed them two diamond rings, valued at $2200, which were in the bag and then gave each of them a $20 bill.

NO DAMAGES FOR HIM.

A verdict for the defendant was returned by a jury in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court, yesterday, in the action brought by Gilbert L. Tanner against the Southern Pacific to recover damages for injuries suffered in an accident at the Ninth-street crossing of the company in Santa Paula, in November, 1916. Tanner was struck by a train as he attempted to cross the track and severely injured. His petition asked for a verdict of $50,000.

HOLE IN BRAIN DOESN'T KILL.

Mystery Man Desperately Tries to End Life but Fails.

A man of mystery tried desperately to kill himself yesterday afternoon in a locked room in a small hotel at 708 East Fifth street, but even after putting a bullet into his brain he still lives. The police have been unable to learn who the man is, or anything about him. After he shot himself in the head the door of the room was broken open by the police and the would-be suicide was rushed to the Receiving Hospital where the surgeons say he may recover.

ENDS HIS LIFE.

Wheeling Man Uses Gas to Commit Suicide in Rooming House.

A man thought to be Walter S. Jones of Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday ended his life by inhaling gas in a rooming house at 107 West Fifth street. The body was found by persons living in the house.

According to the police, Jones registered a few days ago under the name of H. A. Allen. Yesterday he retired early in the morning and was not again seen alive. The name Walter S. Jones was found by the officer on the dead man's personal papers.

NEW SYSTEM OF FAT REDUCTION

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo —Obesity. The say that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bed-time, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system —do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial cannot do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent post paid by the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but $1.—[Advertisement.]

SOOTHING POTION.

The administration is going to iron out all the ills and bring rest and comfort to a storm-tossed country. Glory be! the blanks for the preparation of income tax statements are about ready for distribution.

RHYME AND REASON.

Vachel Lindsay insists that rhythm is of more importance than rhyme in the making of poetry. But what are we to do with these birds who are putting over what they call poetry without either rhythm, rhyme or reason? Isn't there something in the great covenant to protect us?

DAMAGED CREDIT.

The Allies want to put off paying interest on their American loans for three years or so. By that time we are pretty sure to need the money. But we hereby serve notice on the nations that still want to borrow American dough that to try and hedge on the first interest payments is a poor way to establish credit.

THE INDEPENDENTS.

When chain stores get to fighting one another it would seem that the consumer might derive a little benefit from the situation, but he hasn't noticed it yet. About the only thing that happens is that the individual store-keeper with the modest capital is put out of business and beyond competition. Are the stores that have no bookkeeping, no clerks and no delivery cutting a swath in the high cost of living? Ask the wife.

UNDESIRABLES.

Labor-union agitators who wanted to carry their message to the thousands of employees in the Panama Canal Zone were refused an opportunity to land and explain their programme. They were simply turned around and headed back for New York with the explanation that their appearance was not only unnecessary, but undesirable. It needs no expensive team of yappers from Gotham to tell the Zone workers whether they are comfortable or not. They are at least masters of their own fate to that extent.

THE RISE IN SPARKS.

In spite of all the campaigns against advancing prices, diamonds are reported as being 100 per cent. higher than they were six months ago, and heaven knows they were costly enough then. Unless there is a halt somewhere there will be whole families suffering for diamonds before the winter is over. No wonder the stevedores and plasterers have had to go on a strike. The way diamonds are behaving in the market no man can keep his jazz baby supplied with this necessary of life while he is only drawing out a measly ten bucks a day. The administration is blowing a lot about what it is doing to keep down the price of existence, but if Atty.-Gen. Palmer cannot do something to check the rising cost of solitaires he may as well pack his Presidential aspirations away in moth balls.

THE OLD SUIT.

In many communities Old Clothes clubs are being formed. The slogan of this modern order with an ancient name is: "No new clothes till prices drop." The largest chapter of the organization has been formed by the city employees of Chicago and the members cling to their old togs as long as they can be persuaded to hang together. When they have to buy they do not purchase costly raiment. They haunt the second-hand shops and exchange hints as to bargains that may be found. In London the Old Clothes clubs have been running for some time and certain members of the House of Lords have been accused of holding membership in the same. But mostly the purpose is to educate people to avoid extravagant buying. There are lots of men who know how to buy almost anything but their own clothes. When they get to decorating their frames they seem to lose their reckoning. The Old Clothes club serves as a clearinghouse for ideas on thrift in connection with the apparaling of its members.

PAYING THE PROFESSOR.

Professors at the Carnegie Institute are complaining because they are not getting enough to enable them to buy shoes at present prices and at least one of them has been brought to actual suffering. They have long since parted company with the breakfast egg and they have to run up and down the corridors to keep warm. This exercise adds, of course, to the shoe problem. Andrew Carnegie was reputed a great friend of education, but he paid his steel workers more than he did his professors. The steel-mill operatives strike every now and then, but the professors so far have a clean record. Nevertheless they appeared at the last faculty meeting with a petition for a new scale of wages. They don't ask for overtime at double price, but they want enough to keep them in shoes and suspenders and they want an egg for breakfast Sunday mornings. It would seem that a good professor who spends $20,000 in money and ten years of his life in training for his job ought to get almost as much as a man who pushes a wheelbarrow load of pigiron around.

MICHIGAN'S POLITICAL SCANDAL.

If all the charges, or even a tenth part of them, are true in the cases involving alleged election frauds in Michigan it is not clear how either Senator Newberry or Mr. Ford is entitled, under the election laws of that State, to a seat in the United States Senate. The indictments returned against Senator Newberry and scores of others who took part in his campaign allege only acts that are deemed permissible under the laws of California and of most other States, but are designated as corrupt practices under the purity of elections laws of Michigan.

A newspaper man has been indicted because he accepted employment at a salary of $150 a month as a press agent for the Newberry campaign committee. Dozens of newspaper men are so employed in California Senatorial campaigns and elsewhere, and the wage scale for such press agents is $50 a week.

A newspaper publisher has been indicted because he accepted a ton of paper on which to print a few thousand extra copies boosting the Newberry campaign. Tens of thousands of copies are here bought outright.

More than a hundred men have been indicted because they accepted a $5 compensation for working at the polls on election day. Such an expenditure has always been considered both legitimate and expedient in California.

Scores of others have been indicted because they accepted compensation for working before the primaries to carry their wards or districts for Newberry. That is a direct blow at what is considered a legitimate industry in this State.

It is not charged that Newberry paid any of this money personally. He is indicted on a charge of having guilty knowledge that certain of his friends were contributing money to aid his campaign. It is charged that Newberry campaign committees raised $180,000 and expended $176,000 of the sum to promote his candidacy.

All these alleged acts are violations of the election laws of Michigan, although they are considered fitting political activities, we believe, in every other State in the Union.

Imagine a Senatorial or gubernatorial campaign conducted in California under such restrictions! Imagine the old Johnson machine trying to function under such a handicap! There has not been a State campaign in California in ten years in which the pay-roll brigade has not been assessed to defray a part of the political expenses of the machine candidates. In the last Senatorial campaign $25,000 was expended for billboard advertising of the candidates alone.

The Times is not reciting these instances in justification of what may or may not have taken place in Michigan. We are of the opinion that a rigid enforcement of election laws similar to those under which the indictments were returned would lead to cleaner elections. But the Senate of the United States is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members. If only those who had not been guilty of similar practices were to vote for the unseating of Senator Newberry, we cannot conceive how a single vote could be cast in the Senate against him. The charge against Senator Newberry and his friends is not that they purchased votes outright, but that money was used to purchase political influence.

Senator Newberry's friends charge that similar expenditures were made in Mr. Ford's campaign. They say that the scenery of Michigan was defaced by Ford posters and that pages of advertising boosting his campaign were run in the Michigan newspapers. They hold that the appearance of these posters and paid advertisements are prima facie evidence that money was being expended in his interest; and that Mr. Ford would have been compelled to wear a bandage continually over his eyes to be unaware of it.

But disqualifying Mr. Ford does not qualify Senator Newberry. The electorate of Michigan has a right to make its own rules for the conduct of political campaigns. Mr. Newberry is presumed to have known what they were when he consented to stand as a candidate; and if his friends violated them with his knowledge we do not see how he can escape paying the penalty.

On the other hand, a direct primary conducted under those rules would be very much of a farce. An outsider would have to be an expert cracksman to break into office under such conditions. A campaign of silence on the part of the press would be deadly. Under the old system of electing Senators by State Legislatures it was possible for a man with merit as his only claim to go to the Senate; under the direct primary he is helpless.

The Senatorial campaign in Michigan seems to have been conducted according to time-honored custom. Paid political workers manufactured sentiment for certain candidates. The political boss seems to have been very much in evidence. Under the State law the professional politicians were barred. When they couldn't enter the campaign through the front door they had no compunctions about using the back stairs. The purity of election laws prohibited a century-old custom; and the experience of all governments proves that when laws run counter to the manners and customs of a people enforcement becomes a labor of Hercules.

CONSERVATION AND SANTA CLAUS.

In connection with cost-cutting one of the high-priced highbrows of the government is sending out a special bulletin to instruct the masses in the noble art of cutting Christmas trees. In other years this has been a wasteful process. People have gone out and gathered their Christmas trees with a careless disregard of the future that was most aggravating. If the administration can prevent it no such blunders will be made this season and so there is a picture book to show just how the tree should be swatted and where. They should be cut where there is a compact growth—thinned out as it were—and isolated trees should not be taken. It is not necessary to rob the forest of the large and symmetrical trees to make a church or community festival. Just cut off excess branches and stick them in holes bored in an old telephone pole and the kids won't know the difference. Maybe not. Anyway, we are going to have conservation of Christmas trees if the government has to spend a million dollars in a campaign of education. Possibly the cheapest way to get a Christmas tree would be to drop a line to Santa Claus. The government is playing Santa right along.

Get Behind Them!

PARLOR INSECTS.

Now comes the "parlor intellectual" and places his order for a first-class halo and other trappings of immortality. Before delivering the decorations it might be well for us to study his style, so that we may with absolute certainty achieve an artistic triumph. It will be noticed at the very beginning that this new intellectual scintillator does not challenge the profundities of mathematics, neither does he simplify for us the many mysteries of existence. He never stoops to our level for the purpose of explaining the starry universe nor to unravel the tangled skein of human love. No, he has nothing to do with any of these things. Then how did he win his high-sounding title?

The parlor intellectual is a flirt, not only in the general meaning of the word, but more specifically he is a person who flirts with anarchy and all other things that are anti-moral, off-color and bizarre. There seems to be a certain piquancy in this kind of flirtation that is appreciated by all people who aspire to play the part of sociological cut-ups. At heart, of course, they realize that, but for the background of solid morality and good sense in the community, their naughty pictures would not be seen. Contrast is their breath of life. Many parlor intellectuals wish to remain harmless while they enjoy a certain notoriety. Indeed, some of them are without claws and never do anything worse than preen their anarchistic feathers and scandalize the neighborhood. These dramatic creatures raise great expectations in the hearts of idle auditors. One of the outstanding characteristics of a parlor intellectual is a desire to lead on and on in the direction of some sweet climax and then ignominiously fade out just before the clinch. Now, that in itself is a crime, as every devotee of the screen well knows. And yet it is just that premature fadeout which wins for the parlor intellectual his high place among bogus thinkers. The cold sweat of renunciation bedews his noble brow. Not for him the merry world where his faithful proxies do battle and get steam-rollered and shredded for the grand principles of chaos that he adores. His world is one of pure thought and that life that he lives therein exemplifies his intellectuality and makes him what he is.

He who flirts cannot afford to love one individual. He must love everybody or nobody. This explains the raptures of a parlor anarchist. If he throws a kiss now and then in the direction of Lady Sedition it is only what we should expect. How much more entertaining is she than the old-fashioned girls who copy all their rules of etiquette from the Constitution of the United States and refuse to dance with the devil.

The parlor Bolshevist leads a sequestered life. Safe under the wing of constituted authority, he has nothing to fear from lawless persons. Should his own deep thinking, freely expressed, goad some normal citizen out of what every anarchist is pleased to call a bovine contentment and should said citizen, in his weakened state, apply a little "direct action" to his able instructor, it is then, and only then, that our parlor intellectual invokes the law of the land. His roar for freedom of speech is heard around the world. He can stand anything but the practical application of his own intellectual remedies, from the terrors of which he is only rescued by the very constitution that he seeks to destroy.

One of the things past finding out, like the "way of a snake on a rock," is the way that a parlor intellectual can maintain an attitude of theoretical hostility to this country and yet not realize his own responsibility when half-civilized creatures, taking their cue from him, go forth on a rampage of treason and murder. It is the parlor Bolshevists, anarchists and I.W.W. who dazzle unthinking people with their mock intellectuality and encourage them to take the first step on the road of disloyalty and crime. These so-called intellectuals strike classic poses and utter the counterfeit coin of philanthropy. They dream of great rewards and never for a moment forget how charming they are.

With these painful truths all in our possession let us hold up yet a little longer the parlor intellectual's order for the halo, the grand cross and the martyr's crown. Should this firm stand be criticised and should it be pointed out that we have left nothing in the barren life of a parlor Bolshevist but the bitter prospect of being forgotten we can only reply in the words of a famous writer—"Let the punishment fit the crime."

THE WILSON HEART.

Does Mr. Wilson require to be supplemented in respect to heart? You may take M. Clemenceau's word for it. There is a fully authenticated story that the great Frenchman at one conference said to Mr. Wilson: "You have a heart of steel!" It was the involuntary tribute of admiration from that inflexible personality whom all the world calls the "Tiger" to superior hardness encountered in another bosom!

His story does not record whether M. Clemenceau had this expression wrung from him the day before he got the Saar Valley settlement or the day before he had his way about the French Alliance. Probably it was the latter, for that act was preceded immediately by the stern and relentless sending for the George Washington to Brest.

But the date is not important; it is the fact that is. Having a heart of steel, the President had to be supplemented by a big, tender, human heart, beating in some other breast, always near his own. America could not go to Europe without bowels of compassion somewhere. So the President chose Col. House.

He chose wisely. Kind hearts are more than coronets, and the heart of House was of the kindest. Everybody loved him. If the French do not erect a statue to him in the Place de la Concorde, as they once proposed a dinner in his sole honor during the President's absence, it will be because of fear of endangering the French Alliance.—[George Harvey's Weekly.

"BORING FROM WITHIN."

American labor is confronted by a situation that demands action from within. The radicals are arraying themselves against the public, and their movements are adversely affecting all organized labor in the opinion of the people, for they are carrying on their sinister work in the name of union labor, and there is as yet no official protest or repudiation from the conservative elements of labor organization. Labor cannot afford to lose what it has gained. It cannot afford to sacrifice public respect and sympathy. The country has no desire to see labor lose its standing. Indeed, the retrogression of labor would be a public loss. The advancement of the whole people would be retarded, for prosperous labor is an essential of that advancement. No one who loves his land can contemplate the present industrial situation without profound regret—regret that such conditions can be in free America, and regret that the interests of true and honorable American labor should suffer from the contamination of Red radicalism, which the great majority of American workmen abhor. Organized labor should clean its house America.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

COMMON SENSE IS SCARCE.

While the average man and woman are supposed to possess common sense, as a matter of fact not one person in a thousand is gifted with it. In order to do things aptly and opportunely only a little common sense is required. Common sense is so potent that it is able to work miracles where great talents or brilliant genius will fail to accomplish anything. Common sense has done more for humanity than all the genius of the world. Common sense is learned from contact with the world; no one has it to start with. A genius is born, but a man with common sense is made.—[Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

THE WAY OF IMPROVEMENT.

Every man who saves, whether small sums or large, is a capitalist. And modern economic advance results from modern financial expediency whereby those savings are assembled and employed in productive enterprise. The line of improvement does not lie in the direction of diminishing this incentive to save by taxing private incomes to provide funds for politicians to distribute unproductively. The line of improvement lies in the direction of better financial knowledge, closer restriction of food, more thrift.—[Minneapolis Journal.

AMERICAN LEGION.

BY WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

The future of this country is bound up in the character and political and social ideals of its young men. They were tried in this war and not found wanting. The fears that their strength had been sapped by commercialism and love of luxury were proven unfounded by their deeds. Their course not only thrilled us in our national pride and our love of martial glory, but it gave to us in our more deliberative moments a satisfying confidence that the best American traditions of government and society still lived in the hearts and minds of our youth.

To give the force of union and the strength of concentrated expression to the high ideal of Americanism which our boys in khaki and our sailors in blue manifested the American Legion was formed. It aims to include in its membership all those who served either in the army or the navy during the great war. It would be hard to overestimate the value of the Legion to the country if its energies are rightly directed and it restrains itself from tendencies which experience in other associations have shown to be its danger. It may properly guide the grateful action of Congress and State Legislatures to the assistance of its worthy members who, because of their service in the war, need assistance. But it should set its face sternly against anything which may seem to be an organized raid on the treasury of the United States or of the individual States and use every care to avoid the invidious charge that its members only saved the country to sack it.

It should see that it be not made the political instrument of any member or group of members in the organization. It should keep its motives pure and sweet and clean of any selfish or greedy purpose. So doing, when the cause of Americanism is at stake, when anarchy and Bolshevism shake their gory locks, when ungrateful aliens or citizens of alien origin aim at destroying our institutions and the public order, the Legion will prove a mighty bulwark against every assault upon American life, liberty and property by the wild fools, crazy theorists, plunderers and murderers among us who would exalt and follow the teachings of Lenine and Trotzky. The Legion will stabilize our institutions that have made for our happiness in the past and given to those born here or who have come to this country as a refuge an equality of opportunity never before known.

But the Legion must know that its influence for this great good depends on its maintenance of the ideals shown by its members in military defense of the country and the world. It was their high courage, their spirit of sacrifice, their discriminating intelligence and their obedience to orders and law which made them the efficient force they were. It was their self-restraint that made them effective. Now that they have returned to private life they must maintain the same qualities. Liberty regulated by law is their only safe guide. Ebullitions by any group of them, however, provoked by the mouthings of anarchistic and Bolshevistic demagogues, must be suppressed if their Legion is to be useful. No finer example could be followed by them than that of the American Legion men in the parade at Centralia, who, though shocked and startled by the cruel outrage upon their fellows, prevented the eager crowd from lynching the I.W.W. murderers, seized bloody-handed.

The disposition of small local groups of American Legion men to take the law into their own hands, to regulate by force what shall appear upon the stage in opera or in a play and to suppress by threatened or actual violence speech of which they do not approve, should be discountenanced and restrained. It is lawlessness awakening the sympathy of the people that is most dangerous to the state and our liberties. It is in the teeth of the lessons our boys had and followed in their service during the war. The law should take its course. Protest by the Legion or its local divisions against any official negligence or inaction in cases calling for quick attention and effective prosecution will achieve every legitimate purpose. The Legion, if it keeps within the law, can carry such weight in influencing popular judgment that no municipal, county or State officer will dare incur its condemnation. But if local groups of the Legion are permitted to organize themselves into vigilance committees, to act in disregard of law and lawful authority, they will lose, and ought to lose, their influence.

These words are written in the highest appreciation of the motives that prompted the organization of the Legion, of its ideals and of the character of its members. It helps, however, to point out the possible temptations to which the Legion is exposed, so that they may be resisted. Everyone who is eligible should join the Legion and become an active member in its work and in determining its course. The more all-inclusive its membership the more certain it is to maintain in its influence in time of peace those high traits which, to the joy and pride of every loyal American, as the army and navy of the United States, it showed in time of war.

Opportunity for Correction.

A seedy-looking individual managed to get into the private office of a business man known for his philanthropy.

"I have walked a good many miles to see you, sir," said the seedy one to the successful one, "because people told me that you were very kind to poor chaps like me."

"Oh, they said that, did they?"

"Yes, sir, that's why I came."

"And are you going back the same way?"

"Yes, sir."

"In that case I shall be greatly obliged to you if you will be good enough to contradict this rumor."—[Unidentified.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

ANTHEM NO. 44.

My country, you're a peach, best pebble on the beach! This I contend, e'en when the high cost queers all of my later years, e'en when the profiteers rob without end. Land of the pilgrims' pride, land where the well-known hide goes with the tail, I'll always sing your praise, even if bilking jays sting me in fifty ways, taking my kale. Land where the income tax puts automatic jacks under my wad! If we have griefs and woes, problems and things like those, sores on our heads and toes, let's look abroad! Over on other shores they have a million sores where we have one; hark to the foreign howls, see how the peasant growls, wiping his tear-wet jowls—look at the Hun. If we have scattered Reds batting their futile heads on a stone wall, they have their legions there, arguing black despair, jawsmiths with wind to spare, also with gall. My country, soon or late, you'll get things going straight, get things in tune; men to their jobs will hike, cutting out useless strike; and, for the love of Mike, let it be soon!

WALT MASON.

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Professor Dink Beeson was telling me yesterday that Old Dock Forepaugh died of liver complaint And the Dock made enough in his Younger days off his Liver Cure To keep him in comfort to the end And to leave enough property to Set his family quarreling over Its division and never a drop of The Cure ever went into the Doc's Own system, and the Prof says That the cleverest defense ever Written of Suicide was by a German who was unhappy and unhealthy every day of his seventy years Of life without (seemingly) once Thinking of breaking his own way Into Never-Never Land, and he Sees by the paper that Goldman And Berkman are to be deported But only after years spent in Invoking the bulwarks of the Government they had attempted to Destroy, and years of paying big Fees to cunning lawyers to twist The laws they denounced, in Their own behalf.

THREE FALL.

HUSBAND WAGES.

A wage scale of "fair prices" should be established for husbands' work in order that profiteering wives may not take advantage of easy-going husbands. A dollar and a half an hour should be paid for beating carpets, making the beds, setting the table and cutting up onions. Two dollars an hour and hospital expenses for hanging pictures. Fifty cents for the first half-mile and sixty cents a mile thereafter for pushing the baby up the street or walking the floor with him at night. A dollar a trip for getting up to give the baby its medicine is not exorbitant, although the wife should be entitled to a draw-back if the baby is given poison by mistake.

Husband must bounce the baby on his knee on his own time. Paternal affection demands certain duties on his part for which he should not receive recompense. Furthermore, he cannot rightly hold the wife financially responsible for domestic work resultant from his own contributory negligence. If he has been paid to watch the baby and has slipped off for a few minutes he must, free of charge, pick up the playing cards which have been scattered in his absence, mop up the table on which the vase of flowers was spilled, locate the scissors which the offspring has either swallowed or hidden some place, and untangle the cat from the ball of yarn which has been wrapped tightly around it.—[New York Telegraph.

H. C. of Whisky.

A "regular" from a western army camp came home the other day on an extended furlough. He was entertained extensively by his former companions and friends.

One evening he told the boys about the Indian's great love for whisky. "Why, the way them Indians love whisky beats anything you ever saw," he remarked. "I once met a Cheyenne on his pony. 'Give me a drink of whisky; I'll give you my bridle for it,' he says. 'No,' says I. Then he offered his bridle and saddle and pony all in a bunch for one drink."

"Well, wouldn't you give it to him for all that?" asked one of the boys.

"Well, not much!" said the soldier, emphatically. "I only had one drink left."—[New York Evening Post.

Not Properly Equipped.

"Perhaps I ought to tell you," said the applicant for a position, "that I have just finished serving a prison sentence."

"Oh, that's all right," said the employer. "I won't hold that against you. But, wait a minute. What kind of a prison was it?"

"A model institution, sir. The warden, God bless you, was a father to me!"

"Ah. In that case I'm afraid you won't do. This job is not suited to a 'hothouse plant.' What I want is a man with calloused hands and a corned-beef-and-cabbage appetite."—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mutual Critics.

"Do you know what the hanging committee have done?" said the first artist. "They've absolutely ruined my picture by banging it next to the worst daub in the exhibition."

"I've the same complaint," said the second artist. "I looked in yesterday and found mine hanging beside a frightful thing."

"How do you do, fellows?" said artist number three, joining them. "I see they've hung your pictures side by side this year."—[Chicago News.

Whose censers shaken by the grant winds,
Give to the air a lover's litany—
I close mine eyes,
That I might better see
The dusky green of that far cocoanut grove
That gives on stretches of white sands,
And the blue sea.

When from the patterned ceiling
my room
and mock at me,
Who have seen thousands of brightest blooms
Toss their sweet arms in ecstacy,
Then—oh, dear heaven,
How I long and yearn to be Where sea winds murmur
some cocoanut grove
That gives on stretches of sands
And the blue sea!

Dr. Orbison escaped death by a narrow margin when a high-explosive shell struck the corner of the window near which he was sitting at work at his desk in the office of the American Relief Administration.

WRECKS OFFICE.

"At 3 o'clock," Dr. Orbison writes, "The shell struck just back of me, knocking a big hole in the house, exploding with all kinds of noise, and completely wrecking my office.

"Pieces of the shell went completely through a thick dictionary within the reach of my hand. Everything was blown off the walls of the room, except a small American flag! I received some scalp wounds—not serious, but the escape was truly miraculous. Everything became dark, due to smoke and debris. I at once made my way to the outer room and called out to find if any one was killed. Fortunately there was no one there. The next day we moved to our new office; where we now are."

The exact situation, Dr. Orbison points out, is not known to the outside world.

"We are really in the midst of war," he says. "The city of Riga has been undergoing a bombardment for two weeks and more damage has been done by shells than during all the rest of the five years of war. Evidences of war are all about us. Just now a detachment

CITY ELECTION SATISFIES ALL.

Opposing Factions at Santa Monica Pleased.

Berkley's Re-election Brings Municipal Harmony.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 3.—Much rejoicing in the "Unity Camp" and congratulations from the opposition as well as the victorious demonstrated today what politicians here declare is the entire good will of the public as the result of the re-election of Mayor S. L. Berkley last night for a second term in the office of Commissioner of Public Safety. As the other candidates gave annexation a prominent part in their platforms, it is thought that Mr. Berkley, whose platform was to unite opposing factions, will prove satisfactory to everyone.

This election is the first one since the preferential system of voting was instituted four years ago. Its purpose, that of gaining a "majority" Mayor, has been defeated. The devotees of the preferential system are decrying the fact that only one-fourth of the voters voted for a second or third choice. There were 2848 first-choice votes cast and only 613 second. Berkley was elected by a small plurality, all his choicest amounting to 1445, J. C. Steele's coming to 1004. G. B. Dickinson received 961 of the total votes cast and C. H. Brown 161. It is said the preferential system is not wholly understood, demonstrated by the fact that practically three-fourths of the voters "single-shooted," or voted only first choice. It is thought that an organization to educate the public in the matter of preferential voting will be organized.

The present incumbent of the office of police judge, N. I. King, was re-elected. Bond issues providing for $75,000 for improving water mains passed, 1728 for, and 823 against, and $75,000 for the improvement of the pier passed, 1942 for, and 599 against.

NURSE SAYS SHE WAS SURPRISED

Mrs. M. E. Winter Was Hardly Able to Walk Upstairs.

Rheumatism Disappears After She Takes Tanlac.

"Finest Medicine I've Seen," She Says.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism so long that I couldn't walk, but since I have taken Tanlac I never have a pain of any kind and have gone back to doing all my housework," said Mrs. M. E. Winter, a practical nurse of 5913 Fifty-seventh avenue, Southeast, Portland, Oregon, a few days ago.

"For the past five years I have suffered something awful with rheumatism in my limbs and arms," continued Mrs. Winter, "and they ached so badly I could scarcely straighten them out. My knees were so swollen and stiff that I could hardly get up and down the steps and the muscles in my arms and limbs were drawn up like they were tied in knots and many a time I would have to get up during the night and rub liniment or put hot applications on my limbs before I could ease the pain. My kidneys gave me a lot of trouble, and I had such an awful pain across the small of my back that at times I could hardly keep from screaming. I was badly constipated and was always taking laxatives, and often I would have terrible dizzy spells. My liver was always sluggish, and I was troubled with indigestion so bad that my appetite left me and at night I was never able to rest well because of the pains.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines, but could get only temporary relief, and one day a man living here at my home was telling the clerk in the Owl Drug Store here in town about my condition, when another customer stepped up and said: 'Tanlac is what you want!' So he brought me a bottle. And the way I improved was a surprise to me, and I continued to take Tanlac, until now all my five years of trouble have left me entirely. I haven't a trace of rheumatism, and can sleep the whole night through as sound as a child. My liver and kidneys are in fine condition, and the pain across the small of my back has disappeared completely, and I can eat anything I want without any bad effects at all. My constipated condition has been relieved and I never have to take a laxative and the dizzy spells are a thing of the past. Tanlac is the best medicine I have ever seen, for it has given me permanent relief after everything I had tried had failed."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by The Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 3.—Final distribution of the estate of Mrs Margaret Garland, one of the pioneer residents of Redlands, was made today. Mrs. Garland died on October 23 without having made a will, leaving a considerable estate in money and property.

The court made an equal division of the property to a son, Sanford Garland, and a daughter, Miss Maud Garland. The son assigned the thirty-acre grove of orange on East Citrus avenue, known as the home place, to Miss Garland and took a sum of money of like value.

R. H. Gariand, who left the estate, was a pioneer of Redlands and for many years a Trustee. He left a will, but owing to the desire of the widow and the two children probate was not concluded until November of this year, the estate having been under the jurisdiction of the court for twenty-one years.

LADIES DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—[Advertisement.

URGE MORE BOATS FOR WEST COAST.

SHIPPERS IN CONVENTION AT SAN DIEGO WIRE BOARD AT WASHINGTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 3.—An urgent request to J. B. Payne, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, to allocate more steamships to take care of the rapidly-growing maritime commerce of the Pacific is contained in a telegram sent to Chairman Payne tonight by members of the Pacific Coast Harbor Authorities' Association, in session here. The telegram says that steamships now on the Coast are "entirely inadequate to handle the present traffic, as indicated by the fact that all lines are booked full until July next."

"This," says the telegram, "is seriously interfering with present commerce and practically prohibiting increase therein we are entitled to by reason of peace conditions. Prior to war American ships carried 47 per cent. of the first-cabin passengers between Pacific Coast and Orient. Since last April average has dropped to 18 per cent., thereby leaving American merchants at the mercy of foreign countries, whose primary object is to increase their foreign commerce at our expense."

The telegram concludes by asking "most serious consideration" of this matter.

REPAIR OLD MISSION.

Tile Roof to Replace Covering Made of Shingles.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Dec. 3.—Work of tiling the old mission roof has started here, the work being under the direction of a Los Angeles architect. Fifty years ago the original tiling on the Mission of San Buenaventura had fallen into such a state of disrepair that it was necessary to give the roof a thorough overhauling. It was accomplished by removing the original tiles and putting on shingles, a practical method of looking after the roof, but one that has always been severely condemned by local antiquaries and others. The new tiles will do much to give the mission the appearance it had in the years when it was first built by the Indians under the direction of the padres.

RESCUE EX-SOLDIER.

Suffering from Shell Shock Veteran Nears Death.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Dec. 3.—Lying in a trembling heap in the mud and grass of the Del Rey marshes, Samuel Myers, 17 Clark avenue, who wandered from his home two days ago, was found by men driving through Del Rey this afternoon.

Myers, son of wealthy Dallas (Tex.) parents, was suffering from loss of memory, a result of shell-shock received in France more than a year ago. He came here a few weeks ago with his nurse and physician to recuperate. His mother, who came from Texas when she heard that her son had taken seriously ill, took him to the Merritt Jones Hotel today, where efforts are being put forth to prevent him from taking pneumonia. Police say that he was buried to his waist in the mud of the marshes.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Dec. 3. — William D. Willis, alias W. D. Walker, a resident of the Tipton district, south of here, who was arrested on a bad check charge more than four years after the alleged offense, was released from custody here on recommendation of the District Attorney.

Inasmuch as the alleged transaction on which Willis's arrest was based took place in 1915, the statute of limitations, according to the District Attorney, will preclude a prosecution.

FORMER SOLON TALKS POLITICS.

Nathan B. Scott in Favor of Harding or Lowden.

City Officials in Row Over Municipal Railway.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Dec. 3. — "I think Senator Harding or Gov. Lowden, either one, would be popular Republican candidates for President," said Nathan B. Scott, former U. S. Senator from West Virginia and for twenty-nine years a member of the Republican National Committee, at the Hotel Maryland here today. Former Senator and Mrs. Scott have just arrived from their home in Washington, D. C., to spend the winter here.

"It is still too early to make predictions as to the Republican nomination," added ex-Senator Scott. He continued: "Gen. Wood undoubtedly has a good following, but in my opinion he would not poll as many votes as either Senator Harding or Gov. Lowden. Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts is a good Governor, but I do not believe he would carry any great popular appeal as a Presidential candidate. In my opinion William Howard Taft wouldn't stand any show at all.

"Whoever the Republicans put up will win. I believe this regardless of who may be nominated by the Democrats. Should Mr. Wilson's health permit him to run again I do not believe he could be elected."

ROW OVER RAILWAY.

That there is a rift in the municipal railway agitation within the City Commission itself, which recently revived the project, became apparent today when it was learned that City Commissioner W. H. Reeves has issued instructions to City Engineer R. V. Orbison to do no further preliminary work on the interurban project unless specifically instructed to do so by Mr. Reeves himself. As Mr. Reeves is head of the department of public works the City Engineer is his subordinate. Commissioner Reeves was out of the city today so it could not be learned whether he has decided to oppose the municipal road idea or not.

Wallace de Wolf, well known artist, has returned to Pasadena from the East and will make his permanent home here, it is announced. He will occupy a specially prepared bungalow at the Maryland, where he will carry on his artistic work.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS HERE.

High officials of the Southern Pacific lines spent some time in Pasadena this afternoon inspecting the local terminals and freight and passenger stations of the road. The party arrived on a special train. The officials are inspecting all the lines and stations in Southern California. In the party which visited here were J. H. Dyer, general manager of the Southern Pacific; T. H. Williams, assistant general manager; William Jackle, chief engineer of the Southern Pacific system, and W. H. Whalen, division superintendent. They are making a general survey of the road on the eve of the return of the lines to private ownership.

WANT MORE DAYLIGHT.

Representing citizens of Pasadena, the Pasadena Board of Trade is sending a memorial to Congress asking for the enactment of the daylight-saving law as a permanent institution. The directors of the board framed the petition today and it will be forwarded to the Pasadena delegation in Congress. The memorial states that the daylight saving met with great popular favor and was regarded as an economic saving on the Pacific Coast.

The Pasadena Lodge of Elks will hold its annual lodge of sorrow, in memory of departed Elks, next Sunday evening at the clubhouse on West Colorado street. The principal speaker will be Leo Youngworth, Past Exalted Ruler of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99. Other speakers will be Harry M. Ticknor of Pasadena, Past President of the State Association of Elks and Mrs. Isabel Garretson Hart, reader.

PRESERVES START FIRE.

Several cans of preserved fruit exploded early this morning at the home of W. J. Booth, 80 South Madison avenue, the combustion starting a fire in the basement of the house. The fire department was called and extinguished the blaze before much damage was done. Mrs. G. H. Mitchell, residing next door to the Booths, was awakened from her sleep by the explosion of the preserve jars. She thought burglars were holding up the Booth residence and telephoned for the police.

Manufacturers Lease Property in Tulare County.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Dec. 3.—Indications of coming activity in cement manufacture in the Three Rivers, east of here, is given in statements made by Eastern and San Francisco cement me that they have secured options on lime rock and clay deposits in the Three Rivers foothills and that they are considering plans for the erection of a 2000-barrel mill here.

C. F. Osborne of New York City, F. R. Prentiss and Walter C. Cole of San Francisco are the capitalists said to be behind the deal. In fact, they recently made representations to the State Highway Commission in connection with prospective cement contracts, declaring their ability to furnish cement at $2.10 per barrel and stating they must be protected against future piracy by the "cement trust" if they secured prospective business.

RACES THRILL.

The chariot races, between Elmer Dowly of San Bernardino and E. J. Levengood of Pomona, with four superb horses each, were most thrilling and the scene, as they raced about the course amid the shouts of the spectators, resembled a Roman stadium of ancient times.

A slight drizzle of rain started after the first heat of the chariot race and the crowd began to leave. Afterwards, enthusiastic to see the Army and Navy football team, they returned to their seats. Throughout the afternoon the Tomassino band played stirring marches and other popular music.

Tonight, through the courtesy of Mme. Katherine Tingley, the Isis Conservatory of Music at Point Loma presented for the visitors of the city an elaborate musical entertainment, with scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

From the stadium many of the spectators went to the reception held in the women's headquarters at Balboa Park for guests of the city. It was Marine and Navy Day at the reception, and Gen. Pendleton of the Marine Corps, Col. J. G. McGill and many other officers of the navy and Marine Corps attended. San Diego girls were there to dance and greet the visitors, and the party was one of the most brilliant of the week.

YOUR CHILD'S CHANCE

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful. If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education 87 chances; with a college education, 800 chances. WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home, every chance. It is not a luxury, it is an absolute necessity. It is an INVESTMENT in your child's future which will pay dividends as long as he lives. In over 650,000 homes today the children are being educated with THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Give your child his chance to compete with them.

THE NATION'S GREATEST ASSEST

The children of today are the citizens of tomorrow. They are the nation's greatest asset. No labor is so important, no duty so imperative, as that of making the children into 100% American citizens. We do not want book worms, we want intelligent, well-informed, forceful men and women, who can do their own thinking. Only a small part of this education can be obtained in the schoolroom. Three-fourths of it must be acquired in the daily reading, entertainments and occupations in the home.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is a new method of education in the home. Over 10,000 delightful educational pictures and brief intensely interesting articles tell the children everything they need to know in plain and simple language. It is the first work of reference which a child ever really enjoyed reading. It expands every faculty of the child's growing mind and takes care of the outdoor as well as the indoor life of the home.

CURIOSITY—THE GREAT TEACHER

CURIOSITY is the beginning of all knowledge. Do you know any subject about which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Let him ask as many as he likes, and be sure to answer them correctly. That is the parent's most important and most easily neglected duty. If you discourage your child's curiosity, you will injure his mind, and the bright boy or girl becomes stupid or indifferent. THROUGH CURIOSITY COLUMBUS DISCOVERED AMERICA. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the simplest and most natural method of helping the child to educate himself. IT ANSWERS EVERY QUESTION A CHILD CAN ASK IN PLAIN AND SIMPLE LANGUAGE. So captivating is this original work to the mind of a child that he absorbs with little effort the profound truths and great facts of the world of knowledge while reading its delightful pages and looking at the thousands of striking educational pictures.

Your child is like no other child in the world. He has his own peculiar taste and need for both physical and mental food. Some kinds of food agree with him and some do not. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the right kind of nourishing food for the child's mind during the growing years. Give your child this remarkable, original work, and watch carefully which of the 16 great departments interests him most. Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Literature, Poetry or Manual Training. It will prove THE KEY to his natural bent, and the kind of work or profession in which he will most easily succeed.

ARMY DEPOT STAYS HERE.

Closing Order of Quartermaster Revoked; Means Big Local Business Asset.

Col. George H. Penrose, in charge of the army quartermaster depot in Los Angeles, yesterday received orders from Washington to keep the depot open until further orders were received. In effect this constituted a revocation of the order closing the depot on December 31 and marked the successful end of the long fight waged by the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies to have the depot made permanent here.

The orders received yesterday came as a result of further investigation of the need for a depot here by Quartermaster-General Rogers in Washington. This reconsideration was made at the urgent request of Congressman Osborne and other California representatives.

PLAN FOR NEXT YEAR.

While Col. Penrose was unable to make any statement other than that the order had been revoked, it is believed by those who are in touch with the situation that the local depot will be made permanent. Reorganization of the depot may take place within the near future, and plans for handling the business for the ensuing year are now being made.

In compliance with instructions received from the San Francisco depot, surplus supplies held in storage in Los Angeles have been shipped to the northern depot. The shipment of these supplies will not cripple the local office in any way, it was stated yesterday, the present equipment and supplies being entirely adequate for carrying on the work of the office for the coming year.

MADE LONG FIGHT.

The revocation of the order closing the depot comes as the result of an active campaign carried on by the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and individual business firms, who sent many telegrams of protest to the Quartermaster-General at Washington.

The value of this office as a business asset to the community was fully realized by these organizations. Since its establishment in May, 1917, the local depot has awarded contracts and made disbursements in excess of $6,000,000. The monthly disbursements of this office in payment of contracts, pay rolls and in the purchase of supplies have increased steadily. Since October the expenditures have exceeded $500,000 monthly.

The maintenance of the depot in Los Angeles gives merchants and manufacturers an opportunity to bid for government contracts which would have been denied them by the closing of this office, since Southern California merchants would have been placed at a serious disadvantage in making their bids through the San Francisco office. Due to the fact that Southern California is the center of a great packing and canning industry, it was felt by local merchants that it was vitally necessary to retain the depot, in order that these industries be placed in a position where they could compete for government business.

EXPECT FURTHER ORDERS.

Further orders which will clearly define the position of the local depot are expected in the near future. Within the next two weeks, in all probability, definite announcement will be made as to the plans of the local office for the ensuing year. Under the orders which have been received from Washington, the office will continue to function as it has in the past, retaining full powers of disbursement, purchase, and the awarding of contracts.

ASK HARBOR LEASE.

Van Camp Company to Build Wharf and Cold Storage Plant.

Application for the lease of about three-quarters of an acre of land at the Los Angeles Harbor for a cold storage and ice plant was made to the Harbor Commission yesterday by the Van Camp Sea Food Company. The company wants a lease for thirty years. The commission has instructed the City Attorney and Harbor Engineer Ludlow to prepare the lease form.

The location asked for is the west side of the inner harbor main channel, south of the wholesale fish market. In connection with the proposed cold storage plant, the company expects to construct a wharf 350 feet long and to expend about $300,000 in the entire project.

DECRY LOW PAY OF MESSENGERS.

City Officials Ask Council for Rise in Interest of Good Service.

And now the high cost of living has hit the messenger boys in the city's service. An appeal was made yesterday to the City Council for increases in salaries for this class of service and the Finance Committee will consider the recommendation of City Auditor Myers and Efficiency Director McQuiston that the present schedule of $45, $50 and $55 per month, according to the year of service, be increased to $60, $65 and $70 per month.

"The messengers will not stay at present salaries and it is absolutely impossible to keep the messenger service up to proper standard," these officials say.

STOPS HIS TRIAL TO ENTER GUILTY PLEA.

SECOND OF YOUTHFUL BANDITS MAY FOLLOW FIRST IN SAN QUENTIN TRIP.

Taking judge, jurors and prosecutors by surprise yesterday, Edward R. Dersch, one of four young men under arrest for the burglary of the warehouse of P. A. Newmark & Co., South Los Angeles street, changed his plea in the middle of the trial to guilty. John Tahor was recently convicted and sentenced to San Quentin for the same offense, it being charged that Tahor, Dersch, Willis E. Carter and David Chase stole silk goods valued at $2000 from the warehouse, in addition to an automobile.

The second and third count of the information against Dersch was dismissed on motion of Deputy District Attorney Clark, and on request of William M. Morse, Jr., of counsel for Dersch.

Carter will be the next to come to trial, Chase having turned State's evidence. Chase's case will be heard in Juvenile Court.

OPEN PARK BIDS.

Ex-soldier Makes Better Westlake Concession Offer.

William J. Daze, a returned service man, was the highest bidder for the boating and refectory concession at Westlake Park, when the City Council opened bids yesterday. Mr. Daze is the present concessionaire. He offered to pay the city a rental of $501 a month for a period of fifteen years. David Jones was the only other bidder. His offer was $285 a month, but the bid was irregular in form. The bids were referred to the Supply Committee.

The successful bidder is required to erect a boathouse, to cost not less than $15,000, on plans and specifications that are approved by the Park Commission, the Municipal Art Commission and the City Council. The work must be begun within six months after the concession is awarded.

Councilman Mallard made strong objection to a fifteen-year lease, asserting that no such lease should extend for a period to exceed five years. Other Councilmen said that the requirement of a large investment in the new boathouse justified the granting of a long contract.

FIREMAN INJURED.

Lieut. Greenwood Thrown When Truck Crashes Into Street Car.

Fire Lieut. Harry S. Greenwood of 2673 North Sichel street was painfully injured yesterday when Fire Truck 12 was wrecked by a street car. The accident took place near the fire house at Pico and El Molino streets.

At the receiving hospital Greenwood was treated for injuries to both knees and painful bruises about the body. At the time of the accident the fire truck was answering an alarm that later proved to be false.

WON'T GIVE DAMAGES TO BABY PLAINTIFF.

JURY FINDS FOR DEFENDANT IN SUIT OVER DEATH OF TOT'S MOTHER.

After deliberating several hours yesterday, the jury in Judge Myers's court, trying the $25,000 damage suit of Laura Louise Mullins, 1 year old, against Rosamond Borde, of the Hotel Windemere, Santa Monica, for the death of her mother, brought in a verdict in favor of the defendant.

During the trial, Judge Myers ruled that the hotel was not negligent in maintaining a stair well into which Mrs. Mullins fell while a guest. The question for the jury to determine was whether or not Mrs. Mullins's death was due to being arrested on the charge of defrauding an innkeeper and being confined in jail.

The defense, through Attorney Heney, sought to show that Mrs. Mullins had a weak heart due to a previous illness, and that the arrest did not cause her death.

FIND REACH GUILTY.

Disbarred Attorney Convicted of Fraud of Racer's Widow.

After a four-day trial, Howard E. Reach, a disbarred attorney, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Willis's court yesterday of a charge of defrauding Mrs. Madeline E. Stearns, widow of the late Roger Stearns, an automobile racing driver, out of $640. The verdict of guilty was on one of three counts, the total amount Reach was alleged to have defrauded Mrs. Stearns out of while acting as her attorney, being $1740. He was found not guilty on the two other counts.

Deputy District Attorney Powell prosecuted. The case was continued until Friday for sentence.

DON'T EXPECT RELIEF FROM ITCHING SKIN

By Old-Time, Out of Date Methods of Treatment

Usually those who continue to suffer from stubborn ailments are those who refuse absolutely to heed the teachings of medical science. New discoveries are being constantly made, and those who fail to take advantage of the wonderful accomplishments of men of science are standing in their own light, and will continue under the handicap of disease.

Take so-called skin diseases, for instance. In the first place, they are not in reality diseases of the skin, but are referred to as such for the simple reason that the skin is the point of attack where the irritation and inflammation is set up.

But your eczema, tetter, boils, pimples, acne, scaly skin eruptions, and burning fiery irritations that cause so much discomfort by their terrifying itching, come from a tiny disease germ in your blood, which multiples by the millions. These germs find some weak spot where they can break through the skin and set up their attack, and if you have ever had any form of these skin disorders, you know what real torture is.

The reason these disorders appear so stubborn and hard to get rid of, is because they are not given the proper sort of treatment. In other words, the irritation and itching becomes so intense that the patient thinks only of relieving this discomfort, instead of directing his efforts toward getting rid of the cause of it all. Hence the constant use of lotions, salves, soaps and ointments can make no impression whatever on your trouble, other than to afford some temporary relief.

But why be content with mere temporary relief? Are you not desirous of being permanently rid of this annoying trouble that is a source of such constant torture? Wouldn't you give almost anything to be once more free from the itching and burning that makes your skin seem like it was on fire?

Then throw aside at once such makeshift treatment that can only reach the surface, and begin taking a remedy that goes direct to the source of your trouble. Go to your drug store, get a bottle of S. S. S. and begin a thorough course of this fine old blood medicine that kills the germs that creep into the blood and cause all of your skin discomfort. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable compound, made from roots and herbs of recognized medical value. It so thoroughly cleanses and purifies the blood, and builds up and strengthens the entire system, that the germs of disease are eliminated, and then real relief comes.

This fine old remedy is the sane and sensible treatment for your skin disease, as you will find by giving it a trial. If your case should need special advice, it can be had without cost to you, by writing to Chief Medical Adviser, 151 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

THE SHOW CIRCLE.

PRODUCTION OF "WANDERER" SCHEDULED FOR SUMMER.

By Edwin Schallert.

Indications are that the next picture to be made by Cecil B. de Mille will be of the society type, with which he has achieved much success of late. The director-general of the Famous Players-Lasky has not yet arrived at a decision as to his coming feature, but has announced that the production of "The Wanderer," originally scheduled for this time, will be postponed until next summer. The reason for this action is the possibility of rainy weather interfering with the taking of the many necessary exteriors. It is stated that the plan for filming "The Wanderer" has not been abandoned, because members of the De Mille staff are still in the East purchasing materials and gathering data for the production.

Was Author's Buddy.

Allen Hemingway, a young English tourist visiting Los Angeles, and formerly a "buddie" of Harold Chaplin, author of "Art and Opportunity," now playing at the Majestic, visited Miss Willamene Wilkes back stage last night. Mr. Chapin, an American, who joined the English army soon after the war started, was in the ranks with Hemingway. He was killed in action by a sniper's bullet.

Bushman and Bayne.

Theatergoers will have a chance to get acquainted with two well-known film luminaries across the footlights with the opening of "The Master Thief" next week at the Mason. These are none other than Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

Tourneur is Popular.

Maurice Tourneur, the celebrated French director, will be represented on two screens locally next week for, in addition to the showing of "Woman" at Clune's Auditorium, his picturization of Joseph Conrad's novel, "Victory," is to be projected on the silversheet at Grauman's. Tourneur has been coming to the fore remarkably of late because of his ability to mingle human interest with the spectacular in his productions.

Foy Due Here Soon

Eddie Foy and his family of Foyettes are expected in Los Angeles in a feature act on Pantages circuit very soon. Foy writes that he's looking forward to California, because the scenery where he is now in Canada consists mostly of snowballs.

Tangle Fenders.

Bryant Washburn, featured in "It Pays to Advertise," coming to Clune's Broadway next week, and Donald Crisp, who is directing the star in his present film, "Six Best Cellars," caused a flurry of excitement the other day on Vine street when they tangled fenders. It was this way: Crisp's auto was on one side of the street and Washburn's on the other. Both director and star were in a hurry, and it happened they gave their respective machines the "gun" at the same time. They met exactly in the center of the street. First each blamed the other, and then they did the Alphonse act of each blaming himself.

In telling of the damage, however, Crisp made one claim to which Washburn entered objection. The director wailed about a big dent in his fender. The star claimed the dent had been there for three years that he knew of. Crisp answered that the car was only a year old. Washburn merely replied that he did not care how old the car was, he knew that dent had been there for three years and he would keep on knowing it.

Glad Hand for Mary.

Mary Miles Minter, star of "Anne of the Green Gables," coming to Miller's Saturday, recently got a joyous thrill out of the friendly feeling displayed by the people of Santa Barbara for her. It seems Mrs. Charlotte Whitney, secretary to Miss Minter, paid a visit to the seacoast town shortly after the star arrived here, and as soon as the Santa Barbara people heard of her presence the telephone became immediately busy with calls inquiring as to whether Miss Minter intended to live in Santa Barbara again.

"Everyone in Santa Barbara must have inquired for Miss Minter, even to the young Mexican taxi driver," said Mrs. Whitney. "That particular youth excitedly asked me: 'I' Miss Minter going' come back?' When I informed him no, the little Mexican exclaimed ruefully, 'Oh, gee, ain't that tough!'"

Improvements at Kinema.

Within ten days the front of his Kinema Theater will undergo a complete metamorphosis, according to T. L. Tally, owner of the theater. Already electricians are working on a new projection booth which the technical engineers have ordered to be placed downstairs in the back of the house. Two new Simplex machines and lenses imported from the European market will make toward the finest projection, especially with new screens.

Hernando Villa, who painted the two panel decorations in the lobby of Tally's Broadway is now working on the exterior of the Kinema lobby, and expects to finish his work by next Sunday, when Mary Pickford opens in her new First National play, "Heart o' the Hills."

New Hip Show.

Margarita Fisher will appear at the Hippodrome for the balance of the week in "Trixie from Broadway," a story which shows the lure of the footlights and the charm of Broadway.

The vaudeville is topped by Detzell and Carrol, blackface comedians, and others are the Pantzer Duo in a gymnastic novelty; Faye and Thomas in a dancing specialty; Sidney Sheppard and company in a nifty little sketch, entitled "The Night Before Christmas," Burdell and Burdell in "A Little of This and a Little of That," and Curtis and Buster, the latter a smart dog.

SALISBURY FILM AT THE SUPERBA.

Monroe Salisbury in "His Divorced Wife," a melodrama of the Kentucky hills, and the Century fun film, "African Lions and American Beauties," are the attractions at the Superba this week.

The scenes of the feature production are laid in and about the picturesque mountains of Kentucky and afford many opportunities for artistic settings. The picture tells the story of the man who wins the love of a good woman, triumphing over more prosperous but less worthy rivals. In the telling, Elmer Elliott Peake, the author, has employed many unique situations, supplied many dramatic incidents, and drawn many contrasting characters which build up the interest of the play.

Salisbury does commendable work in the role of Ash Whipple, "the best blacksmith in the country," portraying an effective character type. Alice Elliot plays opposite the star in the role of Nance Haws. Others in the cast are Charles West, Charles LeMoyne, Alfred Alleen, Raymond Gallagher and Little Micky Moore.

MUSICAL FEATURE ON PANTAGES BILL.

"Temptation," a really enjoyable musical comedy with a 100 per cent. chorus and the principals headed by Bobby Vail, supported by Marie Mann, Neill McCleod and Victor Bayard., is the headliner at Pantages. The piece has played the Pantages times before, but it is receiving much approval. Bobby Vail, as the night-hawk cabby, has several new stunts to put over, while Marie Mann dances and sings prettily.

A rollicking "nutty" pair are Dunbar and Turner, who wiggle and twist and gallop and dance, as well as sing. Danse Fantasies, with Cecele d'Andrea and Henry Walters, is a well-arranged and well-staged dancing act.

Frank Ward offers songs, mimicry and a dancing doll number. George Quigley and Eddie Fitzgerald amuse with clever absurdities. The Four Leons present a tight-wire act. Al Penberthy, the tenor, sings the song hit, "Mother Darling," written by Winn Shaw.

There is a new Harry Pollard film comedy and the latest pictures of the world's leading events.

Gertrude Hoffman Coming.

Gertrude Hoffman is to play the Orpheum here Christmas and New Year's week in an elaborate dancing spectacle. December 21 is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Orpheum, and the noted dancing star has been specially engaged for the period.

Means Bigger Acts.

The formation of the new $50,000,000 theatrical corporation to take over and extend the Orpheum vaudeville circuit will doubtless mean an even greater variety of big acts on the circuit. It will eliminate many of the jumps heretofore necessary, which entailed large railroad fares, and will also lengthen the time on the contracts.

According to a special telegraphic advice from Chicago, the deal is practically completed. The dispatch further states:

Negotiations looking to the largest theatrical deal in the history of the United States have been in progress in Chicago for several weeks. This is said to have resulted in the organization of a gigantic holding company.

The new corporation, promoted by Martin Beck and his associates in the Orpheum circuit and underwritten by the Central Trust Company of Chicago, will be the largest, strongest and richest vaudeville firm in the world. It will control the major vaudeville field in the western two-thirds of the United States from Chicago to the Pacific Coast, and an extensive chain of prosperous theaters in Western Canada from Winnipeg to the Coast.

The newly organized and extended circuit will be closely affiliated with the countless "small time" theaters booked through the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association of Chicago and its allies.

NEW RUSSELL FILM.

FOX STAR PLANS TO PUT BIG STORY ON CELLULOID.

By Grace Kingsley.

The Fox Film Corporation has bought up a number of famous stories for the use of William Russel, one of their latest-signed stars. "The Lincoln Highwayman" is about finished, and Mr. Russell is preparing already to launch forth on a picturization of his next feature.

This feature will be a film version of Harold Titus's well-known story, "Bruce of the Circle C." It will be picturesquely renamed "The Stallion Shod With Fire." That is, that name is the present calculation, but some wag in the Fox organization stated it was more than likely that when it returned from the Fox New York office, judging from former experiences, the story will be called "The Fire Horse." Even at that, Mr. Russell may decide he would like ot have a title more suggestive of a human hero, and less of a horse, than the one chosen.

At any rate, it naturally obtains that a very fine horse must be secured to play the equine role, and after searching near and far, Mr. Russell has at last secured no less noted an animal than the prize stallion belonging to Miss M. Stock Banks, the wealthy oil owner of Idaho, who recently arrived here. The name of the animal is Confidence, and has an uninterrupted record as a prize winner at all horse shows.

The blue ribboner is now being brought down from Portland, Ore., where it ran true to form by winning all prizes at the recent show. At present Mr. Russell is looking forward to employing all his well-known horse lore to win the animal's confidence and affection, inasmuch as he has some hundred scenes or so with the creature.

Mr. Russell will take Confidence and some twenty cowboys and their horses to Arizona to make the picture. He expects to be gone about six weeks, and he will leave for those wild fastnesses within a fortnight. His director will be Emmett Flynn, who also produced "The Lincoln Highwayman."

Bushmans to be Welcomed.

Numberless motion-picture friends of Francis X. Bushman and Beverley Bayne, who are to appear next week at the Mason, are preparing to greet them on Monday night at that theater, and therefore it is likely the Mason will furnish a show within a show.

Mabel Normand Stays East.

Mabel Normand, Goldwyn star, is going to cut out the West for the next few months at least. In fact, she is going to make the next picture or two in New York, and "Pa" Victor Schertzinger is leaving for Gotham today in order to direct her. With Mr. Schertzinger will also go Cullen Landis, who will play opposite Miss Normand. The name of the picture is not yet ready for announcement. Miss Normand is going to spend her Christmas with her mother and brother, the latter only lately returned from the war zone. She is also going to make some hundreds of New York orphans happy by appearing in person before tmer on the great day and distributing candy.

However, the star says she wants to come back to California as soon as she can.

Margarita Fisher's Plans.

The Santa Barbara breezes bring murmurs of something doing along the line of important changes in the life and professional activities of no less a person than Margarita Fisher, American star. As a matter of fact, Miss Fisher's attorney, Judge C. A. A. McGee of San Francisco, is now in Santa Barbara negotiating for the release of Miss Fisher from the contract which now binds her and her talents to the American Film Company, the date of expiration of which is not until February.

Just what Miss Fisher's future plans are, is not known. Suffice it they must be very big, indeed, to warrant the young woman's breaking a contract which nets her many hundred dollars a week. There are many rumors, including one which appears to be well founded, that these plans include a trip to Europe, with a possible voyage across country in an airplane. Miss Fisher has received many offers from big concerns, but rumor again says she will not listen to these, but will form her own organization.

Even though her hands are full with her present plans, she will take time for a little gayety tonight, when as guest of honor of the Santa Barbara branch of the American Legion she will attend the ball to be given by that organization in the coast town.

Scenery on the Rialto.

Will Rogers sitting on the chauffeur's seat of his $3000 limousine, driving, with Mrs. Rogers by his side.

Barney Sherry and the beautiful young heiress to whom he is showing the sights of Southern California.

Kid McCoy and Jim Corbett eating George Beban salad at Marcel's.

Billy Russell's new Rolls-Royce with vanity case attachments.

Bebe Daniels's knee-length walking gown.

Mary Miles Minter's winter laces.

Tom Mix's hard cider cocktail.

Understudies George Washington.

We have a young George Washington in the films. His real name is George, too, but they call him "Bob White," at his own request. You get me. George Beban's 5-year-old youngster, now working with his talented dad in the films.

You see it was this way. George, Jr., was to play a scene in which he was supposed to steal a purse from a department-store counter. The youngster cried and absolutely refused, until persuaded he wasn't really stealing, but was only playing at stealing.

Which goes to show that even the son of a poor picture star who only gets about $1000 a week may be honest.

Louise Glaum's Announcement.

In novelty's name one film star has jotted down what she is not, thus delivering the long-suffering public from the usual hyperbolic encomiums directed at screen favorites by their publicists. Louise Glaum, who has just completed her newest film play, "Sex," under the supervision of J. Parker Read, Jr., is the star in question, and she submits the following list of "I have not's:"

Decided to quit pictures after I make eight more.

Adopted a Polish orphan.

Started an aeronautic company, even on paper.

Got a houseful of cats, canines, goldfish and birds.

Become my own press agent, nor yet my own writer, director, producer, property man, or dressmaker.

Written a book on "How I Became a Great Actress."

Spalding Philharmonic Soloist.

Albert Spalding, the American violinist, who is to be soloist at the Philharmonic Orchestra concert, tomorrow afternoon, will play the famous Beethoven concerto, a number which he has given with the principal orchestras of America. On his tour Spalding is accompanied by his wife, and Andre Benoist, who for many years has been his friend, musical mentor and accompanist.

It is three years since Spalding played here; in the interim he has been in the United States service in Italy.

LONG BEACH-FULLERTON.

There is to be a tough pastime at Washington Park next Saturday afternoon that will have a decisive bearing on the State football championship. Long Beach and Fullerton apparently the best thing in the way of prep teams in the south, are to mangle one another, starting at 2:30.

There is said to be a "gentleman's agreement" that the winner will play Redlands, disregarded by the C.I.F. officials in the play-off series, the following Saturday.

Both Long Beach and Fullerton came through their semi-final tests with colors flying, the former beating Santa Monica, 21 to 0, and Fullerton vanquishing Citrus Union, 51 to 13.

The merits of each of Saturday's finalists have been bandied back and forth, and each has its strong supporters. Fullerton has a strong, husky line, and a quartette of outstanding back-field men. Long Beach has a line of forwards perhaps just as bulky and back-of-the-line men that have proved superior as a whole to anything in the City League.

That the Fullerton line is vulnerable was shown by the attack of the Citrus Union team last Saturday. The Azusa boys made one touchdown on a sixty-yard march down the field that was one line plunge after another. However, Citrus had two of the best line smashers on the team that have played on high school football fields this year. Tackle Hall and Right Half Bell have no counterparts on the Long Beach team when it comes to straight line bucking. Had they had the Long Beach line to work behind it is likely that they would have wrecked the Fullerton hopes. As it was they gave Coaches Culp and Smith of Fullerton an awful scare.

In the Hawkins brothers the Orange county team has a pair of smooth working backs. Arch plays right half and his brother John quarter-back. One of the favorite plays of Quarter John is to send his brother into the right side of the line, and then shoot him around the weak side on a wide end run. It worked invariably for good gains last Saturday, and once resulted in a touchdown. Besides quarter-backing quite acceptably John does a bit of place kicking, and is noted for his accuracy.

Long Beach has its stars in Dolley and LeFebvre and Tiernan and others, and it's going to be a battle royal when they hook up with the Fullerton luminaries.

Long Beach, as a team, probably works with greater precision than Fullerton, or did earlier in the season. Against Santa Monica last Saturday there seemed to be a little of the well-oiled process lacking. LeFebvre's absence may have something to with that.

Full Committee Accepts the Invitation.

Crimson Coach Sure He can Get Men in Shape.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Dec. 3.—The invitation to the Harvard football team to play a western eleven at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day, was accepted late today.

After consultation between the faculty, the athletic committee and members of the team, the matter was referred to Dean Le Baron R. Briggs. Dean Briggs decided to let the final word rest with the full committee, which late today issued a statement accepting the invitation "with the proviso that if the Railroad Administration should hereafter establish any regulation or make any request that such trip should not be made, in view of the fuel shortage, the trip would be canceled.

DASCOMB AND HILLMAN WIN AT HANDBALL.

Dascomb and Hillman defeated "Babe" Doyle and Al Bayer two straight sets in class B and C of the handball doubles tourney at the L.A.A.C. yesterday. It was a hard-fought match and productive of many seemingly impossible "gets." Dascomb featured by his fast work. A large gallery followed the setto, with Charley Keppen and Max Gold doing most of the cheering and jeering.

The only other match played yesterday was between the Wheeler-Langdren duo and the Coover-Session pair. The former won, 21-11, 21-7. It was class D and E handball.

A match that is expected to provide plenty of excitement is set for today at noon when Cochran and Gold meet Retzger and Howard in the championship and A class.

ARRANGE PROGRAMME FOR INDOOR SPORTS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 3.—There will be a big programme of indoor sports at the Y.M.C.A., Friday night, when the crack volley ball team of the Riverside association and also the basketball team will come for games with the teams of this association. The Redlands men journeyed to San Bernardino last week and won from the Gate City lads in volley ball and basketball. They are so much set up over that victory that they believe that they can now dispose of their hereditary enemies, Riverside. The programme of sports will start at 7:30 p.m.

MARCH FIELD TEAM TO PLAY U. OF S. C. SQUAD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 2.—Lieut. J. T. Morris, athletic director of March Field, who has developed a redoubtable football team among the aviation boys, reports the possibility of securing a game here during the month of December with the University of Southern California team. Arrangements have already been completed for a game here on December 12 or 13 with the football team of the flagship New Mexico, the championship team of the Pacific Fleet. This prospective contest is attracting unusual attention, for the reason that it will practically decide the service football supremacy on the Pacific Coast.

SLAUSON ENTERS TEAM IN BOWLING LEAGUE.

The Slauson Playground has entered a team in the Playground Bowling League. The first game will be played with the Violet-street Playground squad. The squad is composed of Ben French, W. Beede, H. Fennessy, Ed Keel and V. Scruggs.

ARRANGE FOR INDOOR BASKETBALL COURT.

Negotiations are under way to obtain the Glendale High School indoor court for evening basketball practice, Manager Dryden of Occidental stated yesterday. It is also possible, according to the Tiger director, that Herb White, who coached the Orange and Black court shooters so successfully last year, will be secured this year.

BEAVERS WANT CHANCE AT THE SCOTT HIGH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 3.—When the crack Scott High School football team of Toledo, O., journeys West to play in Los Angeles on Christmas Day, the Jefferson High School of Portland hopes to get a chance to meet them. Hopkin Jenkins, principal of Jefferson today telegraphed to the Scott school an invitation to play here. It is hoped that they will consent to make the trip to the Pacific Coast via the Northwest and play here prior to Christmas.

The Everett, Wash., team, it is reported here, is also dickering with Scott for a game. Jefferson is the undisputed champion among Portland high schools and has a fine record for the season. It is regarded as the strongest prep team in Oregon, although some of the outside schools have been contesting this title. It is believed here that the Toledo school will accept the challenge.

PHOENIX GETS RUSH ORDER FOR DIMMERS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Dec. 3.—Phoenix auto supply men are overrun with business just now in furnishing 6000 local autos with dimmer headlights, as prescribed by a City Commission ordinance that closely follows the California regulation. Traffic policemen here assert that nearly all the night accidents on the road are due to searchlight headlights that blind a driver. Several persons thus have been killed, as the blinded driver swerves out to give the other auto room to pass, and in such cases is unable to note whether a wagon or footman is before him on the roadside.

TIGERS LOOKING FOR AN INDOOR LAIR.

Manager Harold Dryden of Occidental wishes to correct the impression that the Eagle Rock institution of learning has no basketball court. The Tigers have a perfectly good open-face one, but the crying need is for one of the indoor variety, declares Dryden.

Dryden goes on to say that he is tixt the devil and the deep blue. If the Tigers practice in the afternoon they are without the services of a coach. Plenty of coaches can be secured for night work, according to Dryden, but here the court difficulty bobs up. Stanton may be induced to handle the casaba shooters, though he expects to be busy with track very shortly.

PEAGREEN SLOAN FIRST IN CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

Forty men participated in the first cross-country run of the season at Occidental, Monday night. It was a two-mile affair in which Sloan, a peagreen, finished first. Miller, a letter man, was second.

The race was the first of a series of three which Stanton is holding to condition his men for the spring season. Medals will be awarded to the men finishing one, two, three in total number of points for the three races. Points are awarded five, four, three, two and one. The second run, over a three-mile course, will be held tonight. The final will be a four-mile grind.

PLANS ON FOOT FOR SUNDAY BALL LEAGUE.

The playground department is organizing a Sunday baseball league to be known as the Municipal Baseball League, according to Supt. C. B. Raitt. The series of games will start December 7 or 14, depending upon completion of arrangements. The number of teams in the league will be restricted to fourteen. Ten teams have registered to date.

A meeting will be held tonight in room 205, Normal Hill Center, to complete plans for starting the league. All teams interested are requested to send a representative to the meeting.

A.A.U. PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED AT FEAST.

There will be a banquet of the Southern Pacific branch of the A.A.U., next Monday night at the L.A.A.C., according to an announcement by Ralph Jesson, secretary, yesterday. Matters of extreme importance will be discussed at the time.

President Bob Weaver, back from his trip to Boston, will give a report on the big annual pow-pow in that city, and plans for the basketball, track, swimming, boxing, wrestling and cross country will be taken up.

RUBIDOUX VS. MENDE.

Ad Dubidoux will meet Kid Mende in the main event of the boxing card at the San Bernardino Club tonight. The other matches are as follows: Toney Florez vs. Sailor Nelson; Carl Williams vs. Mike Andrews; Young McManus vs. Eddie Macy.

TO SELECT THE ELEVEN TODAY.

Pasadena Committee to Name Harvard's Opponents.

All Indications Point to the Oregon Squad.

"Bob" Evans Says Lemon Yellow is Only Team.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Selection of a western team to meet the University of Harvard football eleven, which, yesterday, through its dean, LeBaron R. Briggs, accepted the invitation to play at Pasadena on New Year's Day, will be made this afternoon.

That was the announcement last night of Seward A. Simons, one of the Pasadena committee of three which has the delicate task of selecting the competitors for the great East vs. West classic.

The telegram of acceptance from Dean Briggs of Harvard reached W. L. Leishman, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, late yesterday afternoon.

SPRING PROVISO.

The only qualification in the message was that the committee accept a proviso that the trip be cancelled in case the government, because of the coal shortage, should restrict unnecessary railroad travel.

When asked if the committee, which had been expected to make an announcement of the western selection on receiving a favorable reply from Harvard, had made a decision, Simons answered in the negative.

TO SCRUTINIZE.

"We received a mass of matter from the Northwest—telegrams, statistics and data—yesterday," said Simons, "and until we have scrutinizingly gone over every line no decision will be rendered."

"Doesn't Oregon shape up as the most likely representative of the West?" he was asked.

"I'll answer that question tomorrow," was the reply. "Don't forget that there are three teams which will receive earnest consideration.

"The opinion of our committee is that U.S.C. has a wonderful team. They have never for a moment been eliminated from the discussion. The potential strength of Oregon, Washington and U.S.C. will be taken up in full at our meeting tomorrow."

In spite of the refusal of the members to commit themselves on the matter, the belief is growing in local football circles that Oregon will be named the representative of the Pacific.

OREGON BEST.

Officials, coaches and close followers of the game in the South are almost a unit in expressing their preference for Coach "Shy" Huntington's eleven.

"Fighting Bob" Evans, the Stanford coach, before leaving for Palo Alto last night, asserted that Oregon in his mind was the only team.

"I kept close tab on the doings of the Eugene team," he said, "because I thought it possible that we might play them. In the only game the Oregonians lost—that to Washington State — the losers gained something like eighty-nine yards to the Staters' four in the first quarter, and during the rest of the game they gained three yards to every one of Washington's two."

LEMON-YELLOW.

Such sentiments as these day by day have crystallized the Oregon boom, and it is now a two to one bet that the Lemon-Yellow eleven will be named the football wizards of the Pacific, and asked to uphold the colors of the West in the crowning event of the rose festival.

Simons expressed his keen disappointment at being unable to name the western choice last night, but his colleagues indicated that his untiring efforts to land Harvard had left him little time to give to the selection on this side of the Rockies.

OREGON AGGIES NOT TO PLAY NOTRE DAMES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 3.—A special dispatch to the Portland Telegram from its correspondent at Corvallis, Or., says that thecollege council of Oregon Agricultural College today decided not to permit the football team of the institution to play here Christmas Day with the eleven from Notre Dame.

The college council held a special meeting to discuss the proposed game, and after considerable deliberation, according to the dispatch, decided that such an event would interfere seriously with the midterm examinations at the institution. Possibility of a game on New Year's Day was not considered, it was said.

ARRANGE FOR FLIGHT FROM ROME TO TOKIO.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Thursday, Nov. 27.—Arrangements are being made in China for the proposed flight from Rome to Tokio by Italian aviators. Gabriele d'Annunzio was originally selected for the flight, but because of his military activities the Italian government entrusted the leadership of the expedition to Col. Rapolla.

Much persuasion was necessary to induce the Chinese government to afford flying practice facilities in Peking.

He played as pivot man in both the Harvard and Yale games, opposing his brother in the battle against the Eli's. Callahan is a member of the junior class.

TARBABY TAKES ON NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROCKFORD (Ill.) Dec. 3.—Sam Langford knocked out Dave McBride, California heavyweight, in the first round of their scheduled twelve-round bout at Camp Grant tonight. A right cross to the jaw as the men came out of a clinch sent McBride to the mat for the count less than a minute after the gong sounded.

PLAYERS ARE HARD TO GET.

Graham's Ramble in East Failed to Fructify.

Big League Teams Cling on to Their Men.

"Babe" Ruth Advised to Keep Out of Prize Ring.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Charley Graham's complaint that he was unable to secure any players from the majors on his recent trip East is not a monologue.

Charley is merely the leader of the calamity chorus. About six other Coast League managers have joined in on the refrain. Bill Essick is the only one present with a cheerful chant of optimism.

Graham passed a considerable time in the effete East and was able to extract nothing more than promises from major-league magnates, and there are a lot of things in this world more binding than the promises of big-league owners. True, they mean well, but too often they find they need all the talent in their business.

DEAL FOR STEELE.

So Charley made a deal for Bob Steele, an American Association pitcher, and in that way avoided coming home empty-handed, while giving the home scribes some red-hot winter copy.

Essick had a more successful expedition. He wasn't looking for much and got what he was after. All that Bill wanted was the promise of two players from the New York Americans in completion of the Meusel deal. Where a player of the caliber of Meusel is at stake, a promise is something more than airy persiflage. And, incidentally, deals between the Yankees and Tigers are underwritten with the clause, "Said players must be acceptable to Vernon."

SHIED ON MILLER.

Vernon owes its present blissful condition to the fact that it had men of the caliber of Quinn and Meusel for trading purposes. Essick had but to mention his needs in the way of players and they were forthcoming. Only once did the Yankees slip a cog in these negotiations and that was when they neglected to send Elmer Miller to the Tigers. But they sent Hughie High as a substitute, and while scouts warn against accepting substitutes, it is a question whether in this case the substitute was not better than the original.

Money will not tempt the major leagues to part with good ball players. Not that the magnates are not fond of money, but they desire above all else to get players. With good players they can make more money and win pennants. Unfortunately, few of the Coast League clubs have trading material of a high order that they can spare.

UNDER OPTION.

To do so would practically wreck their prospects for next season. Some of the clubs developed players who would have been excellent trading material, but several of these, it materialized, were really the property of the big leagues and merely out here under option. So these teams got nothing in return except, possibly, the privilege of developing some more young ones for the majors.

Advocates of the draft, and especially those most active in attempting to re-establish it at the behest of the majors, attribute this inability to obtain players from the minor leagues to the unfriendliness of the latter due to the abolishment of the draft. It is intimated that the majors have placed an embargo on the shipment of players to the class AA leagues, and that this will not be lifted until they are again permitted to skim the cream from the minors.

BUILD A BOGEY.

When inspected closely this line of talk sounds rather specious. In fact, one might reach the conclusion that the advocates of the draft, meaning the big league owners, and their close and selected confreres in the minors, are building up a bogey for the benefit of the more timid. Unquestionably there are arguments in favor of the draft, and the system is not without its good points, but let us put the question straight: "Isn't the real difficulty in getting players from the major due to a shortage of talent?" and is

OCCIDENTAL IS TO HAVE A TURF FIELD.

THROOP STARTS IN ON BASKETBALL PRACTICE.

THIS YEAR'S SQUAD UNDER CAPT. LARSON IS TO BE A CORKER.

Basketball practice started at Throop last Monday, and judging by the number who turned out for practice, T.C.T. should put out a squad that will be equal to last year's squad, or even better. Basketball last year was under the same handicap that every other sport was, namely, getting away to a late start, but this year the squad will be under no such disadvantage.

Last year T.C.T. had its first basketball team since 1912. With no letter men, and only raw material to work with, Coach Call whipped into shape a team that succeeded in tying with three other colleges for third place. This year's squad, however, will have for a foundation Linnie Larson, Joe Larson, Douglas Mackenzie and "Jitz" Lavagnino. Besides these letter men the following lads who played on second team or subbed on the varsity are eligible: Vesper, Schneider, Ross, Kemp and Rohloff, Rico, who is a transfer from Junior College, and therefore ineligible, is nevertheless coming out for practice. Rico was a cracker-jack center on high school teams. Linnie Larson has been elected captain of the squad.

THREE TIE FOR FIRST PLACE IN CUE TOURNEY.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Jerome Keogh, Rochester, N. Y.; E. Ralph Greenleaf, Wilmington, Del.; Edward I. Ralph, Hightstown, N. J., and Charles Seeback, Hartford, Ct., were the victors in today's match of the national American pocket-billiard tournament.

In defeating Bennie Allen, Kansas City, 125 to 89, Seeback upset the calculations of the experts and his high run of 68 is said to be a new world's record under the rules governing the present tournament.

Geogh defeated Joseph Concannon, New York, 125 to 71, in 24 innings. The winner's high run was 29 and Concannon's, 14.

Greenleaf won from Morris D. Fink, Philadelphia, in comparatively easy fashion in 19 innings. The score was 125 to 61. Greenleaf collected 34 balls for his high run, while Fink's best effort was 13.

Ralph beat Louis B. Kreuter, New York, 125 to 105. Kreuter is the only contestant who has not yet won a game, having lost all three of his matches.

Grtenleaf, Keogh and John M. Layton, Columbia, Mo., are leading, each having won two matches.

BIG FIGHT ON FOR TONIGHT.

Beckett and Carpentier Clash in London Ring.

To Box for the Championship of Europe.

Britisher is Much Heavier than Frenchman.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier will meet in a twenty-round bout at the National Boxing Club tomorrow night to decide the heavyweight championship of Europe. Carpentier, a Frenchman, holds the title. The fight is due to begin at 9:15 o'clock.

Incidentally, the fight may bring forward an opponent for Jack Dempsey, in a contest for the heavyweight championship of the world.

JOE HEAVIER.

Beckett, the English champion, will have an advantage of fourteen pounds in weight over Carpentier, scaling at about 184 pounds. His reach is two inches longer than that of his French opponent. Otherwise, the contestants will be virtually equal as regards age, height and measurements.

While the Englishman is regarded as a fighter, Carpentier is credited as being the more scientific boxer. Both men are said to be in perfect condition.

GOOD RECORD.

Beckett numbers among his victims in the ring Bombardier Wells, from which he won the British championship; Frank Goddard, and Eddie McGoorty, the American fighter, who last September he knocked out in the seventeenth round of a twenty-round contest.

Carpentier has been fighting for several years and has held the French welter and middleweight championships, in addition to the crown of champion of the heavies. He twice has knocked out Bombardier Wells. He is also credited with a victory over Gunboat Smith of America on a foul. In 1914 Joe Jeannette, American negro heavyweight, outpointed Carpenter in a bout in Paris.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Dec. 3.—Important decisions affecting the future of the Sacramento Baseball Club of the Pacific Coast League are expected at a directors' meeting tonight.

The directors said they would have before them an offer from L. Moreing, wealthy rancher, for purchase of the club. Moreing, who was owner of the Stockton club in the outlaw California State League, announced if he is allowed to purchase the club he will retain William (Bill) Rodgers as manager.

In his offer to purchase, Moreing is said to have made several stipulations that have not found full agreement among the club's owners, and directors said it was by no means sure that Moreing's offer would be accepted.

Details of the proposal have been withheld, pending a formal directors' meeting.

The Sacramento club during the last two seasons has shown a loss of about $10,000, it is said.

AIR COAST PATROL GOES INTO SERVICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINEOLA (N. Y.) Dec. 3.—The Army Air Coast Patrol went into service today when two De Haviland machines, each manned by a pilot and an observer, left here for Langley Field, Virginia. They expected to make the trip of 325 miles in four hours and to return tomorrow. The observers, who are instructed to watch for signs of ships in distress, will bring to Col. Archie Miller, commanding all military aviation fields on Long Island, a detailed report of all incoming and outgoing ships sighted during the flight.

PLAYERS ARE HARD TO GET.

some of the brethren on the inside answer it frankly.

And as an added interrogation: "Are there a dozen players in the major leagues fast enough for the Coast League whom the majors can spare unless they can get something better in return?"

FEW SPAVINS.

In fact, about all they have to offer is a few spavined veterans and a bunch of under-baked bushers from the small circuits, who were picked chiefly to be peddled at fancy prices.

Not in a decade have the major leagues experienced such a dearth of high class talent. There are some clubs in both circuits which are almost pathetic, judged by prior major league standards, and which would have a hard time finishing first in the fast minors. Hardly an appreciable amount of talent was developed during the war. In fact, the majors are as greatly embarrassed as the big minors in the matter of high-class material.

NOTHING TO OFFER.

This is a condition which will right itself, but just now the big leagues would seem to have little or nothing to offer in return for the re-establishment of the draft.

And later, draft or no draft, as a fresh crop of players come on, the minors will be able to get about what they want from their big league brethren, under the simple law of supply and demand. Annually, each major league club rounds up a big drove of rookies for experimental purposes. A certain percentage of these qualify in the big leagues. Another percentage falls just short of this standard, but is fast enough for the Class AA leagues. No big league club could afford to carry this accumulating supply, and there would follow a period of distribution or unloading. There will be a shortage of material until the growing crops now on the ball fields ripen, and the draft or other hot-house methods will not accelerate the processes of nature.

BRIDGE CRISIS.

Coasters could partly bridge the crisis by adopting a player limit, which would enable each club to carry surplus talent for development purposes.

The statement that Kid McCoy may make a white hope out of Babe Ruth, if true, means that baseball will lose its longest, if not most frequent hitter, without the ring being enriched, except with thick, red gore. Babe, no doubt, has the size and specifications for a white hope, and probably would have succeeded in the squared circle had he started earlier. In fact, as a kid he displayed considerable punch and cleverness with the mitts. But the history of athletics is spotted with the names of men who have tackled the other guy's game without connecting.

Frank Gotch, king of them all on the mat, thought that boxing looked like easy money. The idea was knocked out of his head in just one evening's entertainment. Some years ago a local wrestler by the name of Beall was so persistent in his efforts to break into the boxing game that Uncle Tom McCarey decided, against his better judgment, to humor him.

TWO BLOWS HIT.

He matched him with an ice man, who had not yet become muscle-bound. Something like two blows were struck. The ice man landed the first one, and the wrestler struck the other blow when his head hit the canvas. Metoxen, the Indian, was a football star at Carlisle, but flivvered in the ring. Babe had better continue pounding out home runs at $10,000 per or $20,000, if he can get it. One reason he passed up the movies was that he objected to having grease paint on his face. That isn't a circumstance to the bright colors which some glove artist would put on his phiz in the ring.

Still, if Babe wants to put on a Roman holiday during the dull months of winter he will have the permission of the sport scribes, who crave something bloody to write about.

LICENSING LAW ADOPTED.

City Puts Tax on Many Lines of Business; General Salary Rises Planned.

By unanimous vote the City Council yesterday adopted the new business license ordinance, by which it is estimated approximately $1,500,000 additional revenue will be raised during the remainder of the fiscal year.

The ordinance bears the emergency clause, so that it may go into immediate effect after being signed by the Mayor and having had one publication. The Council declares an emergency exists, as the measure is needed to raise funds to meet city salaries that already have been allowed and for which there is no other financial provision.

When the report of the Finance Committee, presenting the draft of the ordinance, was adopted, Councilmen Wheeler and Maillard made a stand against exemption of wholesale druggists from the payment of a license fee of $125 per month for selling liquors; but the members of the Finance Committee were sustained by other members of the Council in their position that, under government regulations as they now exist, the wholesale drug dealers will make practically nothing by these sales and they should be taxed only on the basis of the general volume of business.

FROM THE REPORT.

The report of the Finance Committee—Councilmen Conaway, Criswell and Fleming—stated:

"Your committee has held hearings and met delegations representing all classes of business licensed hereunder and has modified and adjusted all rates to a basis as near equitable as possible and not discriminatory in any particular. Your committee has been ably assisted by J. H. McQuistan, efficiency director, and J. V. Patrosso of the City Attorney's staff.

"This work has been arduous and trying, but your committee believes that the results accomplished in the painstaking study required to be given each case will be reflected in the ready compliance with all of the provisions contained in the ordinance by all classes of business affected thereunder.

QUESTION OF SALARIES.

"It is the desire of your committee that this ordinance be adopted as an emergency measure, as there is, in fact, an emergency existing calling for additional revenue to meet increased salaries already allowed; therefore, we have attached the emergency clause."

Chairman Conaway stated yesterday, after the passage of the license tax ordinance, that the Finance Committee will at once undertake the compilation of the ordinances that will increase salaries of city employees in departments other than the police and fire departments, in which pay has already been raised. Efficiency Director McQuiston has been working on this matter for some time. The purpose, says Councilman Conaway, is to make increases all along the line, in proportion to the ones already allowed.

RECOUNT POWER ELECTION VOTES.

Irregularities Charged by Woman in Suit Over Bond Issue.

Tellers in Judge Hewitt's court are recounting the ballots cast in the June election at which the power bonds and sale of power to the city were carried. The election was attacked in a suit by Mary E. Rideout, who charged irregularities at the election.

A number of irregularities have been discovered, but they apparently offset each other.

OLD MAN IS MISSING; MIND LAPSE FEARED.

Police and deputy sheriffs were requested yesterday to find W. N. Burns, 75 years old, of South Pasadena, who wandered away from his home early in the day. According to members of his family, Mr. Burns suffers often from lapses of memory and at such times cannot remember where he lives. When last seen he was walking toward Los Angeles. At the time he wore a soft hat, a dark blue suit and a soft shirt with no tie. He is almost six feet tall and has a gray beard. Two years ago, while at Long Beach, he became lost and walked to his home at South Pasadena.

WOULD CLOUD LAND TITLES?

Arguments End is Near in North Island Suit.

'Tis Fantastic Pretention, Says Defense Lawyer.

Company's Willing to Sell; Asks Many Millions.

After spending the day yesterday in argument, the case of the government against the Coronado Beach Company to condemn or obtain an easement of North Island, which is required for a permanent aviation camp on the shores of San Diego Bay, will be submitted to U. S. District Judge Trippet this morning.

The compelling story was related of the construction of the States of Arizona and New Mexico out of the territory of Mexico; how the first grant of the land involved in the bill had been made to Pedro Carillo, a Mexican sheep herder, in 1846, through Pio Pico, then Governor of California, at the time Mexican territory; the efforts of the Mexican government to colonize these lands, and the judicial proceedings leading up to the issuance of the patent to Peachey and Aspinwall, June 11, 1869, which followed the dismissal of the appeal from the judgment of the California Land Commission in 1856, on motion of the Attorney-General, before the U. S. Supreme Court.

The argument of the day was made by Peter F. Dunne of San Francisco, in behalf of the Coronado Beach Company. He was followed by George J. Denis, for the government, and the case was then submitted.

In the closing argument of Col. Denis, he paid much attention to the theory that the absolute rights to North Island had long since been adjudicated by the highest court of the land, and declared that no such determination had been made that would dispossess the government to ask that an easement should be granted. He dealt also at some length with the contention that the reservation granted in the original law of 1824 still inhered to the successors in interest of the original grantee.

It is the contention of the Coronado Beach Company that the government has the right to condemn the land for the national defense, but argues that if the easement is granted, the fee will not be worth anything. If an easement should be granted, the property would revert to the Coronado Beach Company, in case, years hence, possibly, it should abandoned for military purposes or the national defense. But as it is the intention of the government to spend millions on the project and erect a substantial plant of warehouses and other structures, it is more than likely that the easement would become permanent, and in that case there would not much be left for the Coronado Beach Company, considering that the property is now said to be worth $7,500,000.

ORBISON WRITES OF HIS ESCAPE.

of Lettish troops as passing my window, singing some soldier song. Their spirit is excellent, even though they are frightfully outnumbered.

"You can get an idea of this situation from these figures. On October 10, the Letts had 11,000 soldiers, four field guns, two heavy guns, twelve machine guns and one airplane. Against them the German-Russian forces brought up 35,000 soldiers, forty-seven field guns, twenty-four heavy pieces, 165 machine guns and six airplanes.

"At present the Letts increased their men by mobilizing, and have captured a lot of enemy supplies. There are only 8000 Russian troops, all the rest being Germans, who have continued to come to this all along. Many are recruited in Berlin at the present time, ostensibly to fight the Bolsheviki! The British navy has been of great help to the Letts, as at the last moment they opened fire on the Germans. The latter are under a Russian adventurer, but behind him are German officers.

"All is very clear—under the surface. It is Germany's desire to own this country and dominate Russia. They could not do it openly, and are trying this method, that means a sacrifice of lives and property to the avarice of Germany and her tools."

The crashing of the shell into his office was not the first danger experienced by Dr. Orbison, according to his letter. Ten days earlier, while bringing a wounded soldier to Riga, he was pursued by a German airplane for about five miles, with the German firing his machine gun at Dr. Orbison's automobile.

"He fired upon me, and bullets whistled all around," the doctor writes. "They hit the road just ahead, and I am thankful I finally escaped."

ARE APPRECIATIVE.

But the dangers are not without compensations, for the Lettish people are very appreciative and thankful, Dr. Orbison's letter says.

"It has been delightful to learn the regard and appreciation of this city for the American people. My room is filled with flowers and I have received dozens of letters full of respect to America. We are carrying on our work as usual. Some of our kitchens have been hit and very few of our children killed. This country will need a lot of help. Snow has already fallen and the children need shoes, stockings and warm underwear and clothes."

Dr. Orbison holds the rank of captain in the American army. He went to Russia at the end of the hostilities with Germany, and in the spring of 1919 was stationed at Libau, where he was placed in charge of the distribution of food to 65,000 civilians and 19,000 children. Later he organized all the kitchens in the district, started medical clinics and was instrumental in organizing all branches of the relief work.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR POOR FUND.

Asks Everybody to Give for the Poor; No Sum too Small, He Says.

In the interest of the Municipal Christmas Fund, to be used by the Women's Council of Community Service in providing food, clothing and toys as Christmas gifts for the poor, the Mayor yesterday issued an appeal for cash donations from the public.

"You are urged," he says in an open letter addressed to the citizens of Los Angeles, "to give all you can afford. No amount is too large nor is any too small. Little more than three weeks remain before Christmas day. A great deal of money is still needed. As you do your Christmas shopping, see if you cannot save a few dollars that you would otherwise spend, and send them along as your contribution to the Municipal Christmas Fund."

FUND IS ASKED FOR RADICAL INQUIRIES.

In a letter addressed to Supervisor Woodley, chairman of the finance committee of the Board of Supervisors, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday asked that the board appropriate $5000 immediately to aid in investigation of the activities in this county of I.W.W. and kindred radicals.

The District Attorney says he has so far in the radical cases had the assistance of Federal and city officers and members of the American Legion, but that the successful prosecution of the indictments now pending and of further inquiry demands that he have money for that purpose at his disposal.

CHAMBER ASKS ADDED SUPPORT

Work is Outgrowing Income, Officers Declare.

Point Out Important Needs of Organization.

Business Men Pledge Selves to Provide Funds.

Big business in Los Angeles is to be called upon to show its loyalty to the Chamber of Commerce by unstinted support of the organization, according to a programme mapped out yesterday by 150 representatives of the leading commercial and industrial institutions of the city at a luncheon at the City Club. The guests were called together by Watt L. Moreland, president of the chamber, and comprised men who have been actively identified with the upbuilding of the city and the work of the chamber for years.

The pressing need of the unanimous and generous support of the chamber by the business interests of the city was presented by Clinton E. Miller, chairman of the Membership Committee of the chamber and by Sylvester L. Weaver, vice-president of the organization.

Mr. Weaver called attention to the many demands made upon the chamber during the first year of reconstruction and declared that although the organization had been going in high gear, with the throttle open, there were still new departments to round out its work that must be functioned during the coming year. He touched upon the tremendous activity of the industrial department, which during the past twelve months has been instrumental in bringing 215 new plants to the city.

LEAD WORLD.

The new departments of the year already in operation and in need of greater facilities include the housing, public safety and meteorological and aeronautical. The last is regarded as one of the most important branches of chamber activities, as it is designed to be the preliminary step in preparing Los Angeles to keep its lead in commercial aeronautical development.

The inauguration of this department by the chamber has attracted world-wide attention, as was evidenced when Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, head of the department, referred during his remarks to comment on the enterprise of Los Angeles and its Chamber of Commerce in the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian. This department is the first of its kind to be established in any chamber in the United States.

Mr. Weaver pointed out the need of enlarging the publicity, foreign trade, industrial and agricultural departments.

CITY IS GROWING.

Mr. Miller declared that while the population is increasing rapidly, the work of the chamber has increased in a greater ratio and that its 5300 memberships—sole source of its income—are inadequate to carry out work that must be done.

Each of the 150 men present pledged himself to become active immediately in providing the "sinews of war" necessary to enable the commercial organization to meet the demands of the present and increase its effectiveness during the coming year.

INDORSE FIESTAS PLAN.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday passed a resolution indorsing the plan of the California Fiestas Association for a series of annual festivals in Los Angeles. The resolution was as follows:

"Whereas, the California Fiestas Association, organized to advertise systematically the State and county on a world-wide scale, and to provide meritorious entertainment at proper intervals for visitors and for our own population, and

"Whereas, the directing officers and members of this association command the respect of the entire community and the plan they have outlined will bring under their direction all large entertainment functions of the city and cause the abandonment of the former plan of numerous solicitations for funds, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce acquiesce in the plan of the California Fiestas Association and bespeak liberal support from all interested in the properly-systematized development of our community."

"Costs least on the table"

Because H-O Oat-Food makes a larger, flakier dish

Yes—H-O actually costs less than ordinary "rolled oats"—even though the cost-per-box may be just a little more.

Because the same quantity of H-O makes a bigger—flakier—far tastier dish than ordinary "rolled oats" ever can.

And because H-O is many times more digestible and nourishing.

You'll get more energy, more muscle, nerve, brain and bone from a little H-O than from a lot of less digestible food.

Steam-cooking is the reason—

Live steam, under high pressure, bursts each starch cell (millions of such cells in a single oat kernel)—and frees the rich starchy nutriment for easy digestion.

Hours and hours of stove-cooking cannot do this with ordinary "rolled oats." Over great coal fires H-O is toasted till each kernel is a delicate delicious brown. Nothing else could bring out that appetizing aroma that makes H-O supreme.

H-O cuts living cost.
Except for breakfast—cooks but a fraction of a cent—and provides more than eggs, bacon or steak. There are many toothsome—economical—ways to serve H-O: as
H-O Cookies
H-O Bread
H-O Gems
H-O Cookers
H-O Pudding
H-O Stretch Soups
Flour H-O with gravy
H-O baked loaf with nuts.
(Booklet of recipes mailed on request)
The H-O Mills, Buffalo, N. Y.

Use more H-O and watch your food bills decrease—and your family's health increase.

H-O needs less than ¼ the cooking that ordinary rolled oats require ----- Every package of H-O is absolutely guaranteed by us. The H-O Mills Buffalo N.Y.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 3.—A Franco-Argentine manifestation in honor of Marshal Joffre and Marshal Foch, under auspices of the Franco-American Committee, took the shape of a banquet this evening.

There was an exceptionally brilliant attendance, which included the diplomats of the South American countries, a large number of well-known members of the Argentine colony, with their wives and French society leaders.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Los Angeles Leads the Country in Low Beef Prices; Financial News.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

Los Angeles is in the favored nation list when it comes to meat prices, and it is more than ever apparent from a study of conditions in other cities that our people should take advantage of the comparatively-low level obtaining here and eat more meat, especially beef, which is now out of the luxury class and available for almost any style purse.

In Kansas City, one of the great live-stock centers of the world, where one might reasonably think retail meat prices would be at their minimum, the scale is considerably higher than in Los Angeles. An authentic price list compiled only a few days ago shows that sirloin steak in that city costs the consumer 32 cents per pound, as compared with yesterday's Los Angeles price of 25 cents. This price is considered low in Kansas City and is made only at the cash-and-carry stores by dealers who buy personally at the packing-houses.

The latest figures published by the Department of Labor giving the average costs of meats the country over show the following result:

	Per lb. Cents.
Sirloin steak	42.1
Round steak	39.5
Rib roast	32.4
Chuck roast	26.6
Pork chops	46.9
Bacon	57.7
Ham	56.9

These prices compare with Los Angeles retail quotations yesterday as follows:

	Per lb. Cents.
Sirloin steak	25
Round steak	25
Rib roast	30
Chuck roast	16–17
Pork chops	48
Bacon	66
Ham	64

The comparison shows that sirloin beef in Los Angeles, where the prices fairly represent those of Southern California, are 17 cents per pound below the country-wide average and by far the lowest of any large city in the United States. Pork is slightly higher than the average, due, doubtless, to the fact that the local production is light.

The public has come to believe that there has been a deal of profiteering in the meat industry. They are probably right in this deduction, although the retailers vehemently deny the impeachment and point to the wholesale prices they are required to pay and to the alleged fact that the local consumer will not buy the cheaper cuts. They say they are compelled to make up on the choice sections their losses on the other.

Six representative butchers in six different parts of the country, whose beef profits have been investigated, bought 1448 pounds of beef for $276.80, an average of 19.1 cents per pound, and sold it for $399.13, a gross profit of $122.33, which equals 8.5 cents per pound, or 44 per cent. Los Angeles retail prices fairly represent the difference in wholesale charges between the local and the Chicago and Kansas City market, but it is only fair to say that most dealers in this city deny that they are making anything like a 44-per-cent. gross profit. Most of them with whom I discussed the matter claim that 20 per cent. would be nearer the mark. A 20-per-cent. gross is not exorbitant, but this leaves a considerable margin between the price of beef on the hoof and the price the ultimate consumer is paying.

Good steers in the Los Angeles market yesterday were quoted at $10.50 per hundredweight. The wholesale price range is almost as wide as the retail, depending upon the grading, but as nearly as an average may be arrived at no retailer is in danger of becoming a public charge, even at the prevailing comparatively-low prices.

The crux of the whole matter is that Los Angeles beef is the cheapest and the best in the world today and that even the present level is capable of reduction. The producer is getting the worst of it. His product, raised with all the accompanying chance for loss and uncertain market conditions, represents a margin so low that it almost touches the vanishing point, but immediately it passes out of his hands the spread begins and never stops until it reaches the broiler, the oven and the frying pan.

And 50-cent-a-pound pork chops and 68-cent bacon is still another story.

The Oil Situation.

Petroleum Magazine, a representative trade organ, for December will say, as a part of its review of the gas and kerosene situation:

"In view of the advanced season there has naturally been a slackening in demand but, so far, prices have been holding rather firm, only yielding here and there a fraction of a cent per gallon. The increased rate of export shipments has tended to offset to some extent the decrease in home consumption.

"Although during the last month reports were to the effect that prices were weakening in some sections, it seems to be a fact that the country as a whole is free from any heavy accumulation of kerosene supplies. Most refiners are moving all of their output promptly. The demand for export is at the same steady rate, large quantities going to the Far East, to South America and to Europe, including the Central Empires.

"It may be expected that we will have higher prices for kerosene during the coming winter than for many years past. There exists in this country, more so in many foreign countries, a shortage of coal and fuel which will tend to stimulate the consumption of kerosene. At the same time, kerosene is finding a rapidly increasing use in industry. Higher prices, therefore, seem inevitable."

Dividend Notices.

The following dividends of especial interest to Los Angeles stockholders are announced: California Packing, $1 per share on common stock, payable December 15 to stockholders of record November 29, and $1.75 per share on preferred stock, payable January 2. Common stock books do not close. Preferred stock books close December 15. Amalgamated Oil, $1.50 per share, payable January 15; books close December 31. West Coast Oil Company, $1.50 per share, payable January 15; books close January 3. Associated Oil, $1.50 per share, payable January 15; books close December 26.

New Credit Manager.

Mr. Henry Runsten, for ten years connected with the Chicago and Los Angeles offices of R. G. Dun & Co., has been appointed credit manager for the Union Bank & Trust Co. of this city.

San Diego Highway.

The Bank of Italy of Los Angeles and San Francisco and the Southern Trust and Commerce Bank of San Diego, recently awarded $2,300,000 San Diego county 5 per cent highway bonds, have formed a selling syndicate to retail the purchase. The syndicate consists of the National City Co., Anglo, London & Paris National Bank; Blankenhorn-Hunter-Dulin Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons and the two institutions first mentioned. It is understood that the bonds are to be offered on a 4.80 basis.

Liberty Bond Market.

The Liberty bond market continues weak, in spite of the perfectly obvious fact that they afford one of the best investment features of the day. Even the heavy buying through the treasury purchase fund has had little effect in strengthening or stabilizing the market under the present stress.

Up to November 20, 1919, the bond purchase fund of the Treasury had acquired $953,080,500 Liberty bonds of various issues. In addition, there had been rebought $64,813,150 par value Liberty bonds in connection with repayments to the United States government by foreign governments. The total is $1,117,892,650.

The current bond purchase fund year for the third Liberty does not expire until May 8, 1920, and the Treasury has bought none of these bonds for the bond purchase fund so far this year, although the War Finance Corporation holds a considerable amount.

The bond purchase fund years for the first Liberty loan 4 per cent. and 4½ per cent. bonds and the second Liberty loan of 4 per cent and 4 1-4 per cent. bonds expired on November 14. The Treasury purchased during the year $24,459,000 first Liberty loan bonds, which is $4,302,000 less than the amount authorized. The Treasury purchased $180,870,000 second Liberty loan bonds, which was substantially the full amount authorized. Purchases of the fourth Liberty loan bonds, the bond purchase year for which expired October 22, were $348,115,000, being substantially the whole amount authorized. The Treasury bond purchase fund has purchased none of the Victory issues.

The Stock Market.

The impracticability of attempting to make an intelligent analysis of the stock market is still manifest in the weakness of the market itself, which, unlike the wind of Holy Writ, is by no means tempered to the shorn lamb. Some stocks yesterday were a trifle more firm than they have been; others were a trifle less firm. The public realizes that there are

COTTON AT 40 CENTS IN NEW YORK MARKET.

BUYING BRISK FOR DECEMBER EVEN AT THIS GREATLY ADVANCED PRICE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Another record price was established on the cotton exchange today when December contracts sold at 40 cents a pound on continued covering at the opening of the market. This made an advance of 1.50 a bale over yesterday's closing quotations and an increase of approximately .12 a pound over the low levels of last September.

Shortly after the start December dropped to 39.60 but was quickly bid back to 39.95 with the later positions holding strong at a net advance of about 30 points.

The .40 price for December seemed to attract a good deal of profit taking. December broke to 39.85 or 35 points net lower while January sold off to 36.82 and March to 34.73 or 10 to 20 points net lower late in the morning.

Slight early afternoon rallies met renewed liquidation or realizing, with January selling off to 36.75, March 34.85 and May 32.78 or 15 to 48 points net lower. December broke to 39.39 or 80 points from the early high.

BANKS ENTER PROTEST AGAINST BOND RULING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—A meeting of representatives from 150 California banks to protest against a ruling by the State banking department concerning bond prices has been called to meet here Saturday.

Notices of the meeting were sent out today by Robert Brown, an official of the California National Bank and secretary of the bankers' State organization.

The ruling against which protest will be made is one fixing depreciation amounts that must be charged against bonds which the state has approved as legal investment for banks.

DEMAND VERY DULL ON PRODUCE MARKET.

WIDE SPREAD IN PRICES FOR MANY COMMODITIES, DUE TO SLOW TRADING.

While fancy grades of produce held firm at Tuesday's quotations for the most part, many dealers on the produce market yesterday were offering good quality produce at prices considerably lower than those of the preceding day's session. During the early hours of trading the demand was active and prices held firm, but toward the end of the session a wide spread of prices was in evidence. This was due to the fact that demand fell off very sharply after the first arrivals were disposed of and many dealers were willing to sell their stock at lower prices despite the fact that the quality of their offerings graded good or better.

Green beans of good quality were sold as low as 15 cents per pound by some dealers, others holding for Tuesday's price of 18 cents. The inferior offerings moved at prices averaging 12 cents per pound. The same condition was reflected in the market for cabbage. Sales were made as low as $2.25 per crate for the fancy products, while other dealers held firm at prices ranging from $2.50 to $4 per crate, the quotations of Tuesday's session. Parsnips by the sack sold as low as $1.60, with the top price for practically the same grade at $2.50.

Cauliflower was a little firmer yesterday owing to the fact that supplies were scarce. The present cold weather is said to be retarding arrivals and dealers are having some difficulty in obtaining enough of this commodity to fill the demand. Most of yesterday's sales were made at $2.50, the top figure of the preceding day's session. Peas ranged from 15 to 20 cents per pound in price, according to quality and condition.

The market for fruit holds steady, with demand for all varieties very active. Oranges for the most part sold for 14 cents per pound, although some of the poorer offerings passed into the hands of the retailer for prices averaging 12 cents per pound. Citrus fruit remained firm. Pears advanced in price for all grades. Most of the offerings at the present time are being drawn from storage, but the quality is generally very good. No. 1 Bartletts sold for 11 cents per pound, as a wholesale of 2 cents, while No. 2 Bartletts brought prices averaging from 9 to 10 cents per pound, this price being 3 cents per pound higher than previous quotations.

GRAIN PRICE LOWER IN CHICAGO MARKET.

RUSH IN EARLY MORNING BUYING FOLLOWED BY SHARP DECLINE IN FUTURES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—A setback to the advancing tendency of grain values came today due to the market being overbought and the increased disposition among traders to take profits in a market in which the short interest had been well curtailed.

The late selling and decline was due to the report that Secretary of the Treasury Glass had announced that the government would not finance export business in the future. Numerous rumors regarding a settlement of the coal strike were also circulated which did not foment dation. Closing trades were well toward the trade with losses of 1⅛ to 2¼ cents on corn; 1¼ to 1⅝ cents on oats, ¾ to 2 cents on rye and 1 to 4 cents on barley futures. Outside corn markets were weak.

A report to the effect that the government would not finance export sales of various commodities, combined with heavy profit taking sales and rumors that the coal strike was settled, resulted in sharp breaks in corn, with the close around the bottom, after a bulge of 1½ to 2¾ cents early. An accumulation of overnight buying orders was responsible for the early advance. After the opening rush the market became dull, and local traders in

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Stock exchange dealings today were almost the smallest, both as to volume and scope, in many weeks, but the movement until the final hour, when rails eased moderately, was one of almost steady strength.

Trading retained all of its recent professional aspects, aside from the early demand for rails. Several industrials, including United States Steel, were similarly favored, according to board-room gossip.

The fuel shortage, as reported by various authorities, has caused further serious curtailment of steel and iron production, leading manufacturers having virtually closed their sales departments. Banking interests professed not to be in accord with the views of the Secretary of the Treasury, who stated in his annual report that the problem of financing the European countries desolved upon private interests and not the government.

Motors, steel, equipment, comprised the bulk of the day's dealings. General Motors, Texas Company, Mexican Petroleum and Crucible Steel again setting a pace for others of those groups at extreme gains of four to ten points.

Shipping, leathers, tobaccos, coppers and allied metals, also food issues trailed along in desultory fashion, losing some of their advantage in the customary profit-taking movement at the close. Sales amounted to 625,000 shares.

Liberty issues rallied slightly on reduced offerings, but the general list, including the international division, was irregular. Total sales, par value, aggregated $20,700,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Bar silver, 74¾d per ounce. Money 2¾ per cent.

BARLEY DEMAND SLOW; PRICES DECLINE.

Traders on the local grain exchange gave most of their attention to milo yesterday, on which most of the interest now centers. Barley was comparatively inactive, owing to the fact that many of the dealers figure that it has now reached its high point, and is due for a slump. At the close of the session, May barley was offered at $3.50, with no takers at that price. A similar condition existed in the Chicago and San Francisco markets, both of which showed signs of weakness for this cereal. Chicago declined 4 points for May barley, while the fall in San Francisco amounted to 2¾ points.

Immediate shipment barley was 25 cents per ton lower, with futures from 25 to 50 cents per ton below Tuesday's prices. May barley closed 75 cents per ton lower than the preceding day's quotations, selling at $3.52¾, and $2.56. All January barley brought $2.52. Initial sales were made in barley for June delivery, 100 tons of which sold for $2.02¾.

Milo for immediate shipment was 25 cents per ton higher, with a car for ten days' delivery bringing $3.08¾. Futures were unchanged, with December milo selling for $3.08¾ and $3.07¾.

Sales during the session amounted to 700 tons of milo and 400 tons of barley. A car of corn chop meal was sold for $54.50, hygeria brought 23.13¾, and a car of No. 2 eastern white oats, bulk, sold for $2.87½.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE REVIEW.

doubtless some good bargains to be picked up at this time, but they are by no means certain what they are. The insiders don't know any more about it than the outsiders. Result—light trading and a good deal of heavy waiting for something to happen. The oils yesterday averaged slightly firmer than the day before, with the exception of Union, which was apparently weaker. "Apparently," because there were some indications that the decline was not altogether purposeless and may be followed by a buying movement of importance. At any rate, this issue opened at $176.50 and sold off during the day to $175.50. Union of Delaware was stronger, with sales at $36.25, half a point over the Tuesday close. Mascot was active under a strong buying demand and advanced from an opening $2.15 to afternoon sales at $2.22. Amalgamated was bid at $92, but no stock was offered. Republic Petroleum was fractionally stronger and appeared to be in better shape than on Tuesday. There was quite active trading the price advancing from 28½ to 28 3-4 cents. United opened at 17½ cents, moved up to 73 and reacted to a close at 72 cents. Premier was steady at 58 cents and Associated rather weak, registering a 1-point decline, from $108 to $107. Bonds continued weak, but with somewhat larger volume. Second 4 1-4s were at $91.50, second 4s at $90.62½ and fourth 4 1-4s at $92. Telluride featured the mining list, and was a good trader at 25 and 26 cents. Tom Reed sold down to $1.60 and United Eastern held its own around $3.90. Industrials were very quiet, about the only movement being in Los Angeles Investment at 88 and 89 cents. Bank clearings were $10,275,627.51, an increase of $3,879,229.65 over the corresponding day a year ago.

Elements Interfere.

There continues to be considerable interference in telegraphic connection with Eastern markets because of storm conditions. Disarrangements and omissions of The Times market quotations may be attributed to this cause.

Eagle Rock
Richfield
Ventura

Without doubt, you know something of these three oil fields—Eagle Rock, at the edge of Los Angeles, where development work can be seen by any who car to visit the field by street car or auto—Richfield, famed for its gushers, where only last Sunday another gusher was added to those which have characterized this field—Ventura County, where oil production is as steady and certain as in any known field.

The Beatty Oil and Development Company opened the Eagle Rock Field with its 300 acre lease; holds 10 acres in the heart of the wonderfully productive Richfield Gusher District; and 1000 acres in Ventura County, which are already affording some production. This company is headed by men who are familiar with oil development work, and who are recognized as being capable and energetic.

Shareholders in the Beatty Company are to a great extent increasing their holdings of shares, which is a pretty good indication of their faith in the policy and plans of the company.

You can still secure shares in the Beatty Oil and Development Company at 75c (par value $1.00, non-assessable.) Every opportunity of investigation and inquiry into the company is open to you. Autos leave our office daily for our holdings. The blank below will bring you full information if mailed to us. Send it now.

"Placentia Richfield Central"

50,000 Shares of Its Stock at 75c—par $1.

This company offers the investor shares in lease holdings on what is believed to be the crown of this oil structure near which two of the big companies are now sinking wells and from reports which have come to us concerning the logs of the wells that are going down it seems that they check about the same as those already finished and producing oil.

All wells which have come in so far in this field are of the gusher type and only last Saturday another one on the Midway Petroleum lease responded to the excellent reputation of this district by going over the derrick.

A gusher in this field flowing 2500 barrels per day for one year would produce an income of $1,140,620 and we are informed that there are wells there which produce much more.

"Placentia Richfield Central" has over forty acres in the splendid field, which is only nine months old, and of this the balance of its second allotment of 50,000 shares at 75c. Par value $1.00.

Cars will leave our office daily for a trip to the oil field, which is only 35 miles from this city, and you can see for yourself at our expense the rapid development which is in progress there.

Put your money with ours and be in a position to share the returns from this proven field.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO AID RED CROSS SALE.

WILL PARADE AND AROUSE INTEREST IN BUYING CHRISTMAS STAMPS.

More than 100 children of the Ann-street school will give a neighborhood parade at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the Red Cross Christmas seal sale. Miniature floats and fancy costumes, designed by the youngsters, will feature the parade.

Friday will be Red Cross Christmas seal sale day in the city schools and the parade will be a forerunner of this event. The seals sell for 1 cent apiece and large numbers of sales will be made, the general committee believes.

Proceeds for the sale will be used by the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association in its fight to prevent tuberculosis among Los Angeles children. The task of supplying fresh milk to twenty anaemic children at Ann-street school every day is only one small item in this preventive work, the committee announced yesterday.

"Quick, Satisfactory Service"

Why? The answer is "just enough Turkish"

Fatima steadily outsells the straight Turkish cigarettes because in Fatima's famous blend the heaviness of "too much Turkish" is entirely absent. Even if a man smokes more than usual, Fatimas taste right and leave him feeling right. In a word, Fatima contains neither too much nor too little, but "Just enough Turkish."

Prove it for yourself. Try smoking just enough Turkish.

... and at Palm Beach

A fact:

Here at Palm Beach—smartest, perhaps, of all winter resorts—Fatima has for two seasons held the sales-leadership formerly enjoyed by the expensive, fancy-boxed straight Turkish cigarettes.

Instruction in Photoplay Writing

THE richest market in the world today for original story material is the photoplay market. Producers are scouring the country far and wide for story ideas that can be successfully made into moving pictures. Acceptable stories readily command $100 to $2000. One Palmer student sold his first play for $3000. Others have received from $350 to $1000 for their stories. Still others have obtained lucrative staff scenario positions and are now working in Los Angeles studios. The Palmer Plan of Photoplay Writing enables the student to master photoplay fundamentals through correspondence instruction without loss of time or present position.

The Advisory Council

Directing the educational policy of the institution is an Advisory Council comprising CECIL B. DeMILLE, Director-General of the Famous Players-Lasky Corp.; THOMAS H. INCE, head of the Ince Studios; LOIS WEBER, Producer, Director and Author, and ROB WAGNER, Special Contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and Screen Authority.

The Sales Service

The Photoplay Sales Department serves as a connecting link between the writer and the buyers of stories. Material accepted for marketing is handled strictly on a commission basis. Writers are invited to investigate the unusual features of this service, which include registration, editing and personal representation at the studios. This department is headed by Kate Corbaley, well-known photo-playwright and author. Affiliated with the bureau are Bess Meredyth and Anne Scott, comprising the Bess Meredyth Exchange.

BIRTHDAY OF "THE TIMES."

World's Greatest Newspaper Once Little Folio.

Keeps in the Van of Amazing Growth of City.

Thirty-eight-Year Period of Eventful Progress.

Today The Los Angeles Times enters upon its thirty-ninth year. Today The Times is not only the biggest newspaper on earth but it is bigger and more comprehensive than ever before in its history. Last Sunday's Times, consisting of 182 pages, was the largest regular Sunday issue of a newspaper ever published.

In the comparatively brief period of thirty-eight years, since it was published The Times has paricipated in the amazing growth and progress of the City of Los Angeles, fast growing metropolis of the West. There are men and women in Los Angeles who recall Los Angeles as a town of about 12,000 inhabitants when The Times was first issued as a little folio sheet.

Then, as now, Los Angeles was blessed with matchless climatic conditions, surrounded with natural resources of incalculable value and richly favored as to location, but the town was then in its swaddling clothes. The 100,000 population mark then seemed more remote than does now the 1,000,000 or even the 2,000,000 mark.

Those thirty-eight years have been eventful and fruitful for Los Angeles. They have seen the passing, in a bewildering succession of changes, from small town conditions to metropolitan activities that extend their ramifications to all quarters of the globe. Statisticians estimate that Los Angeles now has a population of 700,000 people. Even the most conservative place the figure far in excess of 650,000.

VILLAGE TO METROPOLIS.

Bank transactions in 1881 amounted to very little and building operations were confined to the erection of a few small buildings. Bank clearances this year are considerably in excess of $1,500,000,000, and approximately $25,000,000 is being expended in the construction of residences, massive business buildings and great industrial plants. There is a wide disparity betwen the little postoffice of 1881 and the Los Angeles postoffice today with its business of $10,000,000 a year. A single industry here now employs more people than then comprised the entire population.

Then Los Angeles was an occasionally referred-to dot on the map. Now the whole world knows of Los Angeles, for its home-built ships, bearing Southern California products, girdle the globe. Its roots imbedded deeply in the rich Southland soil, breathing the bracing, energy-compelling air of the West, Los Angeles has towered in stature until it occupies a position among the great cities of the nation.

GROWTH OF "THE TIMES."

And, as Los Angeles waxed big and strong, The Times has maintained its position in the vanguard of progress, working for the development, growth and strength of the community. It has ever been and will continue to be the policy of The Times to support and accelerate the forward march of the community without alliance with any class or clique.

The Los Angeles Times published its first edition December 4, 1881 Gen. Harrison Gray Otis became principal owner and editor on August 1, 1882, and in that year the size of the paper was enlarged. In 1887 The Times had grown to standard quarto seven-column size with the full report then issued by the Associated Press. In 1888 the Sunday issue of The Times consisted of sixteen newspaper pages, regarded at that time as a great newspaper edition but small, indeed, compared with the mammoth issue of last Sunday.

From the beginning The Times met the big issue of the day squarely and fearlessly. Its battle for industrial freedom, fought unceasingly and victoriously, was begun in 1890. From its first issue The Times has been Republican in political policy. Gen. Otis passed away July 30, 1917.

NEW COUNCILMEN AT SANTA BARBARA.

PREFERENTIAL BALLOT MAKES BIG TASK FOR ELECTION OFFICIALS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 3.—James E. Sloane, Capt. George M. McGuire and S. L. Buck were elected as Councilmen at the municipal election yesterday to succeed G. M Mickelson, James Berns and Charles McDermott, whose terms expire January 1.

Canvass of the ballots was not completed until this morning. Under the charter the city has a preferential ballot, which gives the voter first, second and third choice, and to win election on the first choice the candidate must receive a majority of all the votes cast. Buck received this majority, the other two being elected on a total of their first and second-choice votes. There were ten candidates in the field.

TELL THRILLING TALE OF RESCUE.

LUMBER BOAT PICKS UP FISHING CRAFT WITH BROKEN ENGINE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 3.—Details of a thrilling rescue from an awful death at sea were told today when the steamship Helen P. Drew docked here this morning.

The men gave their names as A. K. Hewston of Las Vegas and William McKnight of San Francisco. They had left the Bay City November 21 in a power launch for a fishing trip and expected to be gone only a short time. The engine gave way and they were at the mercy of the sea. They drifted down the coast and were off Point Sur, which is a short distance south of Pacific Grove, when the steamer sighted them.

The men were said to be in a pitiful state of exhaustion when found, as they were not rescued until the morning of December 2, eleven days after leaving the Golden Gate.

The launch was fastened to the steamer to tow it into port, but a storm off Point Concepcion was encountered and the launch was lost. The men had some provisions and water, but only enough for two days' ordinary rations. They used their supplies sparsely, and made them last as long as possible. The launch was a thirty-horse-power sloop and was a rented boat. The men were assisted by the boatmen, it is said, and left at once for their northern homes.

The Helen P. Drew is a lumber vessel bringing in a cargo from Greenwood, Cal.
